DRIVER WHO KILLED CHILD VIEWS BODY

Autoist Who Ran Machine Into Crowd, Mangling Girl to Death and Wounding 4 Others, Taken to Morgue

Police Declare Man and Wife Intoxicated When Their Car Inflicted Death and Injury at Safety Station

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—"This is the baby you killed last night. Yesterday this little girl was playing, full of life. Today she lies mangled and dead on the morgue slab you sent her to last night. Observe carefully the work you have done."

Coroner T. B. W. Leland was the speaker, and Charles Buckley, 956 Cole street, under arrest for driving a machine while intoxicated, was forced to gaze into the face of the baby, Marion Newton, of 3759 Seventeenth street, whom his machine killed last night.

The scene in the morgue when Buckley whose only remark last night, according to the police, was "It's too bad my machine was smashed up," was one of the most dramatic in the annals of police work here and the sight of the broken little figure on the slab moved even attaches, hardened to suffering of all sorts. Buckley showed no emotion, coroner's officials said.

TAKEN FROM CELL TO VIEW REMAINS

Buckley was taken from his cell early this morning by Coroner Leland and ushered to the morgue for the purpose of bringing forcefully to his mind the results of reckless driving and operation of a machine while under the influence of liquor.

The procedure was set by the coroner in the hope that Buckley might learn a lesson by gazing upon the form of this dead four-year-old whose head was crushed and body mangled when, with her parents, she was standing on a Market street safety station last night. He had previously been held in $10,000 bonds by Police Judge McAfee and given a stern lecture the court ordering him to make the trip to the morgue.

Buckley, who the police say was intoxicated, who with his wife, was arrested on that charge, is said by the identification bureau to be Charles F. Fenton, who served fourteen months on McNeil Island for white slavery. He was sent from Portland, Ore., on August 2, 1914.

BUCKLEY'S MACHINE SWINGS INTO CROWD.

Last night little Marion stood with her father and mother, Fred and Mrs. Agatha Newton, on a Market street safety station. Near the party, returning from the California Industries Exposition at the Civic Auditorium were W. H. Redding and Mrs. Robert Rainey.

As the party awaited the arrival of a street car Buckley was driving west on Market street. It was nearly midnight and there was little traffic on the street.

Suddenly Buckley's machine swerved into the base of the monument erected in honor of San Francisco's Spanish-American war veterans and swung from there directly into the crowd at the safety station.

The child was directly in the path of the oncoming machine, and was crushed beneath its wheels. In a second the safety station resembled a shambles. The Buckley automobile plowed its way through the crowd, finally coming to a stop.

Four persons had been seriously injured and Marion was dead. Women were screaming and cursing men surrounded the automobile, bent on doing bodily harm to the occupants, Buckley and his wife, when the police arrived and rescued them.

CRIES OF "LYNCH HIM" FOLLOW SLAYER AND WIFE

Cries of "lynch him" followed the slayer and his wife as the police in hollow square with drawn clubs escorted the pair to the waiting patrol.

The injured were taken to the Central Emergency hospital, where their injuries are diagnosed as serious. Fred Newton, a chauffeur, the baby's father, sustained a crushed chest and internal injuries. Mrs. Newton has a broken hip and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Robert Rainey, 54, 2439 Washington street, has a broken right ankle and shock, and W. H. Redding, 2429 Washington street, has a broken ankle and other injuries.

According to the police report Buckley's only comment on the accident was regret that his machine was damaged.

The case against Mrs. Buckley was dismissed by Police Judge O'Brien.

FURNITURE MEN OPEN CONVENTION

Furniture men of California in session here were termed "benefactors of the human race," by George C. Pardee of Oakland, former governor, when he delivered the address of welcome at the opening of the annual three-day convention of the Retail Furniture Association of California at the Hotel Oakland today.

The speaker was introduced by C. F. Thompson of Oakland, chairman of the general arrangements committee, immediately after the first meeting got under way.

After Dr. Pardee had concluded his address, H. A. Saxe of San Francisco, president of the association, took over the meeting and officially called it to order. The president followed this with his annual report.

Before the initial session was begun Saxe predicted that the meeting would be one of the most successful from the standpoint of business which will be transacted and enthusiasm manifested by the members, in the association's history.

There was a total of 250 delegates registered, 100 more than was expected.

"Oakland is glad, mighty glad, that you have honored us by your presence here," said Pardee, in welcoming the visitors to the city. "We are proud, mighty proud, that you have selected our city as your meeting place. You have greatly honored us, and we appreciate the distinction very much.

Those who furnish furniture are benefactors to the human race. They deal in not a few of civilization's necessities. They make life easier to live. They give us a thousand-and-one things that make for that ease which permits us to find time and opportunity for always greater accomplishments. Were it not for you and your bretheren, mankind would still be sitting at uncomfortable camp-fires, devouring its food, instead of enjoying it around the pleasantly-accoutered family dinner table. But for you, Gentlemen of the Furniture Business, we would still be sitting upon the hard, cold ground, instead of reclining at ease upon the comfortable chairs that invite the weary and seduce the lazy. But for you, we would still be doing our business, not at convenient desks, pigeon-holed for our ease, but, carrying our business papers in our hats, would still be doing our barter-trade on the street corners exposed to all the tricksy inclemencies of the weather. But for you, there would be no stenographers, no typewriters, no telephones, no wireless outfits, no luxurious steamships or sleeping cars. For how could there be any of these most necessary things without tables and desks and chairs and beds and all the furniture that make them possible? Books, too, the solace of those who love to learn what others know, could not be so easily at our command, were it not for your aid in giving us furniture in which to house them

REMOVAL OF GEN. SAWYER IS DEMANDED

Naval Base at Alameda Also Demanded in Resolution On Naval Affairs; Neglect Called Criminal Negligence

CONVENTION HALL, NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press).—A naval base at Alameda, Cal., is demanded in a resolution of acceptance of the Legion's report on naval affairs adopted b the Amercan Legion here today.

CONVENTION HALL, NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press) —Rem val of Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, President Harding's personal physician, from his post as co-ordinator of the Federal Bureau of Hospitalization, was demanded by the American Legion national convention here today by a vote of 601 to 375. He was accused of blocking the legion hospitalization plan.

When the roll was called on the resolution demanding the removal of General Sawyer, the California delegation gave a solid vote of 24 "yes." Washington gave her four votes in favor of removal, but Oregon voted 14 "no." The votes of other state delegations were split.

The resolution, as presented by Department Commander Barren of Minnesota, charged utter unfitness" The attack was inspired by the report of Rice Means of Colorado, of the national rehabilitation committee, which accepted "the pledge of co-operation," given by General Sawyer.

"Declaring that an armistice has been signed," and that 'it's time to stop fighting," Adolphus Graupner of San Francisco spoke against Mr. Barren's resolution.

A dameand from the floor that a statement be made as to whether General Sawyer had signed an agreement in writing, was answered by Colonel A. A. Sprague of Chicago, chairman of the rehabilitation committee, who said the committee had taken General Sawyer "on his word." Colonel Sprague said he believed General Sawyer had been mistakingly maligned. He asked a vote against Barren's resolution.

MINNESOTA MAN STANDS FIRM.

Adjutant Stafford King of the Minnesota department, was recognized by Past National Commander Emery, who was called to the chair by General Foreman.

"Not a damn cent has been spent in Minnesota," King said, "although statement after statement has been made that the money has been allocated. As for me, if I am the only man to voice antagonism to General Sawyer, I'll voice it."

"I can tell you of buddies dying on the steps of hospitals in Minnesota waiting to get in," King continued. "I hope and pray this amendment may be adopted."

Department Commander W. B. Miller of the District of Columbia said he had seen General Sawyer before he left Washington.

"'Honest to God,'" he said Sawyer told him, "'I'm with you. The statement in the papers was my statement. I'll go all the way.'"

Tumult on the floor prevented Chairman Emery from putting Barren's amendment to a vote, and T. J. Brady of New York reached the platform.

GROWLS STOP OHIO OBJECTIONS.

"It would be futile," he said, "if the Legion demand that Harding remove Sawyer. If Harding does not remove him, where are we?"

Growls from all parts of the vast hall stopped Bettman.

Y. O. Mathen, of Texas, spoke against "damning anyone unless you can get them. The president has stated definitely he will not remove Sawyer, so all your resolutions won't do any good. The thing we must do is ride Sawyer and ride him and ride him until he does what we want him to do."

This attack was brought on when the interstate hospitalization committee produced a conservation report, which avoided further condemnation of the policy of Brigadier General Sawyer, head of the Hospitalization Board. Delegations of fourteen states had presented resolutions severely criticizing him.

This victory of the "conservative" element in the convention brought to attention the fact that the interstate hospitalization committee would present a report to the convention today approving the solving of the General Sawyer controversy over the government's treatment of sick and dis-

201 I. W. W. DRIVEN OUT AT PORTLAND

Squads of Wobblies Deported Under Suspended Sentences After Rapid Fire Jury Trials Are Given

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 19—(By the Associated Press).—Suspended sentences of 90 days each were being imposed today by Municipal Judge Wm. Ekwall upon 201 men arrested by the police last night following announcement by Mayor George L. Baker that the police had been ordered to round up alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World connected with a strike of longshoremen called by that organization here. The police announced that the prisoners would be taken to the city limits and allowed to leave.

Three parties were to be escorted from the jail, one to the southern limits, one to the eastern limits and one to the interstate bridge across the Columbia river near here. Of the 201 men who remained in jail overnight only about half had bunks and the rest overflowed into the corridors, as the jail has sleeping accommodations for only 120.

WHOLESALE RAIDS DURING NIGHT.

The arrests were made by the authorities in wholesale raids in sections of the city where most of the dockworkers reside and when the men had been checked over at the police station, 225 men, most of whom were believed to be members of the Marine Transport Industrial Union No. 510, this city, were held in jail on charges of vagrancy. The others were released.

William Ford, said to be head of the Portland I. W. W. organization, was among those arrested. He was later released on $500 bail furnished by Frank Cornell, a member of International Longshoremen's Union here.

Two of the men arrested, according to the police, were identified as I. W. W. organizers from Chicago. Their names were given as Elmer Hanson and Swen Swanson.

George Quinlaher, secretary of the Portland branch of the I. W. W., also was taken into custody.

"ON TO PORTLAND" WAS SLOGAN.

Reports in the hands of the officials were said to show that I. W. W. papers in various parts of the country have adopted the slogan "On to Portland," and that plans call for the immediate march of more than 25,000 members of the organization to Portland and other points on the Pacific Coast.

During the conference held yesterday in the mayor's office word was sent to the city council concerning the situation and an ordinance appropriating $10,000 for the immediate hire of 74 special officers to aid in combatting the I. W. W. was passed as an emergency act.

Within an hour after the conference had ended police officers and men from the sheriff's office were busy combing the city for members of the I. W. W. who are known to be active in the present waterfront strike and also in meeting freight trains that are said to be loaded with "wobblies."

One incoming freight train was said to have harbored more than fifty.

Liner Afire at Sea; Passengers Rescued

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE, LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 19.—The passenger steamer Concord, of the Colonial line, bound from New York to Providence, caught fire early today off Watch Hill. The passengers were removed safely to the freighter Mohegan and brought to this city. At last reports the crew of the Concord had the flames under control.

Captain George Webb ordered S. O. S. signals sounded and it was in response to these that the Mohegan arrived on the scene. The Concord carried 116 passengers. The Concord and the Mohegan arrived at Providence some hours after the fire was extinguished.

May Have Taylor's Body Re-Examined

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 19.—In an effort to prove he is the son of William Desmond Taylor, murdered movie director, William Edward Taylor, 34, may have the body of the elder Taylor exhumed for examination for scars of wounds which he claimed his father received here years ago.

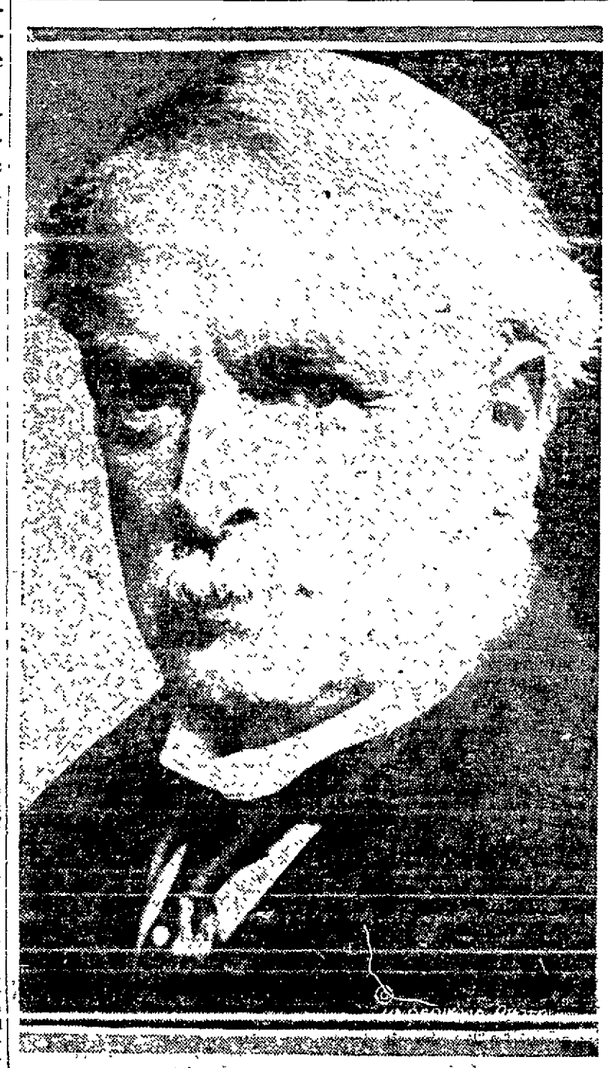

Taylor has been here several days looking up past records in an attempt to show that the former movie director married Olive Randall here in 1884. Taylor claims he is the son of these two and is attempting to break the will of the murdered director.

Premier Lloyd George and Cabinet Quit When Repudiated

Andrew Bonar Law Is Appointed Prime Minister and Accepts

The Old Premier and the New

STORY FRAMED, SAYS WITNESS

Earl Coburn, Prisoner, Testifies Castor Said Wilkens Was Innocent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Additional testimony tending to establish the contention of the defense that the charge of conspiracy to murder his wife, lodged against Henry Wilkens, was the result of a plot engineered between Arthur Castor and Attorney William F. Herron, struck a snag in Superior Judge Louis Ward's court today. Earl Coburn, county jail prisoner, convicted of embezzlement, testified that Castor had confessed to him that Wilkens had nothing to do with the killing but immediately thereafter was forced to admit that he had lied to the district attorney and had denied that Castor had made the statement.

On the day following a summons from the district attorney's office, in which he was questioned as to whether Castor had talked to him about the case, he wrote a long letter to Attorney Frank Murphy in which he revealed Castor's alleged disclosures.

SAYS CASTOR DENIED GUILT.

Attorney Frank Murphy, counsel for Wilkens, asked Coburn:

"Between June 23 and June 30 in the county jail did Arthur Castor say to you that Henry Wilkens had nothing to do with the case and that it was an inside job?"

"He did," was the reply.

"Did he not say to you that he made his confession at the instigation of William F. Herron as well as for a monetary consideration of $50007"

"Yes."

"And did he say that there were three persons in the holdup, the third a close friend who was absolutely safe?"

"Yes."

"And did he say that the district attorney and Golden and Herron knew Walter Castor and could lay hands on him at any time?"

"Yes, sir."

Assistant District Attorney Golden started after Coburn at once. "You remember being called to the district attorney's office and being questioned in the presence of a shorthand reporter, Sergeant McConnell, Gallivan and McGrath and you were asked as to whether you had talked to Henry Wilkens and what was your answer?"

"I said 'No,'" responded Coburn.

"And you told us the truth?"

"No, sir."

"You lied to us?"

"Yes, sir."

Then it was that Golden developed that Coburn had been Henry

TERROR REIGNS AT VLADIVOSTOK

Foreigners Flee to Consulates As "Red" Army Closes In On Port.

TOKYO, Oct. 19.—(By the Associated Press.) — Lawlessness reigns in Vladivostok as the result of the approach of a victorious "red" army, official despatches say. The French consulate was attacked yesterday, and foreigners have appealed to their government's for protection. The American consul has engaged as a refuge for Americans a building flying the American flag and guarded by the guns of an American cruiser.

Two Japanese cruisers and three Japanese destroyers also are in Vladivostok harbor to aid in the protection of foreigners.

Recent reports have related the practical annihilation of the "white" guards under General Deiterichs. The invading army of the Far Eastern republic of Siberia apparently was marching on Vladivostok unhindered, and the capture of the Siberian port was expected momentarily.

General Dieteriess and all his officers who are able to reach Vladivostok in their flight before the victorious "Reds" will embark on transports for China, October 20, according to official despatches received today from Vladivostok.

The administration of the city, pending the entry of the "Red" forces of the Far Eastern Republic, will be left in the hands of the municipal assembly.

WELSHMAN FORCED FROM OFFICE BY OPPONENTS AFTER SIX YEAR TERM

NEW CHIEF SUGGESTED TO KING BY OLD

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(By The Associated Press.)—Andrew Bonar Law has consented to form a ministry in succession to the ministry of Prime Minister Lloyd George, the Evening News says. King George summoned Bonar Law, asking him to undertake the task, declares the newspaper, and Bonar Law agreed.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(By International News Service.)—A. Bonar Law, Unionist, consented to accept the premiership, conditionally upon the Conservatives electing him to leadership, according to an announcement late this evening.

By LLOYD ALLEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—David Lloyd George resigned as Prime Minister of Great Britain this afternoon. He presented his resignation to King George at Buckingham Palace after the Unionist caucus which met at the Carlton Club repudiated his ministry, by a vote of 186 to 87. This marks the end of the coalition government—comprised of the Liberal and Unionist parties—which came into being during the world war.

It is understood Lloyd George advised King George to invite Bonar Law to form a ministry.

BONAR LAW PREMIER'S STRONGEST SUPPORTER.

Bonar Law was the active leader of the Unionist party until about a year ago, when his health broke down. At that time, the reins of leadership passed to Austen Chamberlain, the parliamentary leader of the coalition and keeper of the privy seal.

Law was the leader of the opposition in the House of Commons between 1911 and 1915. He was Lloyd George's strongest Conservative supporter from the time of the reformation of the coalition in the midst of the war and until 1921, when Bonar Law took his physicians' advice and went into retirement.

BONAR LAW'S SUCCESS WITH MINISTRY DOUBTED.

It was considered improbable by some observers that Bonar Law will be able to form a ministry, because, to be successful, he would have to command a majority in the House of Commons.

This would mean that many Liberals would have to vote in favor of Bonar Law, a Conservative.

Lloyd George is to meet his Liberal supporters in a caucus at 10 Downing street at 6 p. m.

Austen Chamberlain also has called a caucus of the Conservative supporters of the premier.

At these conferences it will be decided what attitude is to be taken toward the successor of Lloyd George.

In case Bonar Law is unable to bring the various factions together to form a ministry, it is possible that King George might summon Lloyd George to form a new government.

DEATH BLOW STRUCK BY CONSERVATIVE PARTY.

LONDON, Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press).—The Lloyd George Coalition received its death-blow at the hands of the Conservative party, when the Conservative members of the House of Commons and government ministers at their meeting in the Carlton Club today voted by 186 to 87 to appeal to the country as a Conservative party.

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The last of the great war statesmen went into eclipse today when Premier David Lloyd George of England resigned together with the rest of the coalition government. Lloyd George had been in power six years, lacking a few weeks. He succeeded Herbert Asquith in December, 1916, when the great war was raging.

After buffeting the grave crises of the great war and the troublesome "peace" era, and passing through the storms and strife of Ireland, the ministry succumbed at last to its enemies in the Unionist, or Conservative, party. It fell under the blows of Tories, supported by labor.

The Tory members of Parliament, under leadership of the "die hards," met at the Carlton club today and voted in favor of an immediate general election to create a new government and a new House of Commons.

All the eloquence of Austen Chamberlain, the old government spokesman in Commons, and Earl Balfour, former premier and former foreign secretary, could not stem the tide of hostility against the little Welsh statesman, whose wizardry and magnetism had pulled him through many a hard-fought political battle.

After the Tory conference today the cabinet hastily met at 10 Downing street, where about half a dozen under secretaries and ministers—all members of the Unionist party—handed in their resignations. The general resignation was drawn up and signed, and shortly after 4 o'clock Lloyd George started to hold a historic review with King George.

IN GOOD HUMOR ON WAY TO QUIT OFFICE.

The premier was in good humor; he smiled, waved his cane and bowed when crowds acclaimed him in the streets. At Buckingham Palace he greeted friends with cordial handshakings.

The king was absent when the political crisis reached its climax, but hastened back to London from Sandringham, where he was on a vacation.

The conference of Lloyd George and King George was brief. Still smiling breezily, the Welsh statesman returned from Buckingham palace to Downing street, where a delegation of miners was awaiting him.

"Gentlemen, I have the privilege to tell you that I am no longer premier," said Lloyd George. "I have resigned to the King and he has accepted."

TO TAKE LONG REST; MAY VISIT AMERICA.

Lloyd George told his friends that he is tired and wants a rest. War has been averted in the Near East and the Irish problem is out of the way and Lloyd George believes that the next premier will find it an easier job in the future than it has been in the past. The biggest problems are taxation, meeting the American debt and German indemnity.

David Lloyd George is one of the most spectacular figures in the long, stormy political history of England. It is claimed by many that he was "made" premier by the late Lord Northcliffe. At any rate, Northcliffe turned against him and for two years before his death, Lord Northcliffe thundered at the premier through the columns of his newspapers, attacking his policies and demanding his resignation.

After Northcliffe's death, his brother, Lord Rothermere, kept up the offensive. He said Lloyd George was steering the nation into another world war through the British Near East policy and pictures of the military graveyards in France with their countless crosses were printed.

Lloyd George plans a long rest and will do considerable writing. He has long wished to visit the United States and may do so later on.

Policy on Debts To U. S. to Stand

LONDON, Oct. 19 (By International News Service).—A change of government in Great Britain will not alter the British policy of paying the $4,277,000,000 which the British owe the United States, it was officially announced at the treasury department today.

WITNESS TELLS FRAME-UP TALE IN WILKENS CASE

Earl Coburn, Prisoner, Testifies Castor Said Defendant Was Innocent.

Wilkens' cellmate for two and a half months, although he claimed that he had had an agreement with Wilkens not to discuss the case. He admitted that the day after his interview with the district attorney he had written a letter to Murphy containing the revelations given in his direct examination. Asked why he had lied he said: "I realized that I was up for probation. Had I said anything detrimental to Walter Castor and in favor of Henry Wilkens, it would have been to my detriment. I also felt that the information should go to the defendant's counsel, when I had every reason to believe the district attorney and William F. Herron were trying to prove something that should not be proved."

The letter to Murphy was offered in evidence by stipulation that Castor's confession also should go into the record. Castor was brought from the county jail to testify as a defense witness.

Murphy called to the stand Mrs. Matilda Wright, a member of the Wilkens week-end outing party at Felton, who already had testified in the case, as had also her husband.

She declared that yesterday, at noon, two city detectives followed her from the court to the outside of Murphy's offices in the Kohl building. The night before, she said, a detective had followed her on the car when she was going home. Assistant District Attorney Leo Friedman moved that her revelations be stricken from the records as based upon her own conclusions and the court granted the motion.

Mrs. Wright then was interrogated by Attorney Murphy as to her movements and those of Wilkens during the time they were at Felton.

Last of War Chieftains To Relinquish His Post

Lloyd George outlasted all the statesmen who guided the great nations through the World War. In the turmoil of readjustment that followed that conflict, he kept his seat at the steering wheel when all around him were losing theirs.

The men with whom he sat at Paris as the "big four" of the peace conference long ago were toppled over. Premier Orlando of Italy was the first to go. His cabinet resigned in June, 1919. The following January, Clemenceau, the French "tiger," was cast aside. Two months later the senate of the United States refused for a second time to ratify the peace treaty Woodrow Wilson had brought home from Versailles, and not long afterwards his party was beaten at the polls.

OUTSTANDING FIGURE.

After all of the other three had been put aside in their countries Lloyd George became probably the most outstanding figure among all the men of the world who were engaged in public affairs. His position constantly in danger from a possible dropping away of one of the groups forming the coalition on which his government rested, was strengthened, so far as history is concerned after all the other war statesmen had gone, because it was he who acted as Great Britain's spokesman in the parleys last winter with the rebellious Irish leaders—parleys which led to the creation of the Free State, and peace after 700 years of strife between England and Erin.

The rise of Lloyd George was an adventure in politics filled with as much romance as the lives of famous Americans who came up from log cabins to the White House.

He was born in Manchester, England, January 17, 1863.

ORPHAN IN INFANCY.

His father, a Unitarian school master, died when David was an infant, and the child was adopted by an uncle. Richard Lloyd, a Welsh shoemaker, and lay preacher. With only a limited education, David went into a law office in the little town in North Wales where he lived with his uncle. Then he married and soon dived into politics.

For 18 years he was a Liberal member of parliament, representing Carnarvon. Then came a rapid rise to fame. His ascent to a place among the mighty began in 1908, when Asquith became prime minister. The little Welshman with the sparkling eyes entered the cabinet as chancellor of the exchequer. The next year in the great budget battle he routed the once powerful house of lords. His achievements in this fight was called "the first victory against the privileged citadel of wealth in the modern world."

With the coming on of the war Lloyd George convulsed the country by introducing drastic reforms in taxation, which put new burdens on the wealthy classes and confiscated part of the unearned increment of land.

PREMIER IN 1916.

In 1916, when England was threatened with strikes, at a time when Germany was scoring heavy successes on the western front, Lloyd George left the chancellorship of the exchequer to become minister of munitions, and "with no other equipment than a private secretary and an office table, staked his reputation and his future on mobilizing the industrial resources of the nation before it was too late."

In his tremendous task he succeeded and so when Kitchener of Khartoum was lost at sea the Welshman took his place as secretary of state for war. With Sir Eric Geddes he pushed into the work of reorganizing the railway system supporting the British armies in France. Then on December 6, 1916, he was called to the premiership.

Almost immediately he substituted a small compact war cabinet for the larger and more unwieldy ministry that had gone.

GIANT IN WAR WORK.

During the war he turned the industries of Great Britain into vast munition factories, raised an army of 5,500,000 men and organized 5,000,000 "war workers." He provided for construction of 4,000,000 tons of shipping, transferred the big estates into truck gardens and hospitals for recuperation and enforced conscription on a proud and free people. He followed up the collapse of Russia and the Italian debacle at Caperetto by rushing British troops to Siberia and Italy. He helped make it possible for the United States to transport 2,000,000 soldiers to the western front, and he was a big factor in the appointment of Marshal Foch as generalissimo of the allied forces.

ENFRANCHISED WOMEN.

His nationalization of shipping greatly mitigated the submarine menace. Other remarkable achievements of his regime include the enfranchisement of women, the institution of a minimum wage for farmers, and the initiation and successful prosecution of the Palestine expedition and the consequent downfall of Bulgaria and Turkey. The British prime minister took as notable a part in the conclusion of peace as he had taken in the winning of the war.

When the armistice negotiations were concluded he was there. When the peace conference assembled at Paris he went there as the head of the British delegation, and with President Wilson, Clemenceau, Orlando and Baron Chinda of Japan constituted the supreme council.

Even during the peace conference and almost daily for the next three years the Irish question gave Lloyd George great anxiety. He gained the bitter hatred of some and the admiration of others when conditions in Ireland grew so serious that he decided to deal with the situation in a military way and send the black and tans into the troubled country. He took the position that whatever freedom Ireland received she would have to remain within the empire and in this, too, he had his way.

FRIEND OF OPPRESSED.

In the appraisal of admirers, Lloyd George was frequently credited with having "always given to the poor and oppressed the first place in his heart."

It was frequently said of him that no statesman ever changed his mind on important questions as many times. By some he was regarded as an opportunist, who switched his position with great speed and dexterity whenever the band wagon seemed to turn in an unexpected direction. Nobody could ever tell what he was going to do next. Each time of the many that [illegible] the purposes and the government were under fire, the staunch little Welshman, not content with merely defending his position, hurled his stinging oratory in a fierce counterattack upon his critics.

He was always a popular figure and not even the Prince of Wales was photographed for the newspapers and magazines more often than the little Welshman who bore the title of prime minister.

abled veterans on the terms to which Sawyer has agreed.

These terms, as announced by Colonel A. A. Sprague, chairman of the hospitalization committee, were described by him as "satisfactory and harmonious," recognizing the Legion's hospitalization program which General Sawyer was said to have specifically endorsed, committing himself to full co-operation.

To appease the critics of Sawyer, a compromise was agreed to which accepted his stand "as sincere for the time being only."

Standards of eleven states, which held their membership at 100 per cent, or increased it last year, were decorated by National Vice-Commander McCormick. These states were Georgia, Arkansas, North Carolina, Missouri, New Mexico, Mississippi, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Utah, Louisiana and Iowa.

Dr. Bartlett of Virginia, bringing greetings from th Legion auxiliary conventon, declared the woman's organzation was "four square" behind the Legion's fight for adjusted compensation.

Mrs. Bartlett introduced Mrs. Jorgensen, delegate from Hawaii, who brought a garland to decorate the national commander. Facing the assembly, she raised the garland and said:

"Aloha, I love you," turned and raised the garland over the commander's head.

NAVAL REPORT ASKS BIG NAVY.

Adoption of the legion's report on naval affairs, committed the organization to the terms of the Washington conference and urged congress to appropriate sufficient funds to keep up navy craft and to keep a personal at 105,000 men or not less than 96,000.

Personal greetings from the Secretary of the Navy were conveyed to the Legion by Admiral McGruder, U. S. N.

"A strong merchant marine," the admiral said, "is the first element of a strong sea power. The second element is a strong navy and the third strong naval bases."

The admiral asked that the Legion "see to it" that merchant marine ships are manned "to a man by American seamen" and that they be paid a fair wage. He spoke for a naval reserve.

PERSHING APPEARS AS SPEAKER OF DAY.

General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, again today acknowledged the tribute of the forces he led in France, when he appeared as the day's chief speaker at the convention.

His appearance and fellowship with "the boys," as he termed them, shared chief interest among the legionaries with politics in connection with selection of a new national commander.

DISSOLUTION OF RAIL INUNCTION ASKED IN COURT

Attorney For Shopcrafts' Union Says Controversy No Longer Exists.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Motion for dissolution of the Daugherty injunction restraining leaders of the railroad shopcrafts' union from proceeding with their strike, was made before Judge James H. Wilkerson in federal court today.

Donald Richberg, attorney for the union, petitioned the court to dismiss the injunction on the following grounds:

1. That a large portion of railroads which are named in the petition asking an injunction have settled their dispute and there is no further controversy.

2. That the conditions set forth in the bill, if they did really exist, are not now in existence, and there is no further reason for continuing the restraining order.

Hearing on the motion was continued until tomorrow as the government was not represented. Attorney-General Daugherty is expected to be here personally for the argument.

At that time the court will also discuss submitting the entire case to a master in chancery.

Rejoicing in Paris Chamber at News

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(By International News Service.)—There were scenes of rejoicing in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon when news was received that Premier Lloyd George's resignation had been accepted. "This is the crowning event of France's diplomatic victory on the Near East question," said one deputy. The suggestion was made that the chamber suspend but it was rejected.

Predictions were made that Premier Poincare will get a landslide vote of confidence tomorrow as the English premier's resignation is regarded as a Poincare victory.

SISTER CAN'T KEEP HER BROTHER'S SECRET

"Really, Ethel, is that your brother Jim over there, dancing with Katherine? He doesn't look a bit natural. I was admiring him from the distance, not realizing it was my old friend, Jim. I thought he was a handsome stranger."

"That's a good one! I'll tell Jim you were all thrilled about the handsome new man at the dance, and were completely crushed when you found it was only him."

"Oh, don't tell him. He'd kid me to death about it the rest of my life."

"No, he wouldn't! He'd be quite pleased to think that you considered him handsome even for a minute—even if you did change your mind when you discovered who it was."

"Don't be so cruel as to tell your brother all that foolishness. Sisters are terribly mean, aren't they?"

"Oh, I don't know. Brothers are terrible teases themselves. Anyway, Jim thinks he's dolled up considerable tonight. You see, he has on a new suit, and, as this is the first time he's worn it, he's all self-conscious about it. If he finds out someone is admiring him in it, he will be pleased as Punch, so, you see, I am doing him a kindness in setting his mind at rest about his new suit."

DANCE HALL NEAR HOME PROTESTED

The report that L. C. Bunker has obtained an option on land adjoining the Del Valle farm for tubercular children at Livermore, for the purpose of constructing a dance hall and soft drink parlor, was called to the attention of the board of supervisors today.

The board was notified of this through a letter from the secretary of the Del Valle Farm Commission addressed to Roscoe D. Jones, chairman of that commission, and forwarded by Jones.

James Holland, secretary of the board, was instructed to notify Jones that no action could be taken to prevent establishment of the dance hall, but that the board would take quick action if there should ever be a violation of the law in the way it was conducted.

GRAPE TRAFFIC CHECK PLANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—An optimistic note in connection with efforts to save the entire grape crop of the state was sounded today coincident with the arrival here of C. F. Hoover, representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the refrigerator car situation rendered critical by the recent shopmen's strike. Hoover's coming is the direct result of a request made by the State Railroad Commission. He will investigate the entire refrigerator car situation and will keep record of the movement of cars not only for the present crisis but for future guidance. Three thousand refrigerator cars a day will be needed for the remainder of the month to transport the crops, it is said.

It was learned this morning that if sufficient cars can be obtained and if weather conditions continue fair until November 1, it is likely that most of the grape crop will be saved, as the growers have kept the fruit for the most part on the vines and the damage has not been so great as was expected.

PROBATION URGED IN SLAYING CASE

When Tony Alexander, one of the two defendants convicted of bringing about the death of William Reinking, former employee of the Athenian-Nile club, comes up for probation before Judge Church next week, Assistant District Attorney Frank Shay will recommend probation, he announced today.

Alexander was convicted of manslaughter and Frank Avilla of second degree murder. During the trial, Alexander testified against his co-defendant.

Reinking was killed when set upon by the two boys several months ago. The testimony showed that the attack was entrely unprovoked and that Avila struck the blow which resulted in Reinking's death.

Your Friends and Neighbors developed this wealth of Power

THE ENGINEERS of this Company, supported by the combined activities of over 8,000 employees, many of whom are your friends and neighbors, are responsible for the wealth of power now available in "Superior" California.

In no place in the world are there better electrical engineers than in this state. And in no part of the state are there engineers of greater ability more loyally supported than those connected with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

These flesh-and-blood people, who share the same human thoughts and aspirations with you, have surveyed rights of way in the heat and cold, have hewed roads through the wildest regions, have tunneled through earth and rock, have literally fought their way through thousands of hardships in order that more than enough power could be procured.

Today the P G and E's 32 power plants are equipped to generate 591,421 horsepower—much more than required to satisfy present demands.

When the entire Pit River project is completed in conformity with engineering plans, 475,871 additional horsepower will be ready to drive the wheels of industry, pump water on the lands, lighten the labor of housewives and make life more comfortable for all.

Thanks to the enterprise of such people, California has more and cheaper hydro-electric power than any other state. Our immediate need is to develop ways to USE more power.

VETERAN FAINTS DURING HEARING FOR PROBATION

Frank D. Freitas, Under Conviction For Auto Death, Attacked in Court.

A dramatic termination to a hearing for probation came today in the courtroom of Superior Judge George Samuels when Frank D Freitas, veteran of the world war and suffering from shell shock, fell in a faint in the courtroom The case was continued pending his recovery.

Freitas was seated in a chair and had listened to considerable testimony concerning his physical condition. Suddenly he slid to the floor, his face purple and his breath coming in gasps He was trembling and appeared unconscious His mother, Mrs Lillian Freitas, who was seated in the courtroom, began to cry hysterically and was led from the courtroom Freitas was picked up by bailiffs and court attaches and carried into Judge Samuels' chambers where he was attended by Dr C E Kurtz, county jail physician

Freitas was recently convicted of manslaughter as the result of his automobile running down Mrs Fredericka Perry, Oakland club woman Her body was caught on the windshield of the car and carried a distance of 125 feet, falling to the street, to be run over by the wheels of the auto She died shortly afterward The accident occurred on the night of April 30 1922, at Twelfth and Madison streets.

Attorney Fraank Carr, representing Freitas, today presented a petition signed by eleven of the ewelve jurors who heard the case, in which the court was asked to grant probation. He also read the argument, made by Deputy District Attorney Preston Higgins, at the time of the trial, in which he said that if the jury saw fit to recommend leniency the district attorney would not oppose it

Two physicians took the stand and testified to Freitas' condition The first was Major R E Graham, U S A, who testified to treating Freitas for shellshock at the Letterman General Hospital during 1921

Fight Reunites Veteran, Hero Who Saved Life

What threatened to develop today into a fistic combat, in the intersection of San Pablo avenue and Eighteenth street, between two motorists was turned into a reunion to two of America's fighting men in the world war.

Thomas Gerhart, of Placerville, was driving north on San Pablo and Joe Mesquith, driver for a local laundry, was driving west on Eighteenth street. There was a mixup in the intersection, some hot words between the drivers and both went to the curb with their cars. They met in the intersection, both coatless, ready to fight it out. Before any blows were struck, however, they recognized each other and shook hands.

According to Mesquith, who is a member of the local Legion post, the two were members of the 91st division, and at Very, in France, they were together in a bayonet and grenade battle. Gerhart was wounded and Mesqueth saved his life when a German was about to plunge a bayonet into his body. Gerhart went to the hospital and Mesqueth went ahead with his company

VICTOR IN FIGHT SLAIN BY LOSER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19—Carrying out his threat to kill W. D McCue of South Bunker Hill avenue, a former soldier, A Pompas, a laborer, secured a gun and shot McCue through the back while he was at work on the new postoffice building at Third and Central streets today. McCue had won in a fight with Pompas shortly before the shooting The laborer fired three shots, all of which took effect, and killed McCue instantly

Daughter of Nurse Gives Evidence Against Wife Who Denies Infants.

HAMMOND, Ind, Oct 19 — Catherine Griffiths, 17-year-old school girl, took the witness stand in the "doll murder" hearing today, and testified that 26-year-old Mrs Hazel McNally had shown her the twins, which the defendant denies were born to her and which her husband alleges she murdered

"I visited her shortly after the babies were born last December 8," the witness testified. "She was in bed with the babies on her left side. We talked about school and the baby clothes Later she picked up one of the babies and nursed it"

The witness is the daughter of Mrs Mary Griffiths a nurse, who had previously testified that she, too, saw the babies.

Miss Griffiths also told of a visit she paid to Mrs McNally before the time the twins were alleged to have been born

"Mrs McNall" was wearing a kimono," the girl testified "She called me to her and, placing my hand on her side, she said: 'This is the foot of the baby' I felt a decided movement"

After the twins were born the witness went on, she actually saw Mrs McNally nursing one of them while lying in bed

'Did she take up the babies" the witness was asked.

"She picked up one and nursed it"

"How far away were you?"

FURNITURE MEN OF STATE ATTEND CONVENTION HERE

and with which to surround them. Churches, schools, homes, offices would not, could not, be what they are but for you.

"Yes, civilization owes much to you, gentlemen of the California Furniture Dealers' Association. And Oakland, being at least partially civilized, welcomes you with all her heart! gratefully acknowledges her indebtedness to you; assures you, as the lords of the old-time California ranchos assured their welcomed guests, that all she has is yours; begs you to accept, in the spirit of old California, her poor but freely-offered hospitalities, and assures you that not only are her doors always wide-swung to all who honor us by their presence, but, also, that for you her doors are entirely off their hinges. May your stay here be pleasant, your labors productive of good to you and, therefore, to us, and may your departure be only a temporary leave-taking—an 'au revoir' and not 'farewell'"

When Dr. Pardee had concluded the applause lasted for several minutes. Thompson then responded to the address of welcome by the former governor, and recalled the struggle of the association in the past. He thanked Dr. Pardee for his welcome on the behalf of the association.

The meeting was then called to order officially by President Saxe, who presented his report of the organization's activities during the past year.

The following committee chairmen were named by the president at this morning's session.

Constitution and by-laws, Chas. F. Thompson, Oakland; resolutions, W. B. Reilley, San Jose; legislative, L. F. Breuner, Sacramento; trade committee for the south, A. L. Overell, Los Angeles; nominating, G. A. Lenoir, San Francisco.

Local furniture stores who will play hosts to the visiting delegates during their three days' stay in the city were especially decorated, and unusual furniture displays marked the event. All day, between the business sessions, the visitors made tours of inspection of the various local furniture stores.

In the afternoon the convention was to hear the report of Clifford A. Williams of San Francisco, general manager of the association, and the reports of unit chairmen and secretaries. Adjournment was to be preceeded by an open discussion of the various problems confronting the furniture industry and suggestions for their solution.

Last night there was a directors' dinner at the Hotel Oakland, all of the directors met at the "get acquainted dinner," and there were a number of addresses by the members of the board.

The task of registering the delegates and assigning them to quarters was virtually completed before the first session opened, but through the morning and early afternoon a general arrangements committee, headed by C. F. Thompson of Oakland, was taking care of the late arrivals. Practically every city in California is represented at the convention of the association, whose membership includes the largest furniture stores on the Pacific Coast and authorities on the furniture industry, from manufacture to distribution.

Tomorrow morning there will be a number of addresses by members of the association on various subjects. Each address will be followed by an open discussion. Tomorrow afternoon will be devoted to an automobile ride through Oakland, Berkeley, the University of California and other points of interest in the Eastbay.

At night there will be the annual convention banquet, which will be attended by every delegate to the meeting. The convntion will close Saturday afternoon, following the election of officers and the site of a 1923 convention site.

Following are the officers who are attending the convention: H. A. Saxe, president, San Francisco; A. H. Voight, first vice-president, Los Angeles; W. H Stevenson, second vice-president, San Francisco; Sig. Wormser, third vice-president, Fresno; George E Catts, fourth vice-president, Stockton; I. Friedman, secretary and treasurer San Francisco; Clifford A Williams, general manager, San Francisco.

Legion Official Will Speak Here

Burton R. Fitts, past state commander of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting to be held under the auspices of Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion, at Moose hall, Tuesday evening, October 24, at which time he will explain the purposes and workings of the Veterans' Welfare legislation which will be voted on at the general election in November.

This legislation will appear on the ballot under the titles of Proposition No. 1 and No. 3 and provide a means whereby the state may lend its credit up to $10,000,000 to former service men to provide them with homes and farms. No part of this money, however, is a gift to the men, but merely loans, Walter J. Petersen, said today in announcing the meeting. The attention of the public also was called to the fact that every cent of the money loaned to the veterans would be secured by real property and that it would be returned to the people of the state with interest.

Representatives of the following organizations have been invited to attend the meeting: Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Exchange, Rotary club, Lions' club, Alameda County Board of Supervisors, Oakland City council and all city, county and state officials in the Eastbay region.

COURT TO TELL FORTUNE TELLER FATE'S DECREE

Boor Singh, Hindu fortune teller, told a woman client there was a "dark man coming into her life who would love her," she said: "I am that man," then he kissed the woman, declares Mrs. Grace Singh in a suit for divorce in which she asks for a restraining order to prevent Singh from withdrawing an account in a Berkeley bank.

The wife also charges the fortune teller with taking improper liberties with her 9-year-old daughter and with declaring that he "would marry the girl when she became 18 years of age." Singh conducts a lodging house at 706 Broadway which he operates in an improper manner and makes $10 a day telling fortunes, says the wife in asking for custody of Baboo, 4-year-old son, and $150 a month maintenance.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR ACID STOMACH

Quickly Neutralizes Acidity, Stops Fermentation, Sweetens the Stomach

Nine people in ten, when food upsets the stomach causing distress, think they have indigestion. In reality they are suffering from "acid stomach." An excess of acid in the stomach causes gas, heartburn, bloating and sourness.

To have a strong healthy stomach capable of easily and normally digesting three hearty meals a day you simply must keep these stomach acids neutralized and the stomach contents sweet. No artificial digestents are necessary. Just get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any good drug store and take a teaspoonful of the powder or two tablets in a half glass of water right after eating or whenever the slightest pain is felt. The result is amazing and you will be delighted with the almost instant relief it brings. This famous stomach sweetener combines Magnesia and Bismuth in desirable proportions and is not only splendidly effective but perfectly harmless. Its regular use keeps the stomach sweet, strong and healthy all the time.

Bisurated Magnesia is well known to druggists everywhere and is used annually by more than a half million people who now eat as they please, in reason with no more fear of indigestion.—Advertisement.

EASTBAY MAYORS WILL CONSIDER WATER SITUATION

Mayor Garrard of Richmond and Oakland Engineer to Make Reports.

A report by Mayor Garrard of Richmond and Engineer Marston Campbell of Oakland will be tendered to the mayors and other officials of the Eastbay cities in Mayor Davie's office tomorrow afternoon, relative to the attitude of water consumers considering the formation of the proposed public utilities district.

Mayor Garrard and Engineer Campbell were instructed to interview the big industries and other large consumers of water, and especially to ascertain if these water-users are sufficiently interested to back a campaign actively.

Advance intimations are favorable, according to the two members of the committee, but the survey is only begun, and it cannot be ascertained as yet whether or not the water-users are sufficiently aroused over the water situation to back a big inter-city campaign.

It is believed, according to the officials, that tomorrow's meeting of the mayors will result in further investigation along the lines of the Garrard-Campbell committee.

CONSPIRACY TO GAIN MONOPOLY OF AIR CHARGED

Some of Largest Corporations in U. S. Defendants in Suit Filed.

OMAHA, Oct. 19.—(By Associated Press).—A charge that the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric company and others have entered a conspiracy to obtain a monopoly of wireless service and prevent individual use of the radio, is made in a suit filed in the U. S. District court by John O. Yeiser, Jr., of Omaha, who asks an injunction to enjoin the defendants from interfering with his right to broadcast.

Yeiser alleges that to date, "there are 25,000 wave lengths that may be used in transmitting distinct non-interfering radio service and yet the said defendants, by conspiring with unknown underlings in the departments of the government assuming to exercise authority over the radio service, have crowded all broadcasting stations sending music, lectures and educational matters to waves of 360 meters.

The Radio Corporation, General Electric company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, and the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company, and other persons and corporations unknown to Yeiser, he avers, intend to erect distinct sending stations and commercialize the same by charges for broadcasting. He alleges his own radio station was closed recently because he was operating slightly above 360 meters wave length, and that the first amendment to the constitution which says, "Congress shall make no law * * * * abridging the freedom of speech or of the press," is being violated.

A jury to determine damages, which he alleges to be $25,000, is requested, with treble damages under the Sherman anti-trust law, and an attorneys' fee of $25,000. Yeiser's action cites that "interference was undertaken with a powerful and clear station in Atlanta, Ga., which has been giving wonderful concerts nightly, enjoyed by people in every state in the union without conflict, with a wave length a shade above 360 meters, and, in pursuance of said conspiracy, a radio inspector connected with the Western Electric company, compelled said station to get back exactly to 360 meters. He claims that its efficiency is but a small part of what it would be if given an honest freedom of the air under rules that would be in no way interference with others."

Girl's 'No' Ends Suitor's 5000-Mile Pursuit

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—James Riley followed pretty Daisy Craig all the way from Belfast, in the "north of Ireland," to 388 Dolores street, San Francisco, to get a final answer to the question, "Would she marry him?" Today he got it. It was "No."

For three years, back in Belfast, the hopes of Riley, who was persistently courting Daisy, alternated between high and low. He never could quite make sure whether she loved him or not.

A year ago she suddenly disappeared, and he discovered she had sailed away to New York without a word to him. At one moment this seemed to Riley that she didn't want to see him again. At another it looked as though it might be a challenge to follow her.

He decided to settle the question by following her to New York. He arrived there only to find that she had left for San Francisco. Was it still a flight, or a challenge? He hastened to San Francisco to find out.

This time Daisy cleared his mind of all doubt. When he sought her out at her apartment in the Mission and began making ardent love to her, she had him arrested for disturbing the peace.

Today Daisy left her work in a downtown restaurant and appeared against her persistent suitor in the police court of Judge Daniel S. O'Brien. Riley said he didn't know whether some other man had come between them, but he was convinced Daisy didn't want him and that he would go back to Belfast. Judge O'Brien will pronounce sentence tomorrow.

LESSON NO. 189.
THE BATTERY CHARGER.

Practically every modern receiving set which utilizes vacuum tubes for detection and amplifying purposes makes use of a storage battery as the source of energy for heating the filament to the proper temperature. In order to keep the battery in first-class operating condition it must be recharged from an external source. Ordinarily a source of direct current is employed for charging storage batteries, but numerous "magnetic rectifiers" have appeared on the market by means of which the ordinary six-volt battery may be recharged from the 60-cycle, 110-volt house lighting circuit.

There are numerous forms of the magnetic rectifier, but they all operate on the same principle, that is, the circuit through the battery is closed during a portion of each cycle so that the current from the charging source flows through the battery in the same direction during the time the circuit is closed.

The diagram illustrates one form of battery charger for operation on a 60-cycle 110-volt line such as commonly employed for house lighting purposes. It consists of an iron core step-down transformer for reducing the voltage to a suitable value for charging a six-volt battery such as ordinarily employed for filament lighting purposes, an ammeter, and the magnets which actuate the vibrating contact. "P" and "S" represent the primary and secondary respectively of the step-down transformer. "A" is the ammeter which indicates the rate at which the battery is being charged. The meter gives a slight reading in the opposite direction before the line switch is thrown, due to the current flowing from the battery through the windings of the electro-magnet. "L1" is a polarizing electro-magnet which pulls on the vibrating armature "V," but insufficiently to close the contacts. When the line switch is closed, one-half of the cycle flows through the winding of the electro-magnet "L2" in such a way as to aid the pull of the magnet "L1," so that the armature "V" is pulled over and the contacts closed, shorting the magnet windings and allowing current to flow into the battery until the pull on the armature is diminished by a change in the direction of the current in the coil "L2," due to a reversal in the cycle. This procedure is repeated at the frequency of the alternating supply, the armature being adjusted so that it vibrates in synchronous manner with the reversals in direction of current flow. The contacts are thus closed during only a portion of each cycle and the battery receives small portions of current in the same direction at each closing of the circuit.

While it appears that only half of the cycle is being used and the other half wasted, in reality the devices are usually about 75 per cent efficient, as during the intervals when the contacts are not closed current is taken from the line merely to overcome the losses in the transformer, which are very small.

In some types of chargers the coil "L1" is replaced by a large permanent magnet, in which case care must be exercised to connect the battery with proper polarity to the terminals "B." In the type shown in the diagram it makes no difference which way the battery is connected to the device, since the coil "L1" is polarized by the battery.

Singer's Daughter Identifies Comb

LONELY BARN IS POINTED OUT AS SLAYING SCENE

Murder of Jersey Rector and Choir Singer Placed Four Miles From Bodies.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 19.—(By International News Service.)—New evidence, indicating that Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and the choir singer, Mrs. James Mills, were murdered in a lonely barn four miles from the spot where their bodies were found, was being checked up by the Somerset and Middlesex county authorities today.

Two sidecombs and two handkerchiefs stained with blood were found near this barn. The combs are said to have been identified by 16-year-old Charlotte Mills as belonging to her mother, the slain woman.

Two witnesses have been found who told the authorities they passed near the old barn about 10:30 o'clock on the night of September 14 and that they heard the agonized screams of a woman pleading for her life.

The new witnesses, both men, were driving from Red Bank to the city and the road they followed took them near the barn where the double murder is now believed to have been committed.

CRIES HEARD IN BARN.

Cries of "Help! Help! Murderer! Police! Police! For God's sake don't kill me!" came from the vicinity of the barn. It was so dark that the motorists could not distinguished the persons embroiled in the trouble.

Later the same night, the same two men were said to have seen a large, highpowered motor car dashing at top speed through De Russy Lane, which flanks the spot where the two bodies were found stretched out side by side under a little crabapple tree on the morning of September 16.

Still later, the same night, the two men were reported to have seen the same automobile speeding toward New Brunswick with a man and a woman in the front seat.

There have been so many false reports and so much misleading evidence in the case that the latest version did not excite much comment, even in official circles. County detectives, however, said they were running down every clew.

The murder was committed five weeks ago but, so far, there has not been a single arrest in direct connection with the crime except that of Clifford Hayes. Public feeling is running so high over the inability of the detectives to solve the double murder that is was anticipated a personal appeal would be made today to Governor Edwards to appoint some high and competent official to direct the inquiry with dictatorial powers.

MRS. HALL'S STORY TOLD.

Mrs. Hall and her brother, Henry Stevens, already have been questioned about the story told by the two men, who said they heard a woman screaming for help in the deserted barn, four miles from the Phillips farm. It is evident that they were unable to throw any light upon this new development in the investigation. Mrs. Hall, through friends of the family, says she has told all she knows. She has increased still further her isolation since the publication of the passionate love letters passed between her husband and Mrs. Mills.

Even yet, Mrs. Hall refuses to believe that her husband could have deceived her while carrying on a clandestine love affair with Mrs. Mills, friends of the Hall family said.

Car Shortage in Turlock Is Acute

TURLOCK, Oct. 19.—With grapes and the later varieties of melons maturing in large quantities and no cars available for their transportation, the case of the Turlock grower becomes more acute daily. During the past two days only 10 cars were received in this entire district and some hundreds of tops of fruits have ripened and reached the stage when they must either be shipped in ice or be left to rot. What once appeared to be a bumper season is fast declining on account of the inability of the railroads to handle the output. Prices are said to be at the peak in the east.

The third annual session of the Missionary Baptist Association, colored, of California was opened yesterday at the North Oakland Baptist church.

The annual address of the moderator, Dr. G. C. Coleman, marked yesterday afternoon's sessions. Addresses of welcome were delivered to the delegates last night by city officials and representatives of various organizations in the city.

The convention will be brought to a close tomorrow evening with a closing sermon by the moderator, Dr. Coleman.

It is estimated that 85,000,000 tons of major crops are hauled over highways annually.

EUROPE CRAVES AMERICAN DOLLAR

Well, anyway, we're not the only nation that worships the American dollar. That was what Kathleen Norris, novelist and short story writer, discovered during a recent trip to Europe.

Mrs. Norris found the greater part of Europe either depending upon American money for immediate relief, or looking to American participation in European affairs as the way out of the economic troubles of that part of the world she told members of the Oakland Lions Club and their wives at a luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. Mrs Norris was the guest of honor and speaker at the Ladies' Day meeting of the club

"I had heard a good deal of talk by Europeans about our worship of the almighty dollar," she said. "Well, I found that the American dollar looked mighty good to them over there. It's legal tender anywhere in Europe America is spending more money for relief in at least one country in Europe than the people of that nation itself are spending A member of the British cabinet told me that they are looking to us as the solution of their economic difficulties."

Mrs. Norris urged the passage of the proposed Wright bill, which would provide state police to help enforce the federal prohibition laws. She declared that for California to remain "wetter" than the rest of the country would mean the influx of large numbers of undesirable citizens to this state, and that "bootleggers" should be driven out for the good of the younger generation.

Grieved for Lost Love, Woman Turns on the Gas

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—"It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."

So penned Ida May Hague a few moments before she shut herself up in the kitchen and turned on the gas. An hour later, the body was discovered by the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary J. Clark, who had then returned from a fruitless search in Oakland for the man who had wooed and won her daughter, and likewise her daughter's savings.

It was an old story to the police but a new and tragic one to Mrs. Clark. Her daughter was her sole support. They had purchased a home last March on the installment plan, and Ida, she said, had saved. Then she met the man. He was tall and handsome, and was known to them as Charles F. Ames He said he was the son of the former consul general at Manila. He asked Ida to marry him and she promised. They were to go to Pasadena and then to Europe. Then he had to go away on a business trip and borrowed Ida's savings, promising her $20 for every dollar he borrowed. He did not return.

Searching in Oakland, where Ames said he was employed by the Union Pacific company, Mrs. Clark found this to be untrue Suspecting the truth, she phoned her daughter, who was then preparing for the wedding next Tuesday. When the mother arrived home, she smelled gas. Then she found the body of her daughter, clothed in a nightgown. The note was lying on a table.

The police of five cities are searching for Ames

Fittest Survive in World of Business

"In the business world, just as in all phases of activity, the law is the survival of the fittest," declared Frank A Briggs, manager of Sherman-Clay Music Company, before the Loyal Knights of the Round Table at their luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Oakland

"In the business world fitness is determined by character. No permanent success can be built upon deception or any dishonorable practices. Every act of a business man or of a business institution creates a reaction The reaction to dishonor is financial disaster. Honorable practices alone are the basis of a good reputation and lasting success in business"

Dr. Harold H. Meredith, president of Oakland Round Table, presided.

FOUR ASSASSINS PAID TO SLAY, SAYS SUSPECT

'Higher-Ups' of S. P. Strikers Involved by Confession in Shopman's Murder.

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 19—Four hired assassins, one of whom received $37 50 as payment, were responsible for the murder of Karl Ersetke, Southern Pacific shopman at Daly City, during the recent railroad labor troubles, according to a confession which District Attorney Swart says he has obtained from one of the suspects now in jail here.

According to Swart, the man who confessed said he was the one who received the $37 50, and declared that it was paid by "higher-ups" who sought revenge against Ersetke for continuing to work in violation of the strike orders

The three suspects who are under arrest, one of whom is said to have made the confession, are Joseph J Cornelison, alias White; Fred Mermon, alias Valoni, and Stephen Apostoles, a chauffeur.

HELD IN SEATTLE.

Peter McHale, a ship's oiler, is also under arrest in Seattle in connection with the crime

Ersetke, who had been employed as a mechanic by the Southern Pacific company for ten years, continued at his work in the Daly City shops after the nation-wide shopmen's strike had been called On the night of September 27, while he and his brother Rudolph were on their way home from work, they were set upon by four men and attacked with gas pipes and firearms. Ersetke died as the result of a crushed skull and several bullet wounds His brother was seriously injured.

According to the confession which District Attorney Swart says he has received, the four men were driven to the spot by Apostoles With them, he declares, went two of the "higher-ups" who are alleged to have paid the money to the assassins.

"HIGHER-UPS" INVOLVED.

Arrests are to be expected shortly in connection with the alleged participation of the "higher-ups" in the crime, according to Swart and Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson of San Francisco.

The three men under arrest here were taken into custody by Matheson several daye ago in San Francisco. McHale was taken by the Seattle police from a steamer bound for Honolulu by way of the northern city. A requisition for his extradition was obtained by Swart yesterday at the office of Governor William D. Stephens in Sacramento.

Details as to the alleged confession and the identity of the prisoner who is said to have made it are being withheld today by Swart and the other authorities here.

GLOTZBACH SUIT ATTACKED UPON RESIDENCE BASIS

Matzenauer's Attorney Says Diva's Husband Has No Rights in State.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Margaret Glotzbach, known to the operatic stage as Mme Margaret Matzenauer, may not have to face divorce proceedings brought here by her chauffeur husband, Floyd Glotzbach, as the result of an order to show cause obtained today from Superior Judge Frank Murasky.

Glotzbach seized the opportunity of his wife's concert engagement here to serve her with divorce papers. Today her counsel. J. J. Lerman, set up the claim that he had no right to file the action for a legal separation as he was not a lawful resident of the State of California.

The complaint discloses that the Glotzbachs were married in Europe, that they returned to New York in October of last year and that the husband came to California only in December. Moreover, it was claimed that this is not their matrimonial residence as they never lived together in this state

The order to show cause was directed against Glotzbach and his attorney and was made returnable tomorrow The law requires a year's residence in the state.

STRIKER GIVEN YEAR JAIL TERM

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 19.—John Schaffer, a railroad shopcraft striker, was esterday sentenced by Judge J. W. Curtis to serve one year in the county jail and fined $500 after his conviction by a jury on the charge of rioting. George B. Sendt, aged employee of the Santa Fe, identified Schaffer as the man who beat him with a blackjack and kicked him in the face. The court also dismissed charges brought by strike leaders that the jury had been tampered with. Judge Curtis warned strikers that the law protected men who desired to work.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupify the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In honor of her niece, Miss Arline Townsend, of Seattle, Mrs. Frank Layton entertained several members of the younger set at her home, on October 18. Miss Townsend, who has been residing with her aunt during her sojourn in the Eastbay district, will, in the near future, leave for Los Angeles, where she intends to make her home. Several affairs which have been planned in Miss Townsend's honor will be given within the next few weeks.

A pretty wedding of the early fall was that of Miss Helen Elizabeth Jones and Edward Stamford Hughes, solemnized Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs Herman Jones, of East Twenty-eighth street. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. Thomas S. Haines, late of New York, assisted by Rev. Alexander Allen, rector of St. Paul's church in this city. Only relatives and close friends of the bridegroom and bride and their respective families witnessed the reading of the ritual.

The house was effectively decorated in masses of oak and russet chrysanthemums and dahlias in the golden and copper tones, with virginia creeper affording a lovely background against the redwood panels.

The bride wore a gown of point de aguille lace and chiffon in draped mode and caught with sprays of orangle blossoms. The veil of silk net was held in its place by a Russian coronet of point lace

The cap effect was completed with a wreath of orange blossoms and the face veil held by Venetian silver butterflies. The bridal bouquet was of pure white cyclamen and lilies of the valley.

The little flower girls were in maize organdie over flesh pink with two-toned ribbons and carried bouquets of pom-pom dahlias.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mabel Esther Stewart and Margaret Louise Jones, wore gowns of gros de loundre in two-toned material of apricot and copper pink. The frocks were made with a quaint basque and scalloped, as were the bouffant skirts. They carried sheaf bouquets of gladioli and Irish Elegance roses

The maid of honor, Miss Anita Hough, a sister of the bridegroom, wore an imported gown of the Victorian mode in shades of apricot, the skirts made with quaint pleated trimming and flounces of silver lace showing beneath the scalloped skirt. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses

Thomas Folger Babcock served as best man and the ushers were members of the bridegroom's fraternity, the Delta Tau Delta. They were David Shattuck Douglas Miller, Lawrence Foster and Jack Gilliland.

After dancing and the wedding supper the bridal couple left on a motor trip to the southern part of the state and after a few weeks will return to their home in Piedmont.

Both Miss Livia and Miss Antonette Rossi rendered musical numbers as a part of the evening's diversion

The palm room was filled with ferns and flowers and the drawing room arranged in orange and black, indicative of the Hallowe'en spirit.

CAT'S EARRINGS ARE GOOFY, SAYS S. F. PROSECUTOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—"The whole thing is goofy, the cat's earrings, I might say."

So spoke William Golden of the district attorney's office to Michael Hennessey of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Hennessey had asked a warrant for A. Vidall, a flourist, presenting as evidence a tortoise shell cat from whose ears dangled handsome jade pendants.

"Sure, her ears are pierced," said Vidall. "But she is not my cat and besides she is proud of them."

"I'll think it over," said Golden. "It's sure the cat's earrings."

GREEKS TREATED WELL BY TURKS, SAY AMERICANS

Commitee Sent Into War Zone by Admiral Bristol Find Fair Conditions.

MUDANIA, Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press).—The American committee appointed by Admiral Bristol several days ago to visit the Anatolian war area returned here yesterday after a week's tour of investigation and will make a formal report to the admiral in Constantinople today.

The committee's purpose "was to examine into and investigate conditions in the supposedly devastated territory, there to ascertain the number of refugees and Greek war prisoners homeless and others needing relief or medical care and the amount of destruction."

PRISONERS WELL TREATED.

The committee's report, prepared by Dr. V. M.-Wright of the Near East relief, is featured by the statement that the Greek prisoners who were seen working on the roads and elsewhere were generally treated respectably by their guards and did not appear starved or undernourished.

Their uniforms were in tatters and their "morale seemed low."

Dr. Wright found the territory widely devastated, but in most sections sufficient buildings remained to house the present population.

"Although there was no acute suffering or grewsome sights to be seen," he says, "there is without doubt need for medical supplies and a great need for food."

TALKED WITH PRISONERS.

This is the first formal committee of a neutral character which has been permitted to study conditions in the territory controlled by the Kemalists. The members talked with many Greek prisoners. They found them uncomplaining of their treatment and receiving regular army rations.

Bulgaria Bars Refugees From Crossing Frontier

By JOHN HADLEY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—The Bulgarian frontier was closed today to prevent panic-stricken hordes of Greek Christian refugees from swarming into that country from Thrace.

Nearly half a million Greek and Armenian fugitives have taken refuge in Macedonia. All are without food, clothing, shelter or funds. They are dependent upon the bounty of the Greek government and outside charity.

A quarter of a million refugees are still to be deported from eastern Thrace. They are being rounded up and "herded" by Greek cavalry. The scenes remind one of a cattle roundup in Texas or some other American western state. Owing to the cold weather and the shortage of railway cars and steamships, the work of evacuating the Christians is proceeding more slowly than the allies wish. Some of the concentration camps have been turned into mud holes by the rain, and the brilliant clothing of the Thracian peasants is being stained to a muddy brown.

The flight of the Greeks from their farms in eastern Thrace presents a tragic picture. For twenty miles the fugitives are spread over the countryside. The roads are cluttered with carts drawn by bullocks, donkeys and horses. Even cows have been utilized to assist in carrying off what household effects could be saved.

The roads have been turned into quagmires by the rain, which has been falling continuously for three days and three nights. The mud is being churned into swamps by the thousands of feet plodding over it.

Americans Broke In Paris Are to Be Returned to U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—One hundred and fifty Americans, who had become stranded in Europe, will sail for home on the steamship President Polk October 29. Their return is made possible through the efforts of the American Aid Society in Paris and as a result of notification by the state department that 2,000 third-class passages to the United States will be provided on Shipping Board liners for citizens in distress on the continent.

Three hundred more, it is expected, will be ready to sail November 19, and there are hopes that the remainder of those needing help to get home will be taken care of by the end of November.

French officials have shown a disposition to co-operate in this work to the extent of their ability, and it is understood that the cases of a score of Americans—some in confinement and others under police surveillance because of the extremities to which they were forced by their dire necessities—will be cleared up through this movement.

The French authorities, it is said, will release those being held, turning them over to a committee of the aid society, which guarantees they will be placed aboard ships.

Notice has been given that, after this work is finished, organized relief for the soldiers who have remained here since the war and other stranded transient Americans in Paris will cease.

MOTOR CLUB TO RUN THE LIFE OUT OF COYOTES

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 19.—About 100 members of the motorcycle clubs from Los Angeles, Pasadena and Orange will hold a coyote hunt on the Famosa Flats near here Sunday morning. The feature of the hunt will be the fact that none of the hunters will use a gun or dog to run down the beasts.

The method pursued is to chase the coyote on the motorcycle until he becomes fatigued and then tie him up to be killed later. To do this requires great dexterity on the part of the rider, who must be very skillful.

The animals have been known to run 30 miles or more before giving up. As an incentive for the hunters, a bounty of $2.50 will be paid for each scalp turned in to Harold Pomeroy, county horticultural commissioner.

The motorcycle hunters travel in pairs and when the coyote has been run to his limit and falls exhausted both riders get off their motorcycles and while the coyote's attention is attracted by one of the riders, the other grabs the animal, blocking his wind and then both hunters tie the coyote with ropes.

CHINESE COOK, 70, KILLED IN HOME OF S. F. EMPLOYER

Veteran Employee of H. I. Solomon Stabbed to Death During Night.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Ah Louie, 70 year old Chinese cook, was stabbed to death in his room at 2064 Jackson street last night. His body was found today but the murder had evidently been committed some time before midnight

Ah Louie was employed as a cook in the residence of H. I. Solomon, secretary of the wholesale shoe firm of Bunkingham & Hecht When he failed to appear in his kitchen to cook the morning breakfast today, one of the maids, Annie Brerton, went to his room and found him dead.

From an investigation made by Detective Arthur McGraham it was apparent that the Chinese had been stabbed with a carving knife. His room is in the basement, facing on an alleyway. Presumably his slayer with a knowledge of the premises went around the side way and knocked on the door. He carried his sharp blade in a piece of newspaper. When Ah Louie, partially dressed, responded to the knock, his murder plunged the steel between his ribs. As he sank to the floor his assailant threw a blanket on his head, dropped the knife and newspaper and disappeared into the night. The dead Chinese had been employed by the Solomons for several years.

Gypsy Life Told of in Divorce Suit

WOODLAND, Oct. 19. — Mrs. Mary J. Miller, pioneer resident of Woodland, in divorce complaint filed in the Superior court here against Mose Miller, alleges extreme cruelty in being forced to move about the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys much as a gypsy. She charges in her complaint that in 13 years of married life it was one continual moving party, starting at Stockton, where they were married, continuing to Roseville, Sacramento, Galt, Davis, Winters, Woodland and around again, occasionally touching San Francisco and Oakland for a few weeks at a time. She asks for a decree of divorce that she may establish herself in a home and care for her three children by a former marriage. Her name was Mary P. Roseberry and she asks for its return to her by legal order of court.

MANY HANDS ARE EXTENDED TO AID LEGION'S CIRCUS

22 Civic and Fraternal Organizations to Help Out At Auditorium Show.

Twenty-two civic and fraternal organization are now co-operating with the American Legion in the production of the Legion Circus to be staged at the Auditorium, starting November 4, and additional organizations are daily sending in offers of support.

It is the plan of the former service men to completely convert the Auditorium arena into a reproduction of certain quarters of Paris. The various boulevards and cafes will be faithfully duplicated and the corridors of the Auditorium will be transferred into replicas of the corridors of the Casino at Monte Carlo. Against this colorful background the Legion will offer a free vaudeville show of twelve numbers, together with various games, cabarets and other attractions which particularly mark Parisian night life.

Among the organizations which are co-operating by taking over booths in the Auditorium and tickets for distribution are the Sciots' Drill Team, Eagles' Drill Team, Oakland Aerie, No. 7, R. E. Clifford, chairman; Native Sons and Daughters, Piedmont Parlor, committee of 25, with Henry Weber, chairman; Oakland Parlor, Athens Parlor and Brooklyn Parlor; Loyal Order of Moose, Oakland Lodge, No. 324; Knights of Columbus, Dr. J. F. Slavich, G. F. Cruz and F. M. Flinn, committee, Veterans of Foreign Wars, R. E. Mitchell, chairman; Women's Auxiliary, Oakland Post, No. 5; W. O. W., Fruitvale camp, No. 431, F. S Boyer, chairman, British Great War Veterans of America; Ladies of the Grand Army, Appomatox Corps, Grand Army War Mothers; Gold Star Mothers; Women's Benefit Association; Kiwanis Club; Jewish Relief Federation; International Association of Specialty Salesmen and Franco-American club.

In the meanwhile the queen candidates have opened up a drive for votes. The candidates who are thus far active are Arleta Welch, Edith Vendetti, Esther Kline and Marguerite Moore.

The Pools had been separated five months. Mrs. Pool followed her husband here from the Pacific coast. Her final note did not name the "other man."

WIDOW WOULD SELL HERSELF TO GAIN OPERATION

DES MOINES, Oct. 19.—Her money almost gone, her health impaired as a result of a bullet wound inflicted four years ago by the man who later became her husband, Mrs. Ruth Schermerhorn, 23, a widow, has advertised in Chicago newspapers that she will sell herself to any man who will furnish her with $5000 to be used for an operation which she hopes will restore to her health and beauty.

"Of course, it's an entirely commercial proposition," she said today. "Having sat here for four long years, scarcely able to move, I have done a great deal of reflecting. I believe that matrimonial felicity is much easier attained if one enters into marriage without the illusions that always accompany youthful and romantic love. I am not particular at all as to the physical aspects of my future husband."

Mrs. Schermerhorn has been partly paralyzed for nearly four years as a result of being shot in the back by L. B. Schermerhorn. Schermerhorn shot himself. On his death bed he married the girl who now offers herself for sale.

OAKLAND LEGION WILL CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

Parade and Program at Lakeside Park Will Feature National Holiday.

Armistice Day is to be celebrated in Oakland this year with a parade and program at Lakeside Park, following the plan of last year. Looking forward to the day becoming a national holiday, the veterans' organizations are planning to hold the same celebration from year to year.

The parade this year is expected to be even greater than that of last year, when practically every organization of importance was in the line of march. Invitations are now being mailed to all organizations, asking them to participate in the parade and celebration. The parade will be a separate affair from the Yankee-Paree show to be held at the municipal auditorium during Armistice Week. The show, however, which is being given by Oakland Post No. 5 of the American Legion, will be a part of the general Armistice Day observance, and will depict the Armistice Day of four years ago in Paris.

The Armistice Day committee, composed of representatives of all veteran organizations in the city, held its second meeting Tuesday evening at the city hall and drafted plans for the parade and exercises at Lakeside park.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock, terminating at 11:30 at Lakeside park, where a program of music and speeches will be held, and the customary salute to the dead, to be fired by a unit of the California Field Artillery, National Guard.

A committee has been appointed to secure the co-operation of the merchants of Oakland in closing the stores and business houses between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m., the period of the parade and exercises at the park.

The committee requested that all individuals, organizations and industrial concerns able to enter a float, decorated automobile, band or marching unit get in touch with the chairman, Bestor Robinson, at Room 503, City Hall, or phone Lakeside 3600 and ask for local 191.

While invitations are being mailed to all organizations, the general invitation through the press is extended by the committee in order that no one will be overlooked. Last year, invitations were mailed and some were overlooked. It is the desire of the committee that no organization be overlooked this year. All are invited to participate.

The committee is anxious to learn as soon as possible the exact number of organizations that will take part in the parade and observance, the number of floats that will be entered, the number of bands and number of drill teams. Communications containing this information should be mailed to Room 503, City Hall, as soon as possible.

HYSTERICAL CRIMINALITY

Chapter 110.

HYSTERIA is not associated with criminality in the popular mind, yet it is a distinct factor in many instances, particularly when woman are concerned.

In investigating the circulation of slanderous letters intended to injure the reputation of a very prominent New York society matron, detectives traced the missives to the door of the best friend of this matron.

Some very unpleasant complications were threatened, including a suit for slander, which would have startled the whole country because of the prominence of the persons involved.

While she was being questioned by detectives the guilty woman suddenly began gulping and then fell to the floor. Those in attendance, thinking that she had swallowed some poison, sent for a doctor, who, on arrival, immediately diagnosed the case as hysteria. The gulping had been caused by the coming up in the throat of the lump known as globus hystericus and it was this symptom which immediately marked the attack as hysteria instead of epilepsy.

After the doctor had explained that hysterical persons very commonly imagine the most outrageous things and frequently write anonymous letters involving scandal, the proposed suit against the society woman was abandoned and differences were patched up.

While hysteria is not a main causative factor in crime and does not of itself indicate lawlessness, it occurs very frequently in instances where a wife slays her husband, in poison cases and even in thievery.

"Never believe a hysterical person" is a medical axiom, and this fact is responsible for many people suffering from this disease being found guilty of perjury and giving false testimony in divorce actions and even in criminal trials.

Just why hysterical people are habitual liars no one seems to know, but the fact remains that even in relating their symptoms they are inclined to deviate from the truth. While they have control over this fault, still they seem impelled by some irresistible impulse to perjure themselves.

The most outstanding characteristic of hysterical persons is their desire for sympathy. If the subject does not exhibit this craving for sympathy the case is not one of hysteria, according to Dr. H. N. Rowell, an expert in nervous diseases.

The victim of hysteria does not "show off" when alone, but only if someone is around. They "grandstand," in other words. They are capable of regulating their actions so that in falling they always pick a soft spot to light on, in contradistinction to the epileptic, who sometimes injures himself in a tumble.

Hysteria is generally preceded by a spell of crying or laughing.

One must not draw the conclusion from this that victims of hysteria are feigning. True, they do not give way to their feelings when alone, but the presence of another human seems to release their pent-up emotions and they break down.

Only insofar as any mental disability makes a person more susceptible to vicious suggestion may hysteria be termed a crime cause.

Because of the general tendency of people to point to some one thing and say, "There, that is the cause for crime," I have cautioned readers against misjudging anyone described herein.

You must remember that crime is not caused by any one thing, but by an accumulation of physical, mental and moral vices and diseases.

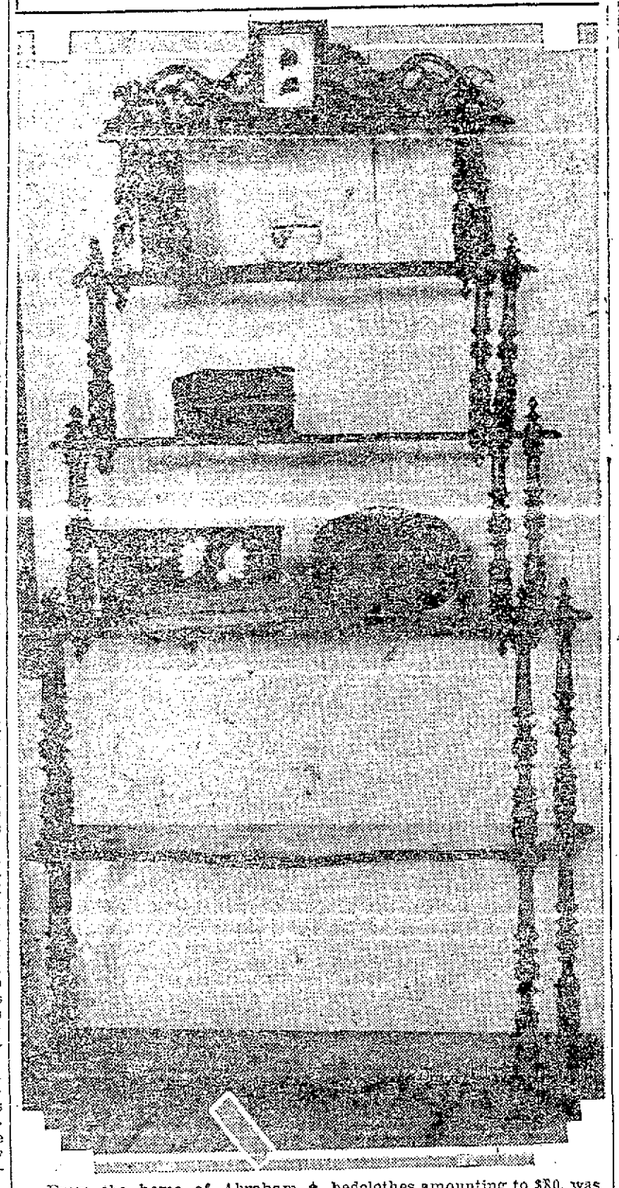

Tomorrow—Alcoholic Criminality.

Lincoln's "What Not" in Oakland

From the home of Abraham Lincoln, Civil War president of the United States, in Springfield, Ill., before his inauguration to the presidency, after passing through various hands and decorating various homes, the walnut "what-not" of the great president has come to the Oakland Public Museum and now has a place in the furnishings of the early American bedroom of the museum.

A bill of sale bearing the signature of Abraham Lincoln is also the property of the museum. This establishes the authenticity of the proprietorship of the "what-not."

It is dated February 9, 1861, which must have been the time that "Honest Abe" was preparing his household affairs for removal to the White House subsequent to his inauguration March 4, 1861. The "what-not," along with other furniture and some bedclothes amounting to $80, was sold by the president-elect to S. H. Melvin. The historic treasure itself sold for $10, the bill of sale indicates.

The new owner of the goods brought them to California in the early '70's, who after living in various cities of the state located in Oakland in 1901. Upon his death the other goods were divided among the heirs of the estate, the "what-not" and the bill of sale falling to E. P. Melvin, a furniture dealer of the northwest and a former resident of Santa Cruz.

He loaned the material to the local museum on moving from Santa Cruz. They now are considered by the local museum staff as valuable additions to the historical collections.

Books and Builders

THE most noted Roman poet was named Virgil. People liked what he wrote. Many copies of his poems were made. When a master wanted his library to possess a "book" by Virgil, all he had to do was to go to a friend who owned a copy and ask him to lend it for a while. Then he would copy the poem. The slave who did so was usually a Greek. The Greek slaves often knew more than their masters.

The books of the Romans were rolls of paper made from the papyrus plant. Perhaps you remember that the Egyptians were the first persons to use paper for writing.

The greatest poem of Virgil was called the Aeneid. High school pupils sometimes read it when they study Latin, the language of the Romans.

Now and then, pictures were drawn in Roman books to help show what the story was about. One of these is printed today. It was made near the time when Rome was to lose her power, about the year 400.

The picture was called Building a City. I do not think it was drawn very well, but still it is interesting. At the right is a little man sitting on a stone block. He holds a mallet in one hand and is ready to strike a chisel in the other. He is trying to split the block!

Next to him is a man with a robe hanging over his shoulders. He is pointing out the way to split the block. Probably he is the architect of the "city."

Another laborer is at the upper left of the picture. He is working on the roof of a building, and has climbed up by means of a ladder which you can clearly see.

The ladder rests against a small tower. On top of the tower is one end of an arch. You can see only part of this arch. It seems the artist didn't know where to draw the other part of the arch, so he just left it out.

Our other picture was not taken from a book. It was found on a tombstone at a seaport town called Ravenna. The man pictured was a ship-builder. The tombstone was paid for by a slave whom he had set free.

In this sketch, the ship-builder is at work himself. He is cutting steps in what looks like a gangway for people to use when they want get into the boat. The tool he is swinging is an adz—a hatchet with the cutting part turned sidewise.

Like the Greeks, the Romans often put scenes from a person's life on his tombstone. The ship-builder picture is a good example of this.

Seeking Solitude

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

"DON'T ask me how long I'll be gone or where I'm going. I must get away. Mother. Surely you understand."

Mrs. McDowell understood. She helped Molly pack her trunk and talked commonplaces to make things easier. Only when the taxi came and it was time for parting did she refer to the cause of the girl's departure.

"Have a good time. Just rest and relax and when you come back let us hope you will have your mind made up. Goodbye."

Molly knew where she was going. To a little farmhouse by a lake, a place where a girl could hike and fish and have plenty of time to think. Already she was feeling better. This is what she needed—to be away from it all, away from the two men who wanted to marry her, the parties and the rush. "I'll try not to think of either of them," she decided, "and maybe it will just come to me which I miss more, which I love."

At the station Molly was met by a phaeton and Artie, the hired man, and a drive commenced over roads carpeted with dust and pine needles. The blush which covered Artie's cheeks when he saw the girl get off the train stayed with him the four miles of driving, and never once did he take his eyes from the horse. Molly leaned back, drew deep breaths and was happy.

At the Fernall home there were joyous greetings. Old Adna held the horse by the head while the girl climbed out of the carriage and Mrs. Fernall, with whom the girl had visited before, took her in a motherly embrace. On the porch a solemn young man with a pipe in his mouth rose and walked away. As he walked through the field he struck with a stick decapitating blackeyed Susans.

"It's Mr. Ashton," said Mrs. Fernall, "a very quiet gentleman."

In her room Molly felt regret she was not to have the farmhouse to herself. She would have to make it plain, she decided, that she did not wish to be disturbed. She was glad this Mr. Ashton appeared so unsociable. At dinner she saw him again, a good looking young man who said little and appeared not the least interested in her. When he talked it was to Artie, who blurted out monosyllables in reply.

Except for meal hours the evenings on the porch were the only times which brought the two together. It was warm on the third evening after her arrival and the girl sat late looking at the stars reflected in the lake and enjoying the solitude. Ashton, in from a walk, sat on the steps.

"Might I smoke?" he asked and for a long time there was no word from either. Molly thought it was embarassing. She was going to stay here for weeks and maybe he was. There would have to be an understanding.

"I do not wish you to misunderstand," she said. "It is not that I am unsociable by nature, but I came here to be alone. We are meeting every day and I don't wish to be unfriendly. This is my one time alone, a time I have been looking forward to. You will understand."

"Perfectly," the man replied, "for you have said my speech. Now that we understand, I can say I was terribly put out when you arrived. I want to be alone myself."

Each day Ashton watched to see in which direction Molly walked and then started out in another. The favored paths were along the lake and when the man took one the girl was on the other and each was careful not to walk more than half the distance around, lest they should meet.

Near the end of her stay Molly wandered along the shaded path looking for the answer to the question which had sent her to this retreat. "It must be," she thought "I don't care enough for either Tom or George. The plan does not seem to be working." She walked along and all the time wondered what it was that had made Ashton forsake the city for the woods. "He need not have taken me quite so literally," she decided, and tried to think what he would be like on acquaintance. By now she was almost half way around the lake.

A crash of thunder shook the skies and the rain started to fall. A frightened girl ran for the protection of a large tree and watched the water splash on the lake, throwing up small drops which danced on the agitated surface. There was another tree beyond her, a larger one, and beyond that a third, under which stood Ashton. It rained harder and there was more thunder. The girl was getting wet and she was afraid of lightning. She looked toward Ashton and thought of calling to him. If he weren't so stupid he would come over.

This larger tree next to hers would give better protection and she would be that much nearer a man. Through the driving rain the girl ran and under the tree slipped in the mud, lost her balance and fell into someone's arms. Came a hissing flash of fire and a deafening report. She clung to her support and hid her head. "I'm frightened, I'm frightened," Molly heard herself repeating, as if apologizing for seeking protection she could not be without.

A soft yellow glow fell on glistening leaves and the storm was over. Molly looked into Ashton's face and blushed. "We better go back," he said regretfully. "Shall I go with you or shall we take our separate paths?"

It wasn't right of him to make her decide—but he was waiting—"It might storm again," said the girl who had wanted to be alone, and she took his arm and together they walked the slippery path.

* * *

When Molly went home her problem was settled. She would not marry either Tom or George. She was going to be Mrs. Ashton.

Noise.

An old machine—
Came down the street—
Snorting blood and thunder—
It buzzed and whizzed—
And every valve beneath the frame—
Protested.
And every agonizing sound—
That ever hit my ear-drums—
Came from that heap—
The owner pulled on twenty cranks—
And swore, disgusted—
But that old wreck would scarcely move—
And people turned to look and smile—
It took a week to go a mile—
A man upon the corner stood—and said—
"Some noise."
A purring engine passed it by—
The ground swift spurning—
No noise—no smoke—no jarring note—
Just quietly—efficiently—
It passed along—and out of sight—
A gang of men—
Had gathered round a half erected building—
Unkempt—loud-mouthed—
In ignorant way—
They filled the morning air—
With thunder—
From vacant minds—
They talked of prize fights—and the like—
And biffed and banged the air—
In imitation—
Of fighters who had carved their names—
In sporting papers—
The rafters echoed loud their wit—
With sounds discordant—
"Some noise"—
A quiet man—with studious air—
And blue print plans beneath his arm—
Got out of a soft purring car—
And in a voice one scarce could hear—
Said—"Eight o'clock, men—time to work"—
A ranting long haired pessimist—
Beneath a torch on a side street—
Told men that Hell was yawning—
And burnt them ere their time had come—
And shook hot devils in their faces—
And sneered and called them vilest sinners—
And gave no hope—
Then shook his hat for a collection—
"Some noise"—
A mother knelt in silent prayer—
Her lips gave token—
And though no sound broke sacred spell—
The whispered plea she knew so well—
Reached up to Heaven.

The Kink in Mr. Jones

Mr. Jones was one of those nervous persons inclined to hypochondria. His imagination, from time to time, afflicted him with maladies which never really materialized. Nevertheless, his devoted wife continued to share his apprehensions at each fresh alarm.

One afternoon long before his usual hour for returning from business he fell into the house. His face was white as chalk, and in his eyes was a stricken look. He was bent forward. He tottered to a chair, and, still curled into a half-moon shape, dropped into it.

"Maria," he gasped, "it's come at last! I'll never be a well man again!"

"Merciful heavens!" she cried, "Henry, what has happened?"

"There was no warning," he said. "All of a sudden, awhile ago, I found I couldn't straighten up. I can't lift my head. I feel all drawn."

"Is there any pain?" she asked, fluttering about in her distress.

"No," he said, "there's no pain—that's what makes me think it must be paralysis. Run for the doctor!"

She ran. She returned in a few minutes, bringing with her the family physician. She ushered him into the room where the sufferer was and waited at the door, wringing her hands and dreading the worst.

Almost immediately the physician emerged. He had his face in his hands and his shoulders heaved and shook as though under the stress of an uncomfortable emotion.

"Oh, doctor," cried the agonized Mrs. Jones, "is there any hope for him?"

"Well, Madam," he said, "it'll help a good deal if he'll unhitch the third button of his vest from the top button of his trousers."

JOSEPH DE BOIS,

ON THE TRAIL

"Here it is!" shouted Joe.

"Where?" put in Ted.

"Can't you see—are you blind?" asked Joe. "Look up on Rocky Hill.

The two boys were hunting for the trail of a gun gang. After the boys started to accent the hill, funny noises were heard from the east side of the hill. When the boys had gone perhaps one hundred yards women's screams were mead out.

Joe pulled his gun out several times, thinking how he could save whoever it was, and capture the gun gang.

A cow path soon led them to an entrance to the gun men's cave. The boys gripped their guns firmly and entered the cave. The cave was eight feet high. As they stepped inside they began falling!

On reaching the bottom the boys groped in the dark. A light soon appeared. They found the light to be a window of a secret room with a light shining out. In the room was two pretty girls and the gun gang. The boys thrust the door open and ordered all mitts up or die of lead!

The boys soon got two men prisoners loose, who helped tie up the gang. The girls ran all the way to the city to get the police.

In two hours the gun gang were safe behind the bars.

The third hour was to receive $5,000 offered for the gang. And in twenty-four hours Ted married Betty, and Joe married June, as those were the two girl's names.

THE MYSTERIOUS STRANGER.

There was a man sitting in a high back easy chair, as my story begins. He was smoking a cigar and reading the evening paper. He was rich, but that morning he had found out that his store had been robbed. His name was Mr. Smith.

His daughter, Jean, was out by the lake with Our Hero, Glen Adams, who was a poor young man, but he worked hard to support his mother for his father hadn't come home one night and everybody thought he was dead but nobody knew where his body was.

To get back to my story, as Mr. Smith sat in the chair a pair of hands—nothing else—came floating out in the dim light and caught Mr. Smith by the throat and strangled him to death.

The servant came down to see what the matter was and was shot without even seeing the gun. When the two by the lake heard the shot they ran for the house. As they were part way to the house they saw a man leaving the house but they thought it was a servant.

When they reached the house Jean ran to her father, and Glen, being a finger-print detective, looked over the servants. Then he went to the side door, but as he passed the curtain he saw a 38-40 shell and a hole through the curtain where the bullet passed through.

After a year or two, we find our Hero out west, following a man whom Glen had vowed he would get for the murder of Mr. Smith. This man had confessed but escaped.

As they were passing through some woods they were captured by this man and taken prisoner. They were thrown in a cave and there Glen found his father—who looked like he was dead.

The next day this man came in and said Glen had to shoot against him for this girl and freedom. They walked twenty paces and this man fired twice, but Glen killed him and he went over and examined the shells and sure enough—they were 38-40. After a while Glen's father got better and Glen and Jean were married.

My Marriage Problems

The Task Lillian Asked Madge to Perform.

Katie went slowly out of the room, a bowed, drooping figure, so pitifully different from the volatile, tempestuous little maid who had served us so long and so faithfully, that I could not keep the tears from my eyes as I watched her.

For I knew, as Lillian and Mother Graham did not, the bitter disappointment which was in store for her when she should read her letter from Jim, and learn that the husband who had adored her in his clumsy, stolid fashion, had gone away for an indefinite period, firm in the belief that she no longer loved him, that, instead, she cared for the man she had been meeting in so mysterious a fashion.

The door had no sooner securely closed upon her than Mother Graham whirled upon me.

"You can't fool me!" she said. "There's something going on that I don't know anything about. What did Jim tell you tonight when he asked to see you in the kitchen? Has he left Katie? If he has, he ought to have his neck wrung. I wish I had known what he was up to when he came meeching around asking to talk to you. I'd have put a flea in his ear, I can tell you."

She paused for sheer lack of breath, while I reflected upon the canny intuition with which she had jumped at the truth, and the peculiarity of her temperament which made her rush to Katie's defense at any attack upon her, when she herself was constantly criticising the girl's actions. It proved, I thought, an old idea of mine that secretly she is very fond of Katie and would miss her even more than I would were she to leave us.

"NOT EXACTLY."

"Not that she doesn't deserve to have him leave her," my mother-in-law resumed, with one of the lightning-like changes of front with which she often bewilders us. "Almost any husband would raise Cain at the way she's been acting lately. But, for all that—look here, Margaret, haven't you a tongue in your head? Did Jim tell you he was going to leave Katie for good?"

"Not exactly," I returned, thankful, indeed, that my promise to Jim concerning his plans extended only to Katie. I could confirm Mother Graham's guess with a conscience all the clearer for the opportunity it gave me to warn her against saying anything to Katie about Jim's departure. I wanted to deal with my little maid on that question by myself.

"Not exactly," she mimicked. "What sort of an answer is that? Now, don't you come any of your high-and-mighty airs with me, Margaret, for I won't have it. I have a right to know what is going on in this house, and if you can't tell me I'll go straight to Katie and get it out of her.

She started to the door, her head held high. That she would make good her threat I well knew, and I returned Lillian's wink of understanding commiseration with a wry grin, as I followed her and put a restraining hand upon her arm.

"I haven't the slightest intention of keeping anything from you, Mother. Come into the library and I'll tell you what Jim said."

I made the mental reservation, as I followed Dicky's mollified mother from the kitchen, that I had not promised to tell her all Jim had said, and I carefully censored my report of the conversation as I repeated it to Mother Graham. But it satisfied her curiosity, and provided her with a new grievance—always a good thing to give her when she is especially rampageous—in the proposed substitution of Jerry Ticer for Jim in the doing of the farm chores.

MADGE IS KEPT BUSY.

"Jerry Ticer!" she ejaculated. "Jerry Ticer! Well, I might as well put in the order for my coffin now, for I know that boy will worry me into the grave. Why, that eternal 'yes, ma'am' of his makes me feel like throwing the poker at him. And I know he'll forget every single solitary thing I tell him to do."

I mentally agreed with her, for the redoubtable Jerry, although one of the most obliging lads in the world and a good, faithful worker, of whom even Mother Graham approves in her good-natured moments, has a most wretched memory. But I always get around that deficiency of Jerry's by checking each order I give him with a similar request to his mother. And as Mrs. Ticer could give cards and spades to any memory teacher, I always feel secure about any tasks I may lay upon Jerry's willing shoulders.

I knew that Mother Graham would forget all about Katie in her contemplation of Jerry Ticer's deficiencies, and I encouraged her in a monologue upon the boy until she ran down for want of words, and remembered that she ought to make an inspection of Richard Second and the other sleeping children.

"If you'll sit up to let Richard and Elizabeth in," she said yawning, "I believe I'll go to bed. I'm frightfully tired."

"Of course," I acquiesced, but I looked at Lillian ruefully when my mother-in-law finally left us.

"Will this day never end?" I asked, with every nerve and muscle reminding me that I had risen at dawn, had driven over a hundred miles, and had just experienced one of the most strenuous hours of my life.

"Yes," smiled Lillian, looking at her watch, "in an hour and a quarter more. And we'll have just about time before Dicky and his sister get here to take the wheels of tonight's happenings apart and see if we can find out what makes them go round."

Cinema Closeups

Wanda Hawley

In one of those large houses up the hillside overlooking Hollywood, where they have plenty of porch room, expanses of grass and trees with shrubbery scattered around there, live Mr. and Mrs. A. Burton Hawley. Their address is 7033 Lanewood.

Allen Burton Hawley is a good looking young Hollywood business man, well liked by his associates, and excellent host. But Mrs. Hawley—well, quite some space has been devoted to her in newspapers and magazines these last few years. Adjectives are always used plentifully in describing her—peaches and cream complexion, hair like spun gold—that white kind of gold that resembles platinum, dimples, piquant charm. Most moving picture fans have read them over and again. Yes, it's Wanda we are talking about.

She is one of those few professional women who use their husband's name. Probably this is due to the fact that he introduced himself and a little romance into her life back in the period when she was studying music in Brooklyn before she had ever thought of going into motion pictures. Anyway, Wanda Hawley is much more euphonius than Wanda Pittack used to be.

Both Miss Hawley and her husband are ardent golf enthusiasts. They are familiar figures on the links about Los Angeles. She is also an automobile fan and is a skillful driver.

Her real start up the ladder of fame came in 1918 when she appeared in Cecil B. DeMille's production, "Old Wives for New." Since then a Paramount star she has become one of the famous women of the screen. Recently she was featured with Dorothy Dalton in "The Woman Who Walked Alone."

Miss Hawley is to be featured during the coming fall and winter in one of the big Paramount pictures of the year, "Burning Sands," a George Melford production.

Sweet Stranger

by Bertha Ruck

(Later.)

I believe some of those old books on astrology claim that the most curious happenings in a woman's life may be looked for at the time of the full moon.

It was full moon tonight. I'd had dinner in the mess of the Hill Camp, sitting between the Professor's wife and another friend, the accountant, the cheeriest of young soldiers, known universally as "Johnnie." After dinner I'd sat by the blaze with the others. When taps were sounded and the younger campites retired to their various shacks to bed, I'd wandered up the road again towards our lodging. I saw the light in Jim's window. Yes, somebody was in there with him. No hurry for me, then. Some one came up behind me.

It was the brown-eyed medical-student girl they called "Connie," bare-headed, and with a towel swung around her neck.

"Say, Mouse, are you for a Diana dip?" she asked cheerfully. "There's a little bunch of us going in swimming in the moonlight. Coming?"

"Rather!" I agreed gladly. "Just let me fetch my towels."

I dashed in and got them, then back again into the shifting lights and shadows of the village street, where the "bunch" was collected.

"Come on, Connie," I cried, shaking off thought, "I'll race you to the short cut."

It was neck and neck to that gap in the hedge that marks the short cut over the fields to the lake. Laughing, we paused at the goal, to wait for the others.

That was the exact moment when the thing happened. Down the road I saw, walking towards us, that figure of a young man. Bareheaded, dressed in a light suit of gray, he came up, swinging quickly and easily along, and passed close beside us. The moonlight shone straight on his face. He did not even glance at us. As he passed, he was looking ahead and smiling a little.

This I saw distinctly, even before I recognized who it was. Then I gasped aloud. That was the Slim Pilot. The Slim Pilot of the boat! Here! In that second he disappeared.

"Pardon?" said the other girl, in surprise. "What are you talking about?" I murmured some answer about "That young man!"

"Young man, Mouse? What young man?"

"The—the one that passed us just now."

"Passed us? Why, there was no young man passed us, Mouse," declared the other girl, in her bright, parsons little voice. "Say, you folks"—as the other group of bathers walked up to us, "Say, who was the young man that passed along just now?"

"Man, Connie," they repeated. "Nobody went past."

"Maybe he slipped through the hedge before he came up to the girls," Connie suggested. "Maybe it was Coke or Bill."

Quite certainly I replied, "No. It was not Coke or Bill. It was somebody I knew before I came here."

The other girls looked at me with little murmurs of interest and sympathy.

"Well, now, isn't that the oddest thing."

"Miss Vaughan, I guess you've been seeing a ghost."

I fancy they thought I had been upset by something—the overstrain of my anxiety about Jim, perhaps. But I've never been less upset. Back of the dazed feeling another feeling was working up. I think it was a kind of quiet pleasure—content. He'd come. The Slim Pilot had come. I'd seen him again. I found myself, even while the girls talked and laughed beside me, asking myself, quite seriously, a question—

"Does this mean that he's dead?" Immediately I found myself answering this. "It doesn't mean that at all. He's alive, somewhere." The chief strangeness remained that the Slim Pilot's image should appear, not on one of those nights when I had tossed wakefully thinking about him, but tonight. Some explanation of that, at least, was to be given to me.

Taking the trail to the right of the little birch copse, we arrived at the lakeside, opposite to the shore of Three Palles and the Lake House. Here was solitude assured. Here were a little Japanese-looking pavilion and a pier of logs running out into the water.

Here, too, it was good-bye to bloomers, jumpers and heavy hiking boots, and in those waters, cool, wine-clear, yet inky-black, to swim and splash untrammelled.

I swam out a little from shore, the better to watch the leap of one after another into the water again. They swam, racing one another up to me; then we all flung ourselves on our backs and floated, staring up to the face of that same, that silvery, that indifferent moon.

The water lapped about our ears . . . The bathers had a moment of silence. In that moment I felt that I was one with the breathing country, with the soft night, with Syrinx and those other immortals I was—

Suddenly a sound tore through the stillness, rending the moment of illusion. The sound of a clarion girlish voice calling from the bank, "Miss Vaughan! O, Miss Vaughan! Say, Miss Vaughan's wanted." Booted footsteps now clattered along the pier, "Tell her, somebody."

"I hear! Coming!" I called back in alarm. Hastily I swam the few lengths back to the stage. It was the Professor's rosy daughter who stood on the pier.

"Dolly! What is it" I cried anxiously. "Has Jim—is anything the matter with my brother?"

I threw on my clothes and dashed along the bankside beside the girl.

So sure was I of who was telephoning that I said to her as we ran: "It's from Canada—"

"Why no, Miss Vaughan," returned Dolly, "it's from New York."

I realized that it was still Canada though speaking from New York.

In the barely furnished office I waited to steady my fluttering breath, my traitorous voice. Then I caught up the receiver.

"Hullo," I said. "Miss Vaughan speaking."

Then, minimized, but still wonderfully clear: "Ah, hullo; this is Morris—M-o-r-r-i-s. I don't know if you will remember who I am. Met you on the Celtonia."

Quickly I called back: "Yes Yes, I do remember. You—you sang."

"Yes. That's right." A little laugh there. "I want to ask you something. Can you hear me all right?"

"Perfectly." My voice was steadier than his.

He went on eagerly "I'm speaking from New York. I say—I want you to come here. Now, to the Dollardorf. That's where I am. How soon can you come?"

"What?"

"How soon can you come here?"

It seemed to me that for a long, long time I had been expecting this. I began to explain. "Oh, to New York. Yes. We shall be coming back there, of course. But not just yet. You see, my brother's been laid up. He's still in bed. Couldn't move yet."

I heard the "Oh, Lord!" at the other end. Then, "I say, I am a fool. Began at the wrong end, of course. What I mean is—you know Miss Crane is here?"

"Yes, I had a letter from her."

"She's at this hotel. 'Course I shouldn't ask you to come here alone. With her here, it'll make it all right. It's you I want, not your brother. Sounds frightfully rude. I'll explain when you come. Miss Crane knows I'm phoning and all that——"

"But—Jim's ill in bed. I'm nursing him."

"Not dangerously ill, is he?"

"No, no! He's ever so much better, but—"

"Well, if he isn't very bad, I ask you to leave him and come to New York. Tonight. Be here tomorrow. There's somebody, isn't there, that you could leave with Vaughan?"

"There's comebody with him now but—"

"Can't they stop on? Just a day or two?"

"Oh—I don't know," I hesitated, catching my breath.

He was calling me. "Are you there? Are you there?"

"Yes," I called back. "You—you haven't told me why you want to see me."

"I can't. If I could tell you over the telephone I shouldn't worry you to come. You are coming?"

"I—I will wire you in the morning," I faltered.

"No, no! Don't wire! Come!"

I began, "But why—"

The voice, more eagerly, "Why can't I come to you? I'll tell you that when you're here."

"But—"

"You didn't expect it? Not ever? Not any time? It couldn't be sooner, you see. It—oh, why can't I see your face?"

Here, at this point, intermittent buzzings, rattlings, pistol-shots, began to pour in from the phone upon the drum of my ear. I got disjointed "Hullo's," "Are you there's?" Then dead silence. . . Cut off. . .

Slowly I turned away.

The night train to New York? I could catch it by taking a car on to the junction! I heard my voice calling to the accountant boy.

"Johnnie! . . . I've got to have a car. Get one for me, will you? Yes, to the junction. I'll rush up to the village to dress, and I'll meet it outside the store."

In Jim's window the lamp still burned; Georgia was "settling" him for the night, then. My feet carried me, not into the sick room first, but into my own. Then, all ready for the journey, I tapped at Jim's door and slipped in.

"Jimmy! I say—"

His head turned quickly on the pillow.

"Right O. You know what we've got. But—I say, Mouse, you going anywhere?"

"I'm going to New York by the next train."

"New York? My dear kid, what for?"

"For three days. Miss Crane's at the Dollardorf."

My amazed brother: "Has she wired you?"

"The—er—the message came by telephone. I've got to go at once. I must have my fare, and—"

"But why on earth should Miss Crane—"

"Oh, how do I know anything till I get there. The message just said 'Come.' Oh, do be quick, and tell me where've you put the money."

"Collar box on top shelf of cupboard in your room; bunch of notes at the bottom; key here under the pillow. Take what you want."

"Thanks. You'll be all right Jim? I must rush. Good-bye, dear." I dashed out of the sick-room into my room. I got the notes and took what I wanted. Georgia Tarbell had followed me in.

She asked me gravely, "Is this a trick, Miss Vaughan?"

"Trick?" I echoed. "What do you mean by 'trick'?"

"Leaving me here to look after Captain Vaughan."

"Good gracious!" I began in agitation, "why on earth do you—"

"Because," quietly, "if you go of course, I shall go, too. If you are going away like this so that I may be left alone with your brother, I do call it a trick. And a mean one."

I faced her in the flickering candlelight.

"Good heavens!" I cried, "I hadn't thought of you. I hadn't thought even of him. All I've thought of is being sent for like this!"

Georgia said, with a return to that judicial manner, "This isn't any of Captain Vaughan's doing. I acquit him." But if Claudia Crane thought—"

"Claudia Crane? She's nothing to do with it, either. She's there, at the Dollardorf, that's all," I said. "She'll look after me."

I heard the sound of the car down the road.

"But Miss Crane telephoned you from New York?"

Listen, World!

IF I had absolute control over the destinies of this country for one week, one of the first reforms I'd institute would be to compel a uniform costume for school children.

I do believe that the present fashions for children do more to strangle democracy in its infancy and prevent the growth of the human brain than any other single factor in connection with the growth of American citizens. Now I am not one of those who consider beautiful dressing unnecessary or immoral. I was fond of the short skirt, I approved of the rolled sock, I simply dote on chiffons and ribbons, furs and furbelows. I do not even decry the Rougish Rouge and the Piquant Powder Puff. But I do maintain that there is a place for all this sort of thing and that school isn't the place.

We continually boast of the Great Democratic Principles underlying our Heaven Inspired Government — and then we promptly send little Bessie to school in a pink taffeta dress that deals a death wallop to democracy before it has even cut its first tooth.

"But," you cry "clothes foster a Love of Beauty!" Do they? They foster Heartache and Envy—and there's no heartache or envy in the world like that of a shabby child. They foster Worry at the Office and Nagging in the Home. They foster Silliness and Discontent and Snobbishness which will endure thru life. And they shut out the contemplation of any number of useful, intere ting, artistic and humane interests. Is the "love of beauty" to be brought at such a price?

As a matter of fact, the "love of beauty" which clothes create and foster is the lowest and most primitive form of decorative hunger. It is largely a love of Self—and a strutting rooster displays just as much intelligence and pleasure in the manifestations of it as the wearer of the most exclusive French models.

It's excusable in a rooster or a savage, and a decent amount of it gilds the dinginess of daily life for all of us. But isn't it time we stopped making it a Major Aim in life? Isn't it time that we put some higher ideals before little Bessie than the desire to dress better than the other little girls and ultimately to marry some man who will dress her better than the other wives?

Let's begin clothing our youngster's bodies in serviceable ginghams and serges, cut from standard patterns, and perhaps, in time, we may begin to get spirits that arn't clad in shoddy burlap and tarnished tinsel as all too many of the spirits of American girls are now clad.

It's "kinda" hard to jump on someone who praises you, but I gotta do it. There are two good old stand-pat bromides that make me want to swear—yes, gentle reader—SWEAR. Some day I'll do it too, and The TRIBUNE will lose some Nice Person's subscription.

Here's my row.

"The men who make the country's great men are the ones who THINK THEY MAKE ALL THE DECISIONS IN THE HOME, BUT IN REALITY WOULD BE AT A STANDSTILL WERE THEY TO LOSE THEIR WIVES."

That, to me, is utter nonsense. A man or woman is fine and Great because they've got it in 'em, and not because said wife or husband makes the other THINK so. It's but if greatness can't endure by itself—it's a purple balloon that loses its air over night.

While I'm being disagreeable, I want to rise up on my cloven hoof and announce my peeve against the other bromide. "YES, JOE AND AMY ARE GOING TO BE MARRIED, AND JOE IS SO KIND TO HER."

Now I maintain that that's an insult to any woman. Joe LOVES Amy and Amy LOVES Joe, and saying Joe is KIND, sounds abominably degrading to any self-respecting human. Ye Gods, if any Joe gets "kind" to me—there'll be a hurry call for the emergency hospital ambulance—and it won't be for ME.

"Dear Geraldine:

"Have often threatened to write to you, but have never had the time, but today I'm just playing 'lady of leisure,' so I thought I'd answer 'An Old He Man.'

"'How To Keep a Man a Happy and Willing Slave.' Who in blazes wants a slave? I'm sure I don't, and I know numbers of others who don't either. What we want nowadays is a partner and not a slave.

"'Old He Man' I'll wage you're the kind of man a woman can twist around her fingers and are proud of it. Well, such men never make the country's great men. The men who make the country's great men are the ones who think they make all the decisions in the home, but in reality would be at a standstill were they to lose their wives.

"'Winifred Black' in her article of the same day expresses the truth very clearly, more clearly than I ever could, so I will quote her. "Love demands sympathy and understanding, not obedience." A slave must obey, and what self-respecting man or woman wants to obey? I'm sure I wouldn't 'obey' my husband nor would I expect him to obey me.

"When we were first married my husband was the same kind of man you depict yourself as 'Old He Man.' He thought, too, that I should make all the decisions and also baby him, just because 'men are always boys.' But why should a man be babied any more than a woman? All the women I know are just as much girls at heart as the men are boys, so why should a woman have to curb her feelings any more than a man, just because she's a mother? That's where so many divorces come in. I have gradually weaned my husband away from the idea that he should be babied, but this wasn't accomplished in a day, a week, a month, or even a year. It has taken several years and today I have a husband I am proud of.

"I could write volumes on this, because I feel just as strongly about it as you do Jerry, but I shall confine myself to these few words.

"I should very dearly like to ask you a question though, Jerry, and have you and 'The Gang' answer it. It is a very vital question with me.

"Some few years ago I married a man with two little children. The mother had run away with another man and oftentimes came back to the same city where her two little children were, but never even inquired about them, let alone going to see them.

"When I married, I did so with the understanding that I would bring the babies up as my own and that no one would know any different, which I have done. In our married life, the Lord has blessed me with a little one of my own, which has made me more understanding towards my step-children. Now I love them both dearly and want them to make something out of themselves. Neither knows nor suspects that I am not his mother. Now, Jerry, here is the question. I have been told (by my mother-in-law) that when the boys grow to manhood, they should be told I am not their mother, so that if they want they can go and look up their mother. As far as the telling I am not their mother, that is in accordance with my own ideas, but why in the name of anything you hold sacred should they hunt up the mother who deserted them when they were babies because they were 'too much bother?' Why, I ask, should they be expected to support her then? Couldn't I be expected to ask for their love after I have taken care of them all these years? When they are grown — nothing will! You're taking no chance.

They tell me that a Large, Husky Brunette named Siki has knocked out Carpentier. It's a pity he wasn't at this movie the other night. His services were badly needed.

Dear old Jerry—

The other night I went to a show with my brother who is six years younger than I am—I'm just eighteen. Well, we took a seat and pretty soon some one took the seat next to me. Now that's alright, until I felt something touching my leg and pushing alongside of my slipper. Who should it be but the young lizard who took the seat next to mine. I thought it was an accident at first so I gently removed my leg, but soon there was another and another tapping, and then the crossed his arms and tried to get a hold on to my arm. I no sooner would move and get interested in the picture than it would start again.

I would have changed seats with my brother, but then, why should I? Didn't I pay for that seat? I wonder, Jerry, if that is to be expected of the male of today? Does he think he's not a Romeo unless he can mash the first girl he sees? It hurt me, because it was my first experience of 20th century treatment—a numb, dead hurt way down inside—a mistrust. Yet something whispers—"It's nothing, why you're foolish — forget it and laugh." Laugh—no, I don't laugh the way I used to—my laugh has a memory and a slur to it. Jerry, am I crazy? A B 4.

Why should your laugh have a "memory and slur to it?" Do you conceal an ache in your heart because, for some mysterious reason, the Creator placed hairy spiders, green worms, warty toads and hornets in the world along with humming birds and wild roses? Of course you don't. Then cheer up, Little Sister, this knee nudger of yours is only a hairy caterpillar. This isn't "20th century treatment." It even antedates the code of manners prevalent amongst the best bandits in the first century. Stop worrying and the next time it happens tell the usher about it, or, if you prefer direct action, smash him. HARD!

Ann P. W.: I sent you a personal reply, but the letter was returned to me. I a mhoping that this "personal word" reaches you. The law you speak of was repealed in England on August 28, 1907, and we have no such law here. I see no reason why you shouldn't make this new try for happiness, especially since the kiddies love him so much. Heer is my hand and all good wishes for your joy.

Winifred Black tells FOLKS AND about THINGS

Well, well, so we're going to have our books censored.

First, the speaking plays, then the movies — and now the books. What next, I wonder?

It doesn't seem quite the American sort of thing, does it?

After all, if you and I are free, white and 21, and want to turn our minds into sewers by reading all kinds of disagreeable books, that does seem to be something like our own affair—doesn't it?

I wish the censor would be a mind reader and begin with the minds of the authors—

They do seem to have such queer, perverted, narrow views of life—these authors who ought to be censored.

To read one of their books you'd think there wasn't a clean-minded, honest, sure-enough man left in the world, and as for the women, they all belong in some home for degenerates — if you believe the authors.

Whatever is the matter with the poor things?

THERE'S YOUR MOTHER—

Where do they live, anyhow? And where do they get their impressions? In the observation ward of a psychopathic hospital?

Of course, we all know that there are perverts and sub-normals and poor, unfortunate abnormals in the world.

We've all seen them and some of us, to our cost, have known them.

But why write as if there were no other kind of creatures?

There's your little sister, sweet as a peach and good as gold—do you believe she lies awake nights planning to run away with the worst man in town?

She would if she were in one of the modern novels that has started all this talk of a censor.

Poor little thing, she has her dreams, of course, and some of them are doubtless foolish and impracticable, but on the whole she tries as hard as she can to be as nice as she can, and if she would go to confession or a psycho-analyst for the first time when she's ... I don't believe the story she'd have to tell would strike terror to the heart of the one to whom she confessed.

There's your mother—she seems to be a kindly, candid soul—if she were in one of the aforesaid stories, she'd be a regular Lucretia Borgia or something of that sort.

Do you believe she is, really?

That brother of yours, he's made an awful fool of himself once or twice but, after all, you'd trust him with your last cent and your reputation and never dream of being betrayed.

Where do they all come from—these "new" school of fiction?

LET'S FORGET THE VILLAINS.

I've seen one or two of them in the police courts, and two or three in reform schools, and four or five in insane asylums, but how any one can think that the world is made up of them is beyond me.

I do wish some one would make it the fashion to write some stories about life as it really is, and not as somebody likes to dream it is, in some nightmare.

The world is full to bursting with people who are trying hard to do the very best they can—not only for themselves, but for everybody else.

Why isn't it interesting to hear about some of them, once in a while?

That girl in your kitchen—oh yes, I know!—she's a "maid," but she's a girl, too, just the same. Do you realize how homesick and lonesome she is sometimes, and how easy it would be for her to have a lot of "good times" if she wanted to pay for them in the wrong sort of coin?

She's a heroine, if you only knew it, and an interesting one, too.

The clerk who brings the names of visitors at your father's office. Do you know the fight he's making to take care of his mother and send his little sister to school? Talk about a hero—he's one, if ever one lived!

Let's have some stories about John and Mary, and William and Kate—the kind of people you know and I know, the kind of people you love and I love!

And let's forget for a few minutes all about the villains and the vamps. I think it would be rather refreshing, don't you?

TAKE Buffalo Bill, for instance.

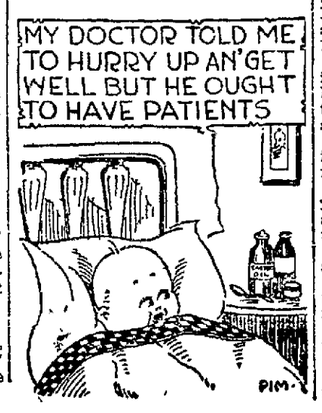

He was one of the romantic figures of the West that was, while I'm just an office figure in a crowded city.

Of course Buffalo Bill had several tough mix-ups with the Indians, and he had to kill Chief Yellow Hand, and he had to lead the hard life of a guide, a scout, a showman, a rider for the Pony express and a member of the Nebraska Legislature and he once engaged in the prosaic pursuit of furnishing buffalo meat to railroad laborers.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

By HOWARD R GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S TRIPPER.

SOME of you, I fancy, after reading, or having had read to you, the name of this story, may exclaim

'Oh he's made a mistake! It should be Susie's slipped!"

But, no, it shouldn't be a slipper at all Tripper is what I mean and you'll see for yourself before the story is finished

Now to start off One day Uncle Wiggily gave his pink nose two twinkles instead of one, as it was rather cold, and down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow he hopped

"I am going out to seek an adventure, Nurse Jane," he said "I may have to go 'afth away than [illegible] all the leaves being off the trees"

"What has that to do with adventures?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper

"Well, with leaves on the trees the adventures have not such good places to hide'" laughed the bunny 'and sometimes they go into the deepest of the woods to keep away from me But I'll be home sooner or later"

"Please don't be too late" begged Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. I am going to make cabbage turnovers for supper, and you like them hot'"

"I'll be back in time for the cabbage turnovers, and I could also eat some carrot fl[illegible]ps if you would make them," laughed Uncle Wiggily

'I'll try," said Nurse Jane

Then the bunny rabbit went hippity-hop down the path that led to the woods where many adventures might be found Uncle Wiggily was wondering what would happen him and he was hoping it would be something jolly when, all of a sudden, down in the dried leaves near his paws, the bunny heard:

He ran with her along the path

'Hiss' Hiss Hiss!"

Oh, how [illegible] Uncle Wiggily, and the crawling snake stuck out his forked tongue and said

Hello, Uncle Wiggily! For this [illegible] with friends with the rabbit gentleman I'm glad you stopped Mr Longears," went on the snake talking like a steam radiator on a cold morning 'I missed it you to tell you that not long ago, I saw your niece, Susie Littletail, running through the woods with her grape vine jumping rope She was running very fast, Susie was I called to her, but she wouldn't stop"

'Oh! So Susie was running very fast with her grape vine jumping rope, was she?" repeated Uncle Wiggily. "Well, perhaps the Bob Cat or the Shillelagh Scallery Alligator might have been chasing her Which way did Susie go? I'll hop after her, and maybe I can save her ears from being nibbled"

'She went that way,' and the snake pointed with his tail to a path that led through the woods and bushes.

'Thank you!" called back Uncle Wiggily, as he quickly hopped along the path.

The rabbit gentleman hopped very fast, looking on all sides for Susie, and he was thinking how sad it would be if the little rabbit girl should be caught by the Bob Cat or the Shillelagh Scallery Alligator then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily felt something catch him around one leg and throw him to the ground.

'I caught! It's a trap!" cried the bunny. 'The Bob Cat must have set a trap here. First he caught Susie, and now he's caught me!"

But as Uncle Wiggily looked around he saw no Bob Cat and no trap Then, looking at his leg that was caught the bunny saw it was twisted in the loop of a grape vine jumping rope.

'It's Susie's," exclaimed Mr. Longears. "It was rather careless of her to drop her jumping rope here in the path where any one might get tangled in it and trip! It's a regular tripper, that's what it is. I shall leave it here, go and get Susie and bring her back here to show her the tripper. I'll tell her not to be careless again!"

Picking himself up, for he was not hurt Uncle Wiggily left Susie's "tripper" where it was and hopped on again down the path Soon he saw Susie just ahead of him, gathering late wild flowers

"Susie!" called Uncle Wiggily, "I want you!"

"Yes' And I want you, Uncle Wiggily!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant voice. "I want your ears to nibble!"

Out popped the Bob Cat, growling and snarling.

"Oh, Susie! Come with me, quickly!" cried Uncle Wiggily and, taking Susie by the paw he ran with her along the path, ahead of the Bob Cat. "There is just one chance that we may be saved," said the bunny.

"How?" asked Susie.

"By your tripper," whispered the rabbit gentleman. "I mean your jumping rope. Maybe the Bob Cat will catch his paw in it and trip as I did."

And that's just what happened When Uncle Wiggily and Susie reached the tripper in the grass they jumped over it safely. But the Bob Cat, leaping along behind them a moment later, knew nothing of the tangling loop of grapevine rope. Into it he set his paw. Then—

"Bing! Bang!" Tripped to the ground with a heavy fall was the Bob Cat. He turned a somersault, slid on one ear, bunked his nose and banged one eye.

"Oh, what a tumble!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he ran safely on with the little rabbit girl. "Your tripper did us a good turn after all, Susie But never leave jumping ropes like that any more."

"No, Uncle Wiggily," spoke Susie, I'll not!"

And if the alarm clock doesn't take the top off the cocoanut cake and use it for an umbrella in a snow storm, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the rustling leaves.

PLANS LAID FOR CENTENNIAL FETE IN CONTRA COSTA

Celebration On Mt. Diablo to Commemorate Hundredth Birthday Proposed.

Tentative plans for a Contra Costa centennial celebration on Mount Diablo are being made by the Mount Diablo State Park Council.

The celebration will be held next year, the hundredth anniversary of the founding of the county by Francisco Castro and Ignacio Martinez, who settled there in 1823, according to history.

Cstro established himself at the present site of San Pablo and Martinez went to Pinole. Both remained there for the balance of their days and their descendants are well known in the county today. According to the plans of the State Park Council, the entire county will participate in the birthday celebration, and a letter has been sent the board of supervisors of Contra Costa county asking official co-operation.

"The form and duration of the celebration must be determined by the board of supervisors," said Wells Drury, organizing secretary of the council, "and such help as is necessary might be enlisted from organizations like the Native Sons and Native Daughters, the chambers of commerce of the county and civic and fraternal societies.

"The Mount Diablo State Park Council will co-operate to the full in the perfection of plans for proper ceremonies, feeling that Mount Diablo, rising as it does in the very center of Contra Costa county and holding such rich associations with the early history of the State, is the logical meeting ground for all who wish to join in commemorating this notable event."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime

Oakland Stage and Film Attractions

AMERICAN.

"Burning Sands," a vivid George Melford production which in many respects parallels his first great success, "The Shiek," and which includes in the cast Wanda Hawley, Milton Sills, Jacqueline Logan and other film celebrities, is now playing at the American Theater.

The story is unusual in telling of two women, one a French dancer and the other a proud society beauty, who cast convention to the winds and invade the wastes of the Sahara to win the love of the same man.

Wanda Hawley gives one of the best impressions of her career and Sills as the man who hated women because he failed to understand them, acts to dramatic perfection.

CHIMES

Tonight and tomorrow night will end the engagement of popular Wallace Reid in the fastest picture he has yet made, namely, "The Dictator," now playing at the Chimes Theater. For one day only, Saturday, "Cardigan," the great American picture by Robert W. Chambers "Cardigan" is an historical pageant. It shows in action such men as John Hancock, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere and his famous ride, the battles of Concord and Lexington. Mothers and fathers, send your children to the matinee. "Alla Babba," a comedy, "The Explorer," an educational picture and the Screen Review consolidate the heaviest program the Chimes has ever offered.

ORPHEUM

In honor of the celebration of the Third-of-a-Century Anniversary of the Orpheum Circuit of theaters, the Oakland Orpheum will present next week a special program of vaudeville entertainment together with special features and special speakers each night of the week. The program that has been arranged includes as headline acts Harry Watson, Jr., Ivan Bankoff & Company and Bevan & Flint.

Harry Watson, Jr., appears as "Young Kid Battling Dugan" and his famous telephone scene is of a nature to bear out this high praise. Ivan Bankoff is known as a premier dancer and creator of new dances. His work with the Metropolitan Opera Company was in itself sufficient to gain worldwide fame. This season Bankoff has created a dazzling production entitled "The Dancing Master." Under the title of "A Slight Interruption" Bevan and Flint have created for vaudeville one of the most uproariously funny "nut" comedy acts that have ever been offered. Dorothea Sadlier and her company will offer a satirical playlet written by William C. De Mille entitled "1999" which is replete with clever comedy throughout. Simpson and Dean will present a snappy new act next week. Bessye Clifford will stage "Art Impressions," Karoll Brothers, with a new type of acrobatic act, will complete the bill. Three new films will also be presented.

FRANKLIN

"Rags to Riches," with Wesley Barry, is the attraction at the Franklin this week. It is acknowledged the best starring picture that the freckled face comedian has brought to us, being filled to the brim with thrills, humor and romance.

Wesley has surrounded himself with a notable cast of film favorites, including Niles Welch, Ruth Renick, Richard Tucker and Russell Simpson.

The production will terminate its engagement next Friday night to make way for the Jesse Lasky attraction "Pink Gods and Blue Demons" Bebe Daniels, Anna Q. Nilson, James Kirkwood and Raymond Hatton assume the leading roles.

It is a picturization of the novel of Cynthia Stockley of the same name. The story is of two women who loved one man, one for what he could give her, the other for what he was.

FULTON

"Experience" gives way next Sunday to a new comedy, "We Girls," written by Frederick and Fanny Hatton, who also wrote "Lombardi Ltd." "The Songs Bird," "The Walkoffs," "Upstairs and Down," and others The Fulton Theater's production of "We Girls" will give Isabelle Lowe opportunity to play one of the most delicious ingenue roles ever framed. The "flapper" mother, who is determined to remain young and cute, regardless, will give Dorothy Blackburn her biggest opportunity in the acting line since she joined the Fulton Company.

John Miljan will be a bashful doctor; Walter Scott Weeks will be a zealous, good-looking police officer on the beat; Henry Shumer will portray the role of a financier, while Vaughan Morgan will shine as a lad with whom "mamma" is deeply in love. John Ivan will be a rollicking "man-about-town"; Frank Darien will portray one of his inimitable "old man" types; Frederick Green will be an impeccable butler. Lora Rogers is to be a faithful duena; Minnie Sisson and Hedwig Heine gushing society women, clever but catty.

T. and D.

One of the most successful weeks ever registered at the T & D. is drawing to a close, with the engagement of Norma Talmadge in "The Eternal Flame," finishing on Friday night.

"The Eternal Flame" will make way for the unusually strong double feature opening Saturday, consisting of House Peters in the famous old melodrama "Human Hearts" and Goldwyn's big 1922 picture, "Remembrance." Both pictures have always been featured and have never appeared on any program as equal attractions.

Eddie Moran, seen this week in the humorous act of his own conception called "Parlor Car Capers," closes his engagement next week, staging as a final offering a jazzy affair which includes some novel numbers of his own origination.

The current bill includes, besides "The Eternal Flame," William Russell in "Money to Burn" and "Look Out Below," a Mermaid Comedy.

Mrs. Kate J. Willats of San Francisco was elected grand secretary for the 40th consecutive term.

Prior to the election, the report of the committee on charters was heard, and charters were granted to 14 chapters which worked last year under dispensation. PANTAGES

Bill "Swede" Hall, assisted by Jolly Jenny Colburn and Company, will be the headliner on the bill opening at Pantages on Sunday. "Swede" Hall has an original character sketch, "Hilda," with a laugh in every line. Larry Hopkins and his Monarchs of Melody will present singing, dancing and instrumental music of the classic and popular type. "The Bride and the Groom" is an act put on by Goetz and Duffy. Dances and songs in an interesting variety will be put on by the team, Carson and Kane A flirtation, a quarrel and a lover-like reconciliation all take place in the dialogue put on by Robinson and Pierce. The girl in the act is pretty and the man is clever and they make the best of comic situations.

Maybelle Phillips, "The Sunshine Girl," will sing her way into the [illegible] tuneful songs.

CENTURY

"The New Mama" was lifted above the level of any other production presented at the theater under the direction of Herbert A. Harris by the combined efforts of Russell and his handsome lead, Walter Spencer. They make the vehicle one to be remembered in connction with their long engagement at the Century.

Spencer does some of the best work of his career in the part of the young man who is hopelessly in love with a beautiful woman. Russell is said to excel himself. James Edwards, Florence Spurrier, Ruby Lang, and Millie Pedro contribute their share in making the vehicle a success.

STATE

"Through a Glass Window," which is being presented at the State Theater, is an excellent show. It is a heart interest story that stacks up splendidly with such pictures of emotional appeal as "The Miracle Man," "One More American," "Over the Hill," and "The Old Nest."

Five satisfying acts of vaudeville are staged in connection with the vaudeville. The Australian Delsoes are offering "A Whirl, A Twirl, A Wonderful Girl"—a colorful number. Dixon & Freeman portray "The Overseas Girl and The Minstrel Man." "The Wrights" have an entertaining act. Capay & Capette are unusually good with "Smart Songs." Swan's Novelty constitutes a gorgeous sea spectacle.

"The Call of Home," is the all-star picture feature coming to the State next Sunday.

NEW PIEDMONT

The second of a series of Afternoon Concerts by the Philharmonic Concert Orchestra will be held in the New Piedmont Theater on Wednesday afternoon, October 25, at 3 p. m The Philharmonic Concert Orchestra is an organization made up of picked men from the S. F. Symphony, under the leadership of Mischa Gluschkin, the celebrated Russian violinist and conductor, and is said to be an organization of exceptional merit.

These concerts are not being given in the hope of profit, but rather with the idea of offering the Oakland public, and the music lovers in particular, a class of music for which they have heretofore been compelled to seek in our sister city.

A nominal price of admission has been set on these concerts, and everyone who can is cordially invited to avail themselves of this opportunity to enjoy one and a half hours of real music, in an atmosphere that is particularly homelike and pleasant.

Alameda Victim of Ship Fire Tells Story of Sea Disaster

Charles T. Stokes Says Experience Now Seems Like Bad Dream.

CHARLES E. STOKES, shipping man, who narrates occurrences on blazing S. S. Honolulu.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 19.—Effecting a spectacular escape by means of a rope ladder from the burning City of Honolulu, adrift in an open boat for ten hours, spending two subsequent nights filled with countless discomforts in cramped quarters aboard the Thomas, are a few of the incidents experienced during the last week by Charles E. Stokes, 843 Laurel street, who arrived at his home in this city yesterday afternoon.

Stokes, suffering from an injury to his right leg, sustained when the rope ladder which he was descending from the top deck of the burning vessel to the life boat, became entangled and swung him against the ships side, was accompanied from Los Angeles by his son Jasper, who had hurried south to meet the Thomas at its arrival in San Pedro.

PUT ON WARM CLOTHES

In relating how he was awakened at 5 o'clock the morning of the fire by a confusion outside his stateroom door, Stokes said:

"After discovering that the ship was a fire, but in no immediate danger, I dressed leisurely, packed my suit cases and carried them to the top deck with my overcoat and life perserver. Later, when the order came for all passengers to don life preservers I slipped mine on over my overcoat. This was all of the clothing I saved, but I was thankful for having dressed fully and warmly, which was more than a great many of the passengers did.

"Although there was no panic, after the general alarm of fire was sounded, shortly after 6 o'clock, the passengers who trooped half-clad to the top decks, refused to go below and secure valuables and further clothing. I think many were too frightened to do so, although they had almost two hours to do it in. Hot coffee which was passed around to the passengers was rejected by many, who were too nervous to take it.

"I was among the last passengers to leave the ship and stood by aiding the others all I could as they were loaded into the life boats. I saw little confusion even among the children. Few realized they were in grave danger. The craft I was in, was a small whale boat and rode the waves admirably.

"One of the sailors in the boat wanted to take a picture of the City of Honolulu, when she was a mass of flames, so we rowed back to within a half mile of the burning vessel and cruised around it for some time.

"It was about 1 o'clock in the afternoon when flames could be seen on the top deck where I had parked my suitcases and I knew about eight hundred dollars worth of my property was contributing fuel to that blaze.

"We were making plans to spend the night in the open boat, when the sailor discovered smoke on the horizon, which afterwards turned out to be [illegible] of the West Faralon. It took about two hours from the time we sighted the smoke, before we pulled up beside the relief ship and were hoisted aboard. The officers of that boat cannot be praised too highly. They did everything possible for passengers and crew. I have traveled the world over but never met a finer type of seamen.

UNFORTUNATE ROUTING

"The unfortunate part of the whole affair was routing the ship via Los Angeles, when San Francisco was the nearest port. Many passengers suffered considerable disappointments and inconveniences from this as they had wired relatives to meet them in San Francisco. With the changing of the ships course, many arrived in Los Angeles without friends or relatives to greet them and without funds or clothing.

"My wife was in Los Angeles awaiting my arrival from Honolulu. When word of the disaster to the City of Honolulu reached her she hurried north expecting to be at the dock when the Thomas landed, as per given schedule, in San Francisco. Upon her arrival she learned the Thomas was headed for Los Angeles and so my son departed immediately for the southern port. Now that I am home and can look back on my experience it seems unreal, and sort of a bad dream. I fear a great many of the passengers will suffer from the after effects of their experience.

DAYLIGHT, SEA CALM

"During the height of the excitement they were keyed to such a high pitch, that no one gave much thought to the fact that the fire happened at a most opportune time—that is in daylight and in a calm sea. I think, all things considered, we were fortunate to escape as easily as we did."

Stokes, who is well known in fraternal circles in the bay region, is past master of the Oak Grove lodge of Masons of Alameda. He is the Pacific coast representative of the Thomas Cook and Son tourist, steamship and forwarding agents. He made the trip to Honolulu on the Steamer President Lincoln and had been in the Islands for the last three weeks.

VOTE TWICE FOR CONGRESSMAN.

That the Sixth Congressional District may be represented at Washington at the Fall session, and at the special session President Harding has announced will be summoned in November, voters should familiarize themselves with the ballot for the coming election and plan to mark their choices in two places on that ticket.

On the ballot J. H. MacLafferty, Republican; Hugh W. Brunk, Democrat; and Elvina S. Beals, Socialist are running for the long or regular term which will start in March of next year. For the unexpired term of the late J. A. Elston, J. H. MacLafferty and H. W. Brunk are the only candidates.

It is important that this district be represented during that period before the next regular term commences. It is important, also, that this strong Republican section should support President Harding in that special session when ship subsidy is to come up and through that session which opens in December. Unless the voters remember to mark their ballots for both the long and short terms the District will continue to be without representation and through days of some of the most momentous legislation.

Under the law the designation of the candidates will appear as "Independent," and the fact is to be borne in mind which is the Republican, which the Democrat and which is the Socialist. Republicans and others who would support President Harding will vote for J. H. MacLafferty for both the long and the short terms. He will then be able to take his seat with the opening of the fall session or at the special session which it would appear, is to be called on November 20, and the Sixth District, once more, will have a voice in national legislation.

A NEW MAUDE ADAMS.

Tinkerbell was a spot of light which danced about as a companion for Peter Pan. When Maude Adams, as Peter, talked to that shifting patch no one thought of a mirror behind scenes casting it upon the boards. It was a real fairy Peter was seeking and thousands of staid person who deny romance and emotions have stood and avowed their belief in fairies in response to the question put over the footlights by Maude Adams.

Miss Adams will be known for years as the actress who possessed the largest personal following, as the one to whom the much used words "charm" and "personality" have closest application, and as the best-beloved woman the American stage has known. Her annual performance of "Peter Pan," in holiday season in New York, became an institution. She was a winsome and wistful character out of Barrie.

Friends of Miss Adams are still wondering over the news she has stepped out of her quiet role to become an inventor. Those who remember she would never consent to act before the motion picture camera because of a belief the spoken word was necessary to dramatic art, marvel again when they learn her invention is one to remove the handicap of darkened auditoriums in the motion picture houses.

Maude Adams has been pursuing another kind of a Tinkerbell, pursuing it unnoticed in a labratory of science. It is the most surprising role of her career and proves again no man may even guess at the riddle of "What Every Woman Knows."

Registration figures for Alameda county are interesting. It is not particularly surprising that they are the largest in the history of the county, for in the two years since the last registration the Eastbay cities have grown by leaps and bounds; but that of the 166,146 recorded there should be 120,276 who declare themselves to be Republicans is to be taken account of, as it is nearly five times the number who have declared themselves to be Democrats. Again, although prohibition is the law of the land, that only 716 declare themselves of the party which takes that issue for a cornerstone is notable, while the socialistic cause is in something of a slump when it fails to muster more than 2802, and the diffident contingent—those who refuse to divulge what their political predilections are—is rather larger than one who wears his political adherence on his sleeve might think it would be—18,191.

NEW DAY AT FARM SCHOOL.

Davis and the University Farm School will celebrate next Tuesday the coming of a better day for agricultural education in California. At that time the new Dairy and Horticultural buildings of the University of California will be dedicated and prominent educators from Berkeley and elsewhere will speak.

The schodl at Davis has not always fared well at the hands of legislators. Expansion and improvement there could not keep up to the demands. Students and faculty members, made the best of the handicaps and showed to the world California dairy stock could win first prize at the National Show. Discoveries in increasing the yield of barley alone, were worth more than the entire plant has cost. What has been done by the farm school to preserve the fertility of land, conquer pests and plant and stock diseases, in seed selection, and crop development is known to the farmer who keeps abreast of the times.

Recently a new attitude has been reflected in California toward the Farm School. The courses have been rearranged to give practical experience to a larger number of boys; larger appropriations have been granted and a new attention directed toward upkeep and personnel.

With the dedication of new dairy and horticultural buildings two needs of many years have been supplied. With its diversified products and great wealth in agriculture California should boast the best Farm School in the United States.

THE RADIO TYPEWRITER.

Successful experiments with the radio typewriter indicate the Army and Navy and, probably, many civilian organizations and industries will be making regular use of this latest adaptation of the wireless principle.

It was the Navy Department which demonstrated the practicability of sending the typewritten message through space. In an airplane one operator clicked away at a machine resembling the ordinary typewriter and, on the ground, another typewriter turned out the manuscript. The receiving station, of course, must have similar equipment to the sending one and the adjustment is such that when a letter is struck on one keyboard an impulse is sent out to be received at the other station. A delicate balance is maintained with the keyboard mechanism installed in such a way as to control the modulation circuit of the electron-tube transmitter.

To the one who does not understand radio it is enough to say one may now press the key of a typewriter, for instance, in an airplane and operate, at the same time, a similar typewriter on the ground. An advantage of the invention is no one may intercept a message unless he has the companion instrument to the sending one. Thus messages are secret and the effect of a code is maintained.

THE SHIPBUILDING DECLINE.

Until the surplus of bottoms is used and the carrying trade is developed to pre-war proportions there can be little hope for the shipbuilding industry. A situation reflected by President Harding's desire for action as soon as possible on a subsidy program is shown also in a recent statement by Lloyd's Register of Shipping.

World shipbuilding has declined more than a half million gross tons in the last three months. It is far below the pre-war level both in orders placed and the volume of work actually under way. The records of the three months ending Sept. 30 show Great Britain sustained a loss of 300,000 tons, the United States held even, and other countries saw their shipbuilding business drop by 230,000 tons. The total in the United States, which has not changed, is 150,623 tons against 1,919,504 tons for the United Kingdom. This country is but 2000 tons ahead of its pre-war level, when it was regarded as practically out of the shipbuilding business. Even on the basis of 2,702,556 gross tons in hand, it is shown by Lloyds, the world shipbuilding is 244,000 tons below the pre-war level.

There would seem to be no immediate hope for a revival in an industry which, in war days, was so important to this harbor. When world trade has increased and with the shifting of the great bulk of trade to the Pacific, an impetus will be felt here. In the meantime the Oakland and Alameda yards have been foresighted enough to equip their plants to handle any kind of a repair job and are doing now a large part of the work of overhauling and refitting the merchant fleet of the Pacific.

This is the season for new records in Oakland Harbor. In twenty-four hours more than two million feet of lumber, 6870 tons of coal and 12,000 tons of general merchandise arrived. What would have been a record for a month a few years ago is now in the business of a day.

A plan for city development and beautification in line with the spirit of the times is that of Hayward to build a $800,000 community hotel and theater.

If one is really serious about going in for the ultra it is easy enough, you know. The ultra in music, my dear, is perfectly spiffing. The idea, is I make myself clear, is secure music which none of one's friends has ever heard—wierd tom-tomish, and tommyrottish melodies interspersed with growls windstorms and unexpected plink-plunks.

For the owner of the phonograph there is an immediate opportunity. First buy a record, any record will do, but it is better to get one with an imposing name all filled with z's and ilg's and things like that. Place the record on a table near a window and let the sun shine on it. A few days of this treatment will produce unusual waves on the surface of the disc and the initial step is complete. Sprinkle sand sparingly over record and put same in bookpress with, say, fifty pounds pressure. The record then is capable of playing that music which stirs the soul with its mysterious and subtle appeal to savagery, imagination and oh you know, the love for the more beautiful and significant things.

The Unterrified Lodge Independent Order of Pedestrians has made an important discovery. The driver of the automobile, it is found, is a careful pedestrian upon those few occasions he is forced to walk. His experience at the wheel has shown him the dangers of the street and crossing. It is the lodge's idea, for the sake of safety, to propose by initiative that automobile owners turn their cars over to pedestrians for one month in each year that this knowledge of driving and therefore of careful walking, be extended generally. Petitions will be out in a few days.

There is no telling what a man may do with a joke until he tries. There is, for instance, a department in Life devoted to snappy lines for which the editor pays gladly and handsomely. In that column this week appears the following:

Suppose, now, we get up a contest to see who can recall the earliest date upon which he heard that joke?

NOTES and COMMENT

New York Evening Post: "Friendly mediation between [illegible] sponsible hunters and disappearing game in South Africa has been undertaken by an American Society—the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund, under the leadership of Dr. William T. We are peculiarly fitted to serve as both a warning and an example in this matter because after exterminating some of our finest species of game, we came to our senses and managed to save the American bison and to protect other threatened creatures. If the sea otter, the trumpeter swan, the passenger pigeon, the Arizona elk and the California grizzly have been exterminated, we are making vigorous efforts, at last, to keep the other elk, the Rocky Mountain grizzly, the bison and the prong-horned antelope."

Yet one suspects that their gifts were prompted in part by the grown-up lovers of this poet—those who have rocked children away to 'The Sugar Plum Tree in the Garden of Shut Eye Town,' or who miss the 'blare of that trumpet and beat of that drum,' or who remember when the 'little toy dog was new,' or 'the soldier was passing fair.' Field was and is the Poet of Childhood rather than the Poet of Children."

JOAQUIN MILLER HONORED.

To the Editor of the Tribune:

On Boston Common yesterday—the same Common "on which," Oliver Wendell Holmes says, "you could not throw a stone without caroming on three poets, two essayists and a playwright"—celebration of Columbus day was held, some hundred thousand people watching the pageant on the gently rolling hills.

Amid the huss of the thousands "Columbus" stepped forward and recited "Sail On," by a certain Joaquin Miller of Oakland, and through all that vast multitude and to the, literally, millions who "listened in" on the radios from the Gulf to Canada and from 500 miles out at sea to the Mississippi, the words of old Joaquin "leaped like a leaping sword," even as he had framed them in solitary ecstasy on The Hights above the bay.

"What shall we say when hope is gone?
'Sail on, sail on and on!'"

The words vibrated with a message, with a summons and a command for the new day, for later Bourke Cockran, foremost orator of America, took up Joaquin Miller's song and said:—"In this day, when destruction threatens all the world, unless we halt these forces of destruction, the spirit of Columbus, as set forth in this great poem, is the spirit that shall save us and make us whole and free."

And New England, the poets' special paradise, climbed the far-off Hights to get Joaquin to speak for them in their year's greatest pageant.

Truly the true poets "speak to far-off ages and to far-off times," and surely yesterday old Joaquin stroked his great white beard as he sat with his peers on Mount Parnassus and turning to Christiforo Columbo, said, with a twinkle in his celestial eyes, "If Yerba Buena doesn't know me nor care, I suppose I shall have to be satisfied with the tribute of Boston."

NO NEED TO WORRY.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

In reply to Dr. Holmes' article in your paper of this date in which he advocates a reward from the state to wives of college professors for each child brought into the world by them, I would say, why should he not advocate a reward to the wives of all men? You do not get all the brains of the nation from educated people's children. Abraham Lincoln was not the son of educated parents, but he was considered a man of brains. I do not think we need to fear that if the wives of college professors or the so-called social strata do not have children that the country will be left without brains. Why put a premium on college professors' children?

About YOUR HEALTH

Bring Up Your Baby to Revel in Cool, Fresh Air

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Habit and custom determine our physical comfort, as they determine our conduct generally.

On an August night I walked through the streets of Plymouth, England. It was damp and raw. I had my overcoat collar up and my hat pulled down. To me it seemed uncomfortable and disagreeable.

To the local inhabitants it was a delightful evening. Folks were sitting outside their houses and nobody wore a wrap. Among others I saw a sweet old couple, white-haired and feeble with age.

They sat on a bench in their garden, both without wraps or hats. They appeared as serene and comfortable as my own parents appear on an August evening in Michigan. In England they consider it "childish" to have a grate fire, or to make use of excessive quantities of hot water. By long custom they have become used to their colder climate, and to the conditions of their mode of life. Of course, they have lived this way always, and, to them, these climatic conditions are "natural."

I think there is no doubt that our American ways are enervating in some respects. We make our skins tender by humoring them too much. Needless to say, I consider one day in North America better than two days across the ocean. However, this feeling does not blind me to the weaknesses of our national life.

Americans are unduly timid about fresh air, rain, out-of-door exercise, open windows and cold water. Almost all our public halls are poorly ventilated. Our churches, schoolhouses and homes usually are too hot.

We survive all these things. They are not necessarily fatal. But they do lead to definite difficulties. No doubt chronic nasal catarrh, throat trouble and bronchitis may be produced by continual existence in vitiated and contaminated atmosphere.

If we accustom ourselves to cool air we are less likely to "take cold" on exposure. The body should be hardened by familiarity with open windows.

If a child is brought up from his earliest existence to reasonable exposure he will be a "fresh air fiend" the rest of his life.

Until everybody recognizes the importance of fresh air and cool rooms it will be difficult to readjust our mode of living. You know what a fuss there is if an air advocate opens a window in a public place. Immediately there is a yell about the "draft." But after a while the people will recognize the physical importance of a more sensible attitude toward cool air and ventilation.

MAN LINKED TO THEFTS BY TWO WOMEN

Sisters Trying to Shield Aide, Police Theory, After Story By Neighbors of Victim; Alameda Cases Traced

"Look for the man," was the word given out by Captain of Inspectors Richard McSorley today to the police officers who are investigating the 300 burglaries confessed to by Mrs. Muriel Darington and her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Stiles, of 5816 Shattuck avenue.

The search for a man who is believed to have aided the two sisters in at least a part of the 300 robberies of homes and apartments which the women have admitted began as the result of information given the police today by Mrs. Leigh Beauchamp, 2763 Orange avenue, whose home the two women have confessed robbing.

NEIGHBORS SEE MAN.

According to Mrs. Beauchamp, neighbors saw a man waiting in front of the house in an automobile while the women entered the place, and later returned to the machine carrying with them two sets of furs and a silk dress belonging to Mrs. Beauchamp. This, she says, was on September 11, the day the two sisters have admitted entering and robbing her home.

This information, the police say, upsets statements made by the women in their confession, to the effect that they had perpetrated the 300 burglaries in San Francisco and the Eastbay unaided.

No theory has yet been advanced by the police as to the identity of the man whom they believe the women are trying to shield.

Questioning of the women in regard to this new angle of the situation had to be deferred today, owing to the fact that the sisters were taken to San Francisco by local police officers early this morning, in order that they might point out apartments and homes that they robbed in that city, as well as the pawnshops where they disposed of part of their loot.

That the two women included Alameda in their widespread operations was believed by the police today, following the identification by Detective Bert Conant of the Alameda Police Department of part of the recovered property as having been reported stolen in that city.

ALAMEDA THEFTS DENIED.

Both women denied that they had robbed any Alameda homes, although Mrs. Darington admitted that during the period in which she and her sister were committing the 300 robberies, she had been in the island city six or seven times. She declared, however, that on each occasion she had been accompanied by her children, and that she had not committed any burglaries at these times.

An almost unbroken line of people, numbering between 200 and 300, filed into police headquarters in the city hall today, seeking to inspect the stolen property recovered as the result of the arrest of the two women, in the hope of identifying some of the articles as their own. All were told that no one would be allowed to look at the "loot" until Saturday morning.

MORE LOOT FOUND.

Further search by the police today in the basement of the women's home at 5816 Shattuck avenue resulted in the discovery of much additional loot over that recovered yesterday.

Among the 300 burglaries which the two sisters have confessed committing within the past two years are many which have never been reported to the police. According to police officials, the victims apparently believed capture of the guilty persons to be hopeless.

Mrs. Darington was the first to embark on the burglar's career, both sisters told the police. She was successful in evading the police and bringing home costly and pretty things, so that Mrs. Stiles decided to enter into partnership with her sister, she said.

It developed that the parnership was not any too harmonious. On one occasion they read in a newspaper the account of a burglary they had perpetrated the night before, and the news article mentioned the theft of a diamond ring. Mrs. Stiles accused her sister of stealing the ring and refusing to let her know about it, and a stormy argument followed, according to the story of the two women.

The loot was carefully and equally divided when they worked together, but Mrs. Darington frequently operated alone.

Central Figures in Crime Tragedy

MOTHER AND SONS STAND BY WOMEN HELD FOR THEFTS

By FRANCES MONTGOMERY.

Interviewing the grief-shocked mother of two attractive daughters who have just been arrested and imprisoned accused of wholesale burglary, isn't the happiest situation in the world.

Mrs. Barbara Kay, mother of Muriel Darrington and Gertrude Stiles, was a very brave but very much crushed soul as she greeted me at the little back porch door at the family home on Shattuck avenue.

In the yard playing were four fine looking boys. They are the sons of Mrs. Stiles and Mrs. Darrington. They resented my coming and sought to protect their grandmother.

"She's not at home," said the smallest boy, a lad of eight. And then I heard her voice.

"I want to see no one. They've hurt me so!"

A dark-eyed little woman of 60 years or more came from the house and stood dejectedly in the doorway.

"I have not come to hurt, but to help," I said taking her hand.

The old mother shook her head.

"No one can help—very much. I want to go away from every one and never come back any more. I did not know. It has been such a shock."

This frail little grandmother placed her hand on the shoulder of the tallest boy.

"But for the boys' sake I shall stay here and look after them. You see both mothers are gone. And," she added, "the boys are old enough to feel it."

The oldest lad blinked hard to keep back the tears, but this little family is not breaking down. How many mothers have suffered and stood by their wayward sons bravely. These sons are going to stand by their mothers who have erred.

It was noon. "Have you eaten?" I asked.

Again the head moved sadly. "I can not eat," she answered. "Not since they took the girls away have I eaten or slept." For the first time she smiled.

"But I will feed my boys," she said bravely. "Things just must come right. I am trying to think that and it is the greatest help."

SUPERVISORS PLAN TUBE BOND ISSUE

War Department Asked For Delay on Order to Remove Webster St. Bridge to Permit Tunnel Construction

Announcing its intention to call a bond electon next spring to provide funds for the construction of a tube or bridge across the estuary at Webster street, and asking the war department to postpone its order requiring the present bridge to be removed by July 1, next, the board of supervisors today addressed a letter to Colonel Herbert Deakyne, United States engineer of rivers and harbors for this district.

The letter points out that the construction of a tube will be of great benefit to Alameda county and that practically all the civic bodies in the county have gone on record as favoring a tube rather than a brdge.

William J. Hamilton, chairman of the board, and Supervisor Redmond C. Staats, in discussion concerning the letter, both put themselves on record as favoring the tube.

"There is no doubt that a bridge of any type is always a menace to navigation," declared Staats. "I also understand that all the industrial concerns along the estuary are unalterably opposed to a bridge."

EARLY ACTION URGED.

"I am for a tube," said Chairman Hamilton, "and I believe a majority of the people in Alameda county favor a tube. It is also advisable that something be done toward constructing either a tube or bridge as soon as possible, not only because the government has ordered the present bridge at Webster street removed by July 1, next, but because Congress has appropriated $800,000 to be used in dredging operations east of Webster street which will not be expended until the new bridge or tube has been constructed."

Further action toward plans for the tube was suggested by County Surveyor George Posey who asked the sanction of the board to submit plans for a tube to the cities of Alameda and Oakland for their approval. Posey said he was to appear before the Alameda city planning commission tonight to discuss the matter.

No action was taken on this suggestion today but it is probable that such action will be authorized next Monday at the regular meeting of the board.

MERCHANTS ASK ACTION.

It was pointed out by Chairman Hamilton that the city of Alameda is on record as favoring the tube. Oakland has not officially announced its attitude, it was declared by Posey.

George Sheldon, representing the merchants Exchange said that his organization had instructed him to inform the supervisors that they desired some action on the tube or bridge proposition but declared that he did not believe that a bond issue would meet with popular approval at this time. He said that the Exchange was not in favor of a bond issue.

It was pointed out that only through the issuance and sale of bonds could the scheme be financed.

The letter addressed by the board to Colonel Deakyne follows:

Referring to your communication of September 29, 1922, concerning the progress on the matter of the order of the War Department regarding the Webster and Harrison bridge removal or alterations, we wish to advise you as follows:

The present position of the Southern Pacific with reference to the construction of a joint bridge is the same as set forth in the letter previously sent you. The Board of Supervisors has been petitioned to construct a tube or subway under the Estuary to replace the present Webster street bridge, in lieu of constructing a new high level bridge, conforming to the order of the War Department.

Following the petition the board passed a resolution August 14, 1922 (certified copy of which is hereto attached), directing the county surveyor to prepare preliminary plans and estimate of a tube or subway to be constructed under the San Antonio Estuary providing for all the necessary traffic. The plans and estimate are to be completed during the month of January, 1923, if such is possible, and is for the purpose

TWO GUNMEN HOLD UP, ROB HOTEL CLERK

Bandits Pose As Guests, Register, Then Take Money At Point of Pistols in Station Hostelry on Seventh Street

Two unmasked bandits early today entered the Station hotel, 478 Seventh street, and after registering, held up Jim Russell, the night clerk, at the point of pistols, robbed him of $1217.90 and made their escape.

As the gunmen backed through the door of the hotel, they warned Russell that they would shoot if he attempted to follow them. The clerk notified the police and Inspectors Robert Sanderson and Louis Kirsch made an unsuccessful search of the vicinity for the hold-up men.

Twelve hundred dollars was Russell's own property, he told the police, and was taken from a wallet in his pocket by the robbers. The $17.90 represented the night's receipts at the hotel.

According to Russell he was standing behind the hotel desk at about 5 o'clock this morning when two young men entered. They requested a room, and after registering under the names of "Bill Ward and Ray Hayes, both of Los Angeles," were assigned to separate chambers.

As the clerk was about to escort them to their rooms, the man who signed his name as Ward, drew a pistol. "Hayes" took a blackjack from his pocket.

"Stick up your mitts and turn over the dough," said the leader.

One of the bandits then opened the cash drawer while his companion forced the night clerk to back against the wall with his hands elevated.

Dissatisfied with the $17.90, the bandits searched Russell and in an inside vest pocket found the wallet containing the $1300.

They then backed out the door, keeping the clerk covered.

When the police arrived Russell told them that he had been expecting to leave town and that he had drawn all his savings from the bank and carried it on his person. The $1300 he said represented what he had made during the war as a shipyard worker.

Pile Driver Is Proved Success As Submarine

Crew Valiantly Goes Under Water After Stubborn Stumps.

In the presence of a concourse of engineers and harbor officials, the big municipal pile-driver turned into a submarine yesterday afternoon and operated successfully under the bay, with only the donkey engine and the tall "leads" sticking up above water.

The submerging was deliberate and the crew stuck by the ship to a man, emerging safely after the ordeal, but slightly wet.

It started when the pile-driver, pulling old piling out of the sand and mud near the Livingston street wharf, struck a line of piles so deeply imbedded that they refused to come out. The donkey engine strained and the hawser tugged, but the piles still refused to come up. The pile-driver began to sink forward as it strained to lift the stubborn piles.

"We're going down" said the donkey man.

"Let's go" said the gallant fleet engineer, George Hayes.

The pile-driver went. It got about three feet under water and its square bow touched a ledge of sand. With this new leverage the driver yanked out the pile quickly, on the theory that the driver couldn't go down any further, so the pile must come up.

"Good" said Engineer Hayes. "We've discovered a new way for yanking those piles. Let's play under water for a while."

The driver is still at it, coming up for air every once in a while and then getting a toehold on another pile. The operation is entirely successful, according to the city bureau of marine strategy, and if the driver sinks enough all the old piles in the harbor will soon be out.

Brand New Auto Landed a Wreck

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 19.—When A. S. Weaver, president of the State Bank of San Leandro, returned from a recent tour of the east, he enthusiastically informed his many friends of the new automobile he had purchased and shipped to San Francisco by freight. Naturally, those so informed were anxious to see the new vehicle. Word to the effect that the automobile had arrived was received by Weaver yesterday afternoon, and, dismissing the duties attendant on a bank president, he went to claim his property.

[illegible] him. The machine was practically a wreck. Fenders were broken; the rear end was smashed; the radiator was a wreck, and the engine was awry. The reason was all too evident. When the machine was packed at Jackson, Mississippi, it was placed, unfastened, into the freight car, rolling from one end to the other, depending on the grade over which the train traveled. Weaver declares that his old machine will have to suffice for the time being.

TAX SUITS AUTHORIZED BY COUNCIL

City Attorney Instructed to Begin Proceedings Against Delinquents; $400 Armistice Day Fund Favored

For the first time within the memory of present-day officials, the city council today adopted a resolution directing the city attorney to institute legal proceedings for the collection of delinquent taxes, thus making it a city council affair and not exclusively a matter for the city tax collector.

The move was suggested in a letter to the council by Mayor Davie, who asserted that public improvements are being held up in some places because of delinquencies. The amount now lacking in the 1921-2 budget is $76,561 out of $131,488, the rest being delinquent from previous years.

"Many persons who desire to use the money for other purposes have delayed paying taxes and accepted the small penalty," said Mayor Davie. "This may be all right for some taxpayers, but by the collection of these taxes the city will be able to carry out certain public works now being held up because of non-collection."

TO BEGIN ACTIONS.

The city attorney is instructed to bring actions at once.

The mayor also issued a communication urging the defeat of amendments 10, 11, 27 and 30 on the state ballot at the coming election, asserting that these amendments would "encroach upon the powers of the municipality."

In response to an application for $1000 for an Armistice Day celebration, the council passed to print an ordinance appropriating $400. Mayor Davie pointed out that last year's celebration cost the city $400 out of a $1000 appropriation, and that more money can be available for the present celebration if absolutely necessary.

MIXUPS CAUSE REPEAL.

Ordinances opening East Ninth and East Tenth streets near Twenty-seventh avenue were repealed because of legal mixups in the wording of the ordinances.

The discussion of the proposed zone at Ardley Heights, on Park Boulevard, was set over one month. This is the district near the new Susan Anthony school, where an investor wants to build a store and certain residents object. The city planning commission, it was announced, is considering a compromise.

Fire Victim's Death Due to Accident

RICHARDSON AGAIN MAKES PLEDGE TO REDUCE EXPENSES

Republican Nominee States His Platform: Cheered By Hundreds Here.

"I have come to renew my pledges that I will reduce the State budget. When I am governor I will call in every State board and commission, and request their members to co-operate with me in placing the State expenditure on a sound, economic basis. If they refuse, we will kick them out!"

Friend W. Richardson, Republican nominee for governor, was cheered by several hundred Republicans gathered in his honor at a banquet at the Hotel Oakland last night, as he thus summarized the policy to be followed by him when elected to the gubernatorial chair.

The candidate was introduced by Max Horwinski, chairman of the Richardson for Governor Club of Oakland.

Preceding Richardson's address speeches endorsing his candidacy, and calling on all Republicans to cast their vote for the party nominee, were made by the following: Peter J. Crosby, formerly manager of the campaign of C. C. Moore for Senator; Walter J. Burpee, Mrs Bessie Wood Gustafson, District Attorney Ezra Decoto, F. H. Pratt, W. Nat Friend, Mrs. Albert E. Carter, United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, William J. Hamilton, president of the county board of supervisors; William Spooner, secretary of the Alameda County Labor Council and of the County Political Federation of Labor; W. W. Cuthbert, president of the Typographical Union; Walter J. Petersen, speaking for the American Legion, and J. H. MacLafferty, Republican nominee for Congress.

WATCHES STATE EXPENSES.

Richardson said in the course of his address: "I have been a voter in Alameda county for 20 years, and am still registered here. This is still my home. I feel sure that when the returns come in Alameda county will have given me a majority even larger than that of the primary election.

"I have consistently been an ardent Progressive. I have been State Printer and State Treasurer. It has been my policy never to bother about political machinations of any kind, but to stick to the job.

"About six months ago, as I watched the State expenditure, it struck me that something must be done to stop this orgy of expense. Many of my newspaper friends urged me to run, and when I embarked on my campaign I was enthusiastically supported by 217 newspapers throughout the State.

"When I started my campaign, many wise politicians said I was a very foolish man. All organized politics were against me. The net result was that I was nominated without having given any pledges whatsoever to the politicians. I quietly went the rounds in my second-hand automobile and at the time none of the wise politicians knew it for the band wagon!

HARMONY IN RANKS.

"Now that the primaries are over I have no hard feelings against anyone. I propose to conduct a clean campaign against my opponent. There is the utmost harmony in the ranks of the Republican party, and I support the entire ticket, especially urging you to return Hiram Johnson as United States Senator with a great majority.

"I stand for the Constitution and all its amendments. All my life I have been a consistent dry, and my newspaper in Berkeley has always espoused that cause.

"When I am elected Governor, the State expenditure will be conducted efficiently and with economy. I have no hungry horde of camp followers. Those men who are now holding useless office in the State administration, simply because they are politicians, are the only officials who have something to fear.'

The candidate also paid a tribute to his wife, who was seated at the speaker's table. Mrs. Richardson, he said, took care of him on his campaigning tours, and could not possibly understand why any one in California should vote against him.

Letters from former Governor George C. Pardee and from Mark L. Requa were read to the gathering, endorsing the Richardson candidacy, and calling on all Republicans to vote the entire party ticket.

SHORTRIDGE IS HEARD.

Senator Shortridge declared in the course of his address that he had been charged with a message by President Harding to the effect that the Chief Executive will visit California next summer, if public duty permits. The Senator also told of the attempts made to bring influence to bear for cancelling the debts owed to America by European governments. He urged that such cancellation should never be countenanced by the United States.

Speaking for labor in Alameda county, William Spooner declared that Friend Richardson's labor record is excellent.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson held an informal reception at the Hotel Oakland yesterday afternoon for the women of Alameda county. Among those present at the function were Mrs. S. C. Chamberlain, Mrs. H. J. Platts, Mrs. H. W. Weyman, Mrs. Fred Foss, Mrs. J. Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. L. Ernest Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sherman McDowell, Max Horwinski, Henry M. Hastings, Colonel J. K. Ritter, J. H. Stevens, J. B. Henkinson, C. M. Murrey, Assemblyman E. H. Christian, J. H. MacLafferty, State Senator E. M. Otis and others.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE tell them so.

RHEUMATISM
Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. All druggists can supply you.—Advertisement.

RIOT IS NEAR AS WOOLWINE TALKS

Special to The Tribune.

STOCKTON, Oct. 19.—A near riot was precipitated during Thomas Lee Woolwine's speech here last night. Judson L. Craig, chairman of the meeting, was badly beaten. An effigy of a Ku Klux Klansman was hurled to the pavement by Woolwine, and only timely interference of a squad of policemen, headed by Police Commissioner C. O. Smith, prevented a riot on the courthouse grounds. Early in the evening it was hinted that the meeting might be something unusual at the meeting, and policemen were scattered throughout the crowd.

During his speech, Woolwine was interrupted by a roughly dressed foreign-looking stranger, who attempted to hand him a package. Craig tried to take it from the fellow, and the fight began. The crowd dragged Craig from the platform and battered him to such an extent that he is under medical attention today. Woolwine seized the package which contained a plaster cast effigy of a Klansman in full regalia and hurled it to the pavement without noticing the tiny American flag hidden in the clothing of the dummy.

Someone in the crowd picked up the flag and shouted that Woolwine had thrown it to the ground. Amid angry yells the mob began surging toward the platform, but the police quickly hushed the ringleaders and quiet was restored. No arrests were made.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

POLITICAL NOTES

Friend W. Richardson, Republican candidate for governor, left for Sacramento this afternoon to address a mass meeting arranged for Republican candidates. Congressman Charles Curry and other Republican leaders are also on the speakers' program.

Prior to his departure from here Richardson was entertained at a luncheon in the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco and arrangements were completed for a luncheon at the Palace hotel on October 27, when he will be the guest of honor. Harvey M. Toy will preside and speeches will be made by the candidate, John L. McNab and Mayor James Rolph.

Judge Frank H. Kerrigan will visit Richmond tomorrow and proceed later to Napa and Solano counties, returning to San Francisco on Saturday. Judge Kerrigan, candidate for associate justice of the supreme court, is making his final swing around the state. Two new Kerrigan clubs have been formed in San Francisco, one at the Olympic club and one in the Twenty-seventh assembly district.

Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell was endorsed today by the local union of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers because of his excellent labor record while in the state legislature. Members were instructed to work for his re-election at the polls November 7, and attention was called to his many acts in support of labor while he was state senator.

Edward K. Strobridge, local sealer of weights and measures, today added his endorsement to the endorsement of lawyers, judges and others to the candidacy of Tyrrell. Strobridge was in the state senate during Tyrrell's incumbency at Sacramento when Tyrrell fathered the bill that made California's weights and measures system possible.

A Twenty-ninth district union labor club has been formed for Judge Charles A. Shurtleff, another candidate for the associate justice position, in San Francisco. Judge Shurtleff is now in the southern part of the State campaigning.

A committee work for the success of James H. MacLafferty, Republican nominee for Congress, was named yesterday at the meeting of the Young Men's Republican league at an uptown restaurant. Fred Boogie is chairman, and among the members are "Cliff" Brooks, Monroe Friedman, M. J. Bleuel, M. C. McDonough and Harold Nold.

The committee pledged themselves to make special efforts to bring about the election of MacLafferty for both the short term and the long term at the election on November 7.

Joseph R. Knowland, Oakland publisher, addressed the league, urging all members to work for the return of the entire Republican ticket at the final election. The executive committee, of which Edgar S. Hurley, Republican nominee for Senator, is chairman, held a meeting after the larger gathering.

"The One Hundred Solid for Johnson Club has opened the campaign by holding their first meeting at 159 Eighth street. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Frank C. Sullivan.

The first order of business was to indorse Hiram W. Johnson for U. S. Senator; James H. MacLafferty, for Congressman; Judge E. J. Tyrrell, for police judge of Oakland township.

The following officers resumed their station: Frank C. Sullivan, president; Ed Riley, vice-president; Mrs. Jane F. Cheney, treasurer; Ed Feisenthal, financial secretary; George H. Connell, recording secretary. Executive board—Austin T. Reid, James H. Ryan, William Mosley, Bob Hansen. Campaign committee—Mitchel M. Johnstone, chairman, and consisting of 100 members.

With Stuart Bowes, adjutant of the American Legion, emphatically endorsing and actively working for Howard Bacon for police judge, it is announced at Bacon headquarters the former service men of Oakland are rapidly rallying to Bacon's standard. E. R. Reno yesterday perfected the organization of the Melrose Bacon for Judge Club, an organization composed exclusively of former service men.

"Bacon is a former service man and he represents the big thing that the former service men fought for," declared Reno, in addressing the new club.

REGISTRATION IN EAST DROPS

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1922, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The extent of popular indifference to the appeal of politics this year is revealed in registration figures compiled by the United Press. These figures emphasize two facts previously apparent to political leaders from their general observations.

1—That the public generally is about fifty per cent less interested in this year's congressional election than it was in the presidential campaign of 1920.

2—That the only places where interest approximates or exceeds that of 1920 are those where local issues have aroused partisanship.

In 1920, the Republicans and Democrats combined polled a total of 26,200,000 votes. This year, a total of less than 20,000,000 is looked for.

REGISTRATION FALLS OFF.

The big cities are indicative of the general state of mind. In New York registration this year fell off 176,000 from 1920. In Chicago, 809,434 voters registered this year, where a million had been expected. In 1920, the registration was 884,190.

In Pennsylvania, where Pinchot and McSparran have been campaigning for the governorship, it is estimated that registration is 35 per cent lower than two years ago; Pittsburgh had 114,000 registered voters then and this year but 82,000; Philadelphia had 450,371 then, and virtually 100,000 less this year.

St. Louis dropped 50,000 from 1920, in spite of the intense interest in the Reed-Brewster senatorial fight. In Minnesota, where there is no registration outside cities party leaders expect a vote of about 600,000 instead of the 780,000 cast in 1920.

WHERE GAINS EXPECTED.

Indiana, on the contrary, expects to exceed its 1920 registration of 1,400,000, and its vote of 1,250,000. Indiana is always interested in politics, however.

California, which has local issues, shows increased registration, 1,602,293, as compared with 1,375,000 in 1920.

Massachusetts, which votes on wine and beer in addition to congressional candidates, shows heightened interest, with a Boston registration of 209,000, against 201,000 two years ago.

In Washington, Oregon, Montana and other western states, registration is about the same as in 1920.

Woolwine Attacked for Stand on Wine

BERKELEY, Oct. 19.—Rev. "Bob" Schuler, known as the "fighting parson" of Trinity M. E. Church of Los Angeles, was the principal speaker at a political meeting held last night at the high school auditorium. D. J. Gordon, editor of the "Crusader," presided. Both Schuler and Jordan urged the election of Richardson for governor and Pearson for United States senator.

The meeting was called principally in the interests of the Wright act, but resolved itself into a tirade on the part of Schuler, the only speaker, against Woolwine, who the former classed as a "traitor" to his party in espousing the cause of light wines and beer.

"California never saw a more dangerous hour than this," Schuler declared. "The election of Woolwine will mean the dealing of the hardest blow yet given to the forces of law and order. We can't give light wines and beer to the people of the state, but we can flood California with bootleggers and other lawless elements."

About 400 persons attended the meeting.

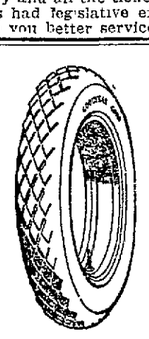

ACHIEVEMENTS OF YOUTH TOLD

The Young Men's Republican League of Alameda county held its weekly luncheon at the Peerless Cafe yesterday. Joseph R. Knowland, former congressman, was the principal speaker, discussing the important part played by young men in world affairs.

"Napoleon," he declared, "was at his zenith of military power when thirty-three; Alexander the Great had made his conquest of Macedonia before he was twenty; George Washington was the ablest officer in the French and Indian wars at the age of twenty-two; Lafayette proved himself one of the greatest generals before he was twenty-one; Daniel Webster at thirty was the greatest statesman and orator of his time; General Grant at forty-two was the most famed soldier commanding the Grand Armies of the Republic; Nelson Miles was a brigadier general at twenty-three, and Sheridan was one of the greatest cavalry officers the world has ever known at the age of thirty-three. Youth carries with it ambition and energy, and a desire to do big things, and every young man can accomplish much if you only are sincere."

The speaker said he was a firm believer in parties, particularly in national affairs. "A virile minority in congress, constantly on the alert to call attention to the mistakes of the dominant party, is an important safeguard. Destroy parties in national affairs and you fail to fix responsibility and thus weaken our representative form of government. The present national administration has been successful in carrying out its promises to the American people. One of the most difficult tasks is to frame a new tariff, because every section of the country and all lines of industry are affected by its terms, and a business slump is not unlikely to follow. In this instance there is a business revival.

"I believe that the people will return to office a Republican House and Senate. You should work for your representatives, Senator Johnson, James H. MacLafferty, Edgar S. Hurley and all the ticket. A man who has had legislative experience can give you better service."

THE California Meat Company's entire fleet is on Goodyear Cord Truck Tires. Their delivery radius is twice what solid tires would permit; the mileage is high, and the maintenance cost is extremely low.

Goodyear Truck Tires are sold and serviced by the local Goodyear Truck Tire Service Station Dealer.

Senator Gives Warning On Tactics of Certain Newspapers.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 19.—In an address at a dinner given in his honor here last night, United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson appealed for Republican party unity, and defended the direct primary. He said:

"The Republican State Central committee, believing in the direct primary, is giving to the entire Republican ticket its loyal and enthusiastic support. Certain reactionary newspapers have been endeavoring, by false charges, to create dissension in the Republican ranks.

"They contend that the success of the Republican candidate for Governor will be the smashing of the machine, which has grown out of Progressive success in California, and that if Mr. Richardson does not poll as large a vote as they think he ought to poll in San Francisco it will mean that he has been treacherously dealt with by the Republican State committee and the advocates of Johnson. Both statements are absolutely false and wholly malicious. Of course, Mr. Richardson is not responsible for what such newspapers say. He realizes doubtlessly that they hate me more than they love him.

PLAN FUTURE ATTACKS.

"It is perfectly plain those newspapers are laying the foundation for future publications. They intend after the election to assert, in case of Mr. Richardson's success, that he won in spite of the machine, and that he has smashed forever what they term 'the machine,' growing out of progressive rule in California. If any untoward event shall occur and Mr. Richardson does not receive as large a vote as we all expect and hope he will receive, then they will assert the result was caused by the treachery of the State committee and the machine made up of Progressives of the state of California. I expose this nasty, contemptible, cunning scheme now.

"These publications are not made in good faith, nor to aid the Republican ticket, nor any Republican candidate. They are made in malice and hatred, and in the hope that some day in the future they may be recalled to promote that malice and hatred."

BOYNTON EXPLAINS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Chairman Boynton, of the Republican State Committee, referring to the charge of treachery, made the following statement:

"In an editorial in a San Francisco evening paper of October 17, attention is called to the fact that the Republican registration in San Francisco is 148,263 and the Democratic registration 35,807. The charge then is made that there is treason within the Republican ranks and that the Democratic nominee for Governor is benefiting thereby. The editorial then says: 'Any marked difference between the vote cast for Hiram Johnson and that for Friend W. Richardson will be construed as evidence that Johnson did not play the game on party lines.'

"Such editorials have but one design, and that is to cause dissension in the Republican party at a time when Senator Johnson and Friend W. Richardson and the Republican State Committee are making every effort to elect the entire Republican ticket.

"The charges of treason are false and malicious and intended to pave the way for such newspapers to lay blame for their own perfidy on the Republican State Committee in the event the results obtained in November do not reach the expectations and predictions of the committee at this time."

San Leandro Talk Made by Woolwine

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 19.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic candidate for governor of California, spoke in this city briefly yesterday on issues of his campaign and the principles that he intends to uphold if chosen to the position which he is striving to attain. The address was one of a number delivered throughout this southern portion of Alameda county.

Labeling of the Ku Klux Klan as an un-American organization and contradictory to all the ethics of patriotism and good citizenship formed the gist of Woolwine's speech. Support of measures to recall light wines and beer were promised. The very fact that bootlegging is conducted on a surprisingly large scale is sufficient reason why wines and beer should be reintroduced, said Woolwine. The Japanese question, in which he declared that the oriental race is gaining too strong a foothold in this state and should be subject to stringent regulation, was mentioned in brief.

J. A. Gallet, said to be the oldest Democrat in San Leandro, acted as chairman of the affair, introducing the speaker and conducting the brief meeting. The address was delivered from the steps of the Estudillo House. Under the direction of Prof. John Musso, a number of musical selections were rendered by the San Leandro band.

Says Spouse Deserted to Other Woman

Deserting her for an old sweetheart in Iowa, Charles H. Honea later telegraphed to her for money to return to Oakland, alleges Mrs. Ida V. Honea in a complaint for divorce on file today. Honea frequently declared he had a woman in Iowa he thought more of than he did of her, the wife charges, and he finally left her again on July 25 last and has not returned. She asks for a dissolution of the marriage which took place in Burlington, Iowa, on June 11, 1902.

SUPERVISORS TO ASK ELECTION ON TUBE BOND ISSUE

War Department Asked For Delay on Webster Street Bridge Removal.

of submitting to the voters of Alameda county the proposition of a bond issue for the construction of a tube or subway to replace the present Webster street bridge. If a tube is constructed and the present Webster and Harrison street bridges entirely removed, the inner harbor will present to navigation an unobstructed channel from the creek entrance at the Western Pacific mole to the Park street bridge, and approximately six miles of water front will be opened up to industries and commerce.

There is no doubt that the construction of such a tube will be of great value to the county of Alameda, and resolutions favoring the construction of a tube have been received by the board of supervisors from practically every Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies in Alameda county.

It is the intention of the board of supervisors to call a bond election for this purpose as soon as possible after the plans and estimates are completed, in the spring of 1923.

The proposed plan will be submitted to you in the near future, and a permit asked for its construction:

Even if the construction of a bridge were commenced at once it would be almost two years before completion, and in the meantime it would be necessary to have the present Webster street bridge in operation during that time.

For the reasons set forth herein we make the request that the war department postpone the order affecting the Webster street bridge to such time as a tube can be constructed under the estuary to take its place.

CHEVROLET MEN OF STATE HOLD BIG CONVENTION

Dealers Gather in Oakland to Talk Business and See Driveaway Event.

By JIM HOULIHAN.

Chevrolet dealers from all over California gathered at the big plant on the Foothill boulevard this morning for one of the largest conventions of motor car dealers, handling one line, ever assembled in this state.

Several hundred dealers from the southern part of the state arrived on a special train, and dealers from the north came throughout yesterday to be on hand early for the great meeting.

A huge tent, covering a city block, was erected next to the factory, for convention purposes. The meeting was called to order at ten thirty this morning by Zone Manager F. N. Coats, who greeted the dealers and told them the plans for the coming season.

Luncheon was served under the "Big Top" at noon and the business session resumed soon after. Speakers included some of the largest Chevrolet dealers in the state. Among them were W. I. Elliott of Sacramento; Ray Brouillet, manager of the Anderson-Smith company of San Francisco; Thomas Johnson, head of the Los Angeles Chevrolet Dealers' Association; F. N. Coats, George Anderson, factory engineer, and others.

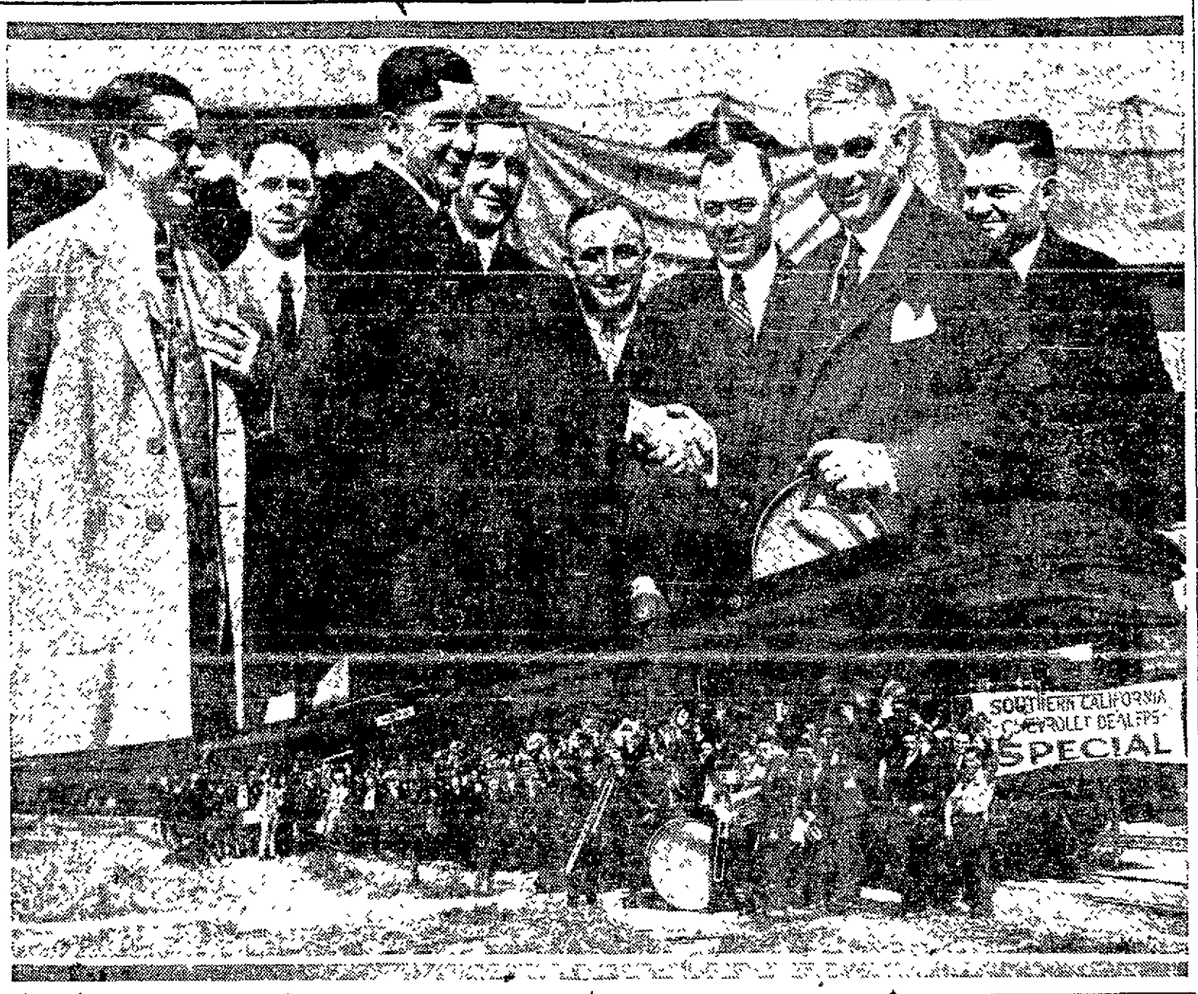

L. M. Dreves, assistant to the manager, was in charge of arrangements.

The afternoon sessions will conclude with a dinner tonight and a driveaway of Chevrolet cars from the factory tomorrow. Over 250 cars will be driven from the plant here to all parts of the state.

Entertainment plans have been made for this evening so that the visitors will not have a dull moment during their stay here.

Broken Muffler Results in Fine

ALAMEDA, Oct. 19—"A broken muffler is still an open muffler. There may be a distinction without a difference—fine $2 5d." was the decree of Judge L. R. Weinmann in the Alameda police court today in his reply to F. J. Lowenthal, driver of a truck appearing on a charge of operating his car with the muffler open. Lowenthal attempted to convince the judge that he should not pay a fine because his muffler was broken, not open

The war which the Alameda police department has been conducting against autoists who drive their cars with open mufflers resulted in the following offenders each being fined $2 50 in the police court today. They were John Lucas, Alfred Sabreno, E. Marks, Frank Katayama, Paul Young, Robert Clinton, A. Lewis, Tony Freccero and A. S Stanley

A fine of $10 was imposed upon Richard Lee for speeding within the city limits.

Mate Made Love to Others, Says Wife

On the night Hearst hall at the University of California was in flames, George A. Wallace was at the scene making love to a woman with his arms around her, declares Mrs. Marie Wallace in a divorce suit she files today. Although he made love to other women, Wallace falsely accused her of misconduct with other men, the wife declares Wallace has been guilty of many acts of cruelty since their marriage at Camp Lewis, Wash., on October 15, 1918, the wife charges. He objected to the way she ironed his shirts and criticised the way in which she kept house, she affirms.

There is Strength in Every Tablet of This Newer Form of Iron

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn out exhausted nerves—it is a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimulation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—The manufacturers of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron are thoroughly reliable: since its introduction it has reached the stupendous sale of over 4,000,000 packages annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U.S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater results than you expect from Nuxated Iron the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

TRACK MERGER PARLEY CALLED

BERKELEY, Oct. 19.—In an effort to have both the Key Route and Southern Pacific use the same tracks on Shattuck avenue as a means of lessening the danger of accident, a conference between officials of the two companies and Berkeley city officials has been called for 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in the rooms of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, Allston Way, near Shattuck avenue.

The conference is the first of its kind between the heads of the two transportation companies to be held in Berkeley. Paul Shoup, vice president of the Southern Pacific; W. R. Alberger, vice president and general manager of the Key System; members of the city council and of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will attend the meeting.

The meeting has been called on the basis that competitive railroads can co-operate in the upbuilding of the community when such co-operation does not interfere with their competitive independence, according to Secretary Charles Keeler of the Chamber of Commerce, who was instrumental in arranging the conference.

Physician Seeks to Resume Practice

In attempt to resume the practice of medicine, Dr. E. P. Case, convicted of obtaining money under false pretenses in 1920, will appear before Superior Judge Samules Monday on a petition to terminate his probation.

It is understood that Dr. Case applied to the State Medical Board recently for re-instatement and was informed that his being on probation was an effective bar against such action being taken. The petition to terminate probation resulted.

Dr. Case was convicted after he claimed to have performed an operation upon Mrs. Lizzie Miller, of Petaluma, and removed a growth from her body. She charged that no operation was performed and that an analysis of the supposed "growth" revealed it to be a portion of calf brains.

Dr. Case, who formerly resided in Corning, bore an excellent reputation up to that time it was said. It was announced at the office of District Attorney Decoto yesterday that the motion will be contested.

Judge Weinmann cautioned Crawford about repeating the offense in case of future sore throats and suggested the use of gargles as a safe cure.

COURT RULES ON JUROR SUMMONS

Further summons for prospective jurors in the criminal syndicalist trials now going on before Superior Judge Samuels must be made by deputies in the office of Sheriff Barnet by personal service and not over the telephone, according to instructions issued by the court today in ordering a special venire summoned for tomorrow

Questions propounded by the five defendants to members of the last special venire summoned resulted in developing the fact that many of the jurors were summoned by being called on the telephone from the sheriff's office and instructed to appear in court.

Judge Samuels states that such procedure failed to give the court jurisdiction over the juror in case he, or she, did not appear, and directed that personal service must be made.

A clash occurred in the court when Louis Hagen, a prospective juror, testified that he had been personally served with a summons by Miss Hazel Riley, a deputy in the sheriff's office.

J. H. Jolson, one of the defendants, who are acting as their own attorneys, pointed to the return of service of the summons, which showed that it had been served by Deputy Sheriff Jess Brown, bailiff in Judge Samuels' court. It was admitted that the service had been made by Miss Riley and not by Brown.

Judge Samuels refused to allow a challenge of the juror on this ground alone, saying that it was not prejudcial to the defense.

FORMER DENVER BOY IS SEEKING HIS LOST FAMILY

Fitz-Hugh Berneck, Formerly Named Wiley, Wants to Locate Father.

Search for his father, a former bank cashier of Denver named Wiley, and his two brothers, from whom he became separated through family misfortunes when he was only two years old, was begun today by Fitz-Hugh Lee Bernecker, 1019 Paru street, Alameda, a sophomore student working his way through Alameda High school.

His father, according to the youth, was for a time "in trouble" at the bank. The three children, who were motherless—Frank, then aged 6, Tom, 5, and Hugh, 2—were taken away from him and placed in what Bernecker believes to have been the Denver State Home for Orphans.

Later on, the father, cleared of the charges against him, was permitted to take the children back. In the meantime Hugh, the youngest of the three, had been adopted by a family named Bernecker and had been taken first to Lafayette, Col., and later to Wyoming.

NEVER HEARD NAME.

Under the rules of the institution, the father was not allowed to know the whereabouts of the child who had been adopted until the latter should reach his majority. The result was that the youth grew up without ever hearing again of his father or his two brothers.

When the war came, Bernecker enlisted with the Marines, and spect three years in the service in Nicaragua. He was discharged two years ago.

Although thrown on his own resources, Bernecker was determined to obtain a university education in scientific farming. By obtaining a position as waiter in a boarding house in Alameda, he acquired the means of supporting himself while attending Alameda High school. He is now in his sophomore year. Upon his graduation, he intends, he says, to enter the University of California Farm School at Davis, and to continue working his way through that institution.

TO INQUIRE IN DENVER.

Meanwhile, however, he wants to find his "Dad" and his two brothers and he intends, he says, to communicate with the orphans' home in Denver and endeavor to find a trace of his father in that way.

The youth's search for his relatives is hampered by the fact that he is not sure of the name of the institution in which he and his brothers were placed, and the further fact that he does not know his father's first name. He declares, however, that he is going to persist until he finds them.

SCOFFER AT GERM THEORY SPURNS 'ANTHRAX' DRINK

BERKELEY, Oct. 19.—"Just a joke!" explains Dr. W. R. Hadwen, English propagandist of anti-vivisection.

"It might have been an English joke but it wasn't an American one!" rejoin University of California students.

All of which concerns a dramatic incident occuring at a meeting held on Tuesday night at the high school auditorium, at which the anti-vivisection measure coming before the voters in November was debated by Dr. Hadwen, opponent of the amendment, and Dr. Samuel J. Holmes, University of California biological expert.

"There are no such things as germs; germs don't cause disease; it's the other way around" declared the British visitor.

Just then Clifford Bishop, university student, walked on the platform. He held a tube of what he said were anthrax germs in his hand.

"DRINK" DECLINED.

"If you drink half of these germs, I'll drink the other half" offered the student.

Dr. Hadwen declined the proffered draught and the germs lay on the table on the stage the rest of the evening. Jeers and cat calls from college students greeted Dr. Hadwen's refusal of the invitation extended by Bishop.

The meeting, held under the direction of the Berkeley Center of the California Civic League for a discussion of various constitutional amendments, was presided over by Mrs. H. N. Herrick, who attempted in vain to keep order.

"The whole germ theory is a fallacy and no help ever comes from vaccination and the use of toxins" declared Dr. Hadwen. "Vivisection is unscientific, demoralizing and useless and results in numerous cases of useless cruelty. You cannot reason from what you fin in animals."

"Would anyone refuse to sacrifice a mouse to save the life of a child?" demanded Dr. Holmes. "You cannot solve any moral question apart from scientific knowledge."

AMUSING INCIDENT.

Concerning the anthrax incident Dr. Hadwen says:

"The student who presented me with a test-tube which he declared filled with 'anthrax germs' furnished an amusing incident to fill out the evening's entertainment. He said that the tube was full of these terrible 'germs' and defied me to drain its contents I merely told him that if he could prove the existence of anthrax germs he could do something that the entire medical profession has as yet been unable to do. He was entirely at a loss."

PROFESSOR'S WIFE NEEDS SERVANT, SAYS U. C. DOCTOR

Outlet For Personality Held Essential By Social Economist.

BERKELEY, Oct. 19. — "The wife of a University of California professor must appear as a refined woman, not as a servant"

This was the contribution today of Dr Jessicca Peixotto, professor of social economics at the University of California, in the agitation for a higher wage for college faculty members.

'A professor's wife must have an outlet for her personality and such an outlet is impossible without a servant to help in the home," said Dr. Peixotto "Keeping up appearances is the basis of the struggle of the professor's wife The state must pay better salaries or lose its teachers. In my own department alone I know of men who have refused offers in the business world for half as much again as they receive at teaching because they love the profession and enjoy research

"It is true that many are leaving the university, but those who stay do so at a sacrifice, with the burden falling heaviest upon the wife.

"There is a professional standard," said she, 'that the world sets and expects the professor to live up to: just as the lawyer, the doctor and the minister must. The claims of the husband and the wife in this class are different from those of a worker.

"A professor's wife is not content to be simply a domestic servant and live strictly a domestic life, as is the wife of a workman. To assist her husband she must have a servant."

In discussing the servant problem, Dr Peixotto said that from $80 to $90 a month must be paid for help. Counting $6 for room and $20 additional for board besides the Christmas present, it is necessary to give to keep a good servant. The servant cost amounts to $100 a month.

MUST HOLD POSITION.

"If you add to the instructor's salary, which is $150 a month, the amount needed for domestic service, you will see it is impossible to live within this limit," concluded Dr. Peixotto. "If the professor's wife is willing to take $80 a month for her services as a servant she might manage. But she must entertain her husband's students, dress in good taste, and not look like a cook, as I heard one woman term a professor's wife of her acquaintance."

Dr. Peixotto has always advocated higher salaries for university professors. She was the first to make a study of a budget necessary for professors to maintain the standard of living essential to their profession. She set the budget in 1920 at $2412.00. Thinking that this figure was too high, a committee of six men prepared a similar budget in November of the same year and found that $7371.64 was necessary. In 1921, with a lowering of prices, the budget dropped to $6685.91, according to Dr. Peixotto.

ST. MARY'S AND STANFORD READY FOR ANNUAL GRIDIRON BOUT AT PALO ALTO SATURDAY

Cards Prepare To Meet Saint Mary's Eleven

By TOM IRWIN.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 19.—St. Mary's, the third obstacle in the road of the Card grid varsity, was represented by proxy on the Stadium turf yesterday afternoon, when "Red" Betts, despite his flaming hair, appeared in the role of "Slip" Madigan and put his goofs through the stuff they had imported from Oakland. But if the real St. Mary's doesn't get away with any more yardage than the grays did last night, Andy Kerr's men will have nothing to worry about Saturday.

Betts had us fish using the Notre Dame shift, commonly called by about 18 different names. That was the play that raised such a hullabaloo during and after the game at Berkeley last week-end. Several authorities, including Andy Smith, claim that the play is prohibited by the new rule, saying that any backfield man less than five yards back of the line must bring his body to a full stop before the ball is shaped. Smith ought to know. He was a member of the committee that made the change last year.

HAD LONG SCRIMMAGE.

For over three-quarters of an hour the varsity scrimmaged with Betts' fake Saints. The first backfield—Woodward, Doughty, Wilcox and Cuddeback—were not at all puzzled by the goofs' defense and made consistent gains of from 10 to 30 yards. And when the goofs were on the offensive they had scant success with the phoney formation in question. The varsity backs smeared every play six ways from Sunday.

Dud de Groot will make a touchdown next Saturday if the Saints do the same thing that their counterparts did yesterday. The goofs kept shooting forward passes in the varsity skipper's direction until he peevishly grabbed one and lumbered through the opposition amid the shouts of the bystanders.

Realizing that St. Mary's will put up a far better scrap than the goofs ever thought of, Andy Kerr has arranged for stiffer competition with the freshman eleven tonight. Husky Hunt has spent the week drilling the babes in the St. Mary's style of play, and by last night had one or two of the Saints' formation down pat. The varsity will probably not feel so jubilant after the first year men are through with them.

HARTRANFT AT END.

Glenn Hartranft went in as first-string end last night in place of Mertz, and looked better than he has at any time this season against the goofs. If he really has the stuff, he will certainly have a chance to show it against the freshmen this evening. Faville and Ludeke played guard in the places of Houck and Cravens, and Jim Lawson, knee and all, kept Dole on the bench.

The condition of the Card hospital brigade shows a turn for the better, according to the latest despatches from the training front. Janssen's ankle is far enough along on the road to recovery to allow him to appear in his regular togs. He is confining his activities to running around the field, however. Paul Murray, between a charley-horse and his bum ankle, is still disconsolately waiting for a decent chance. In his present condition he is not good for more than five or six minutes in a tough game. Cravens, hurt in the Santa Clara game, is appearing on the field, but has been taking no active part in the practices. Johnston is ready to start again, but Kerr has decided to take no chances on injuries in practice. He will probably keep the Los Angeles tackle on the bench until the game with St. Mary's is only about 10 seconds in the future.

Missionites Pointing at Arizona Game

SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY, Oct. 19.—With the Stanford game a matter of memory and Santa Clara Varsity looking forward to their annual tussle with the Arizona "Wildcats" on October 28th at Ewing Field, Coach Buckingham has given his men a couple of days layoff and will resume practice today. Nothing is known here of the Arizona aggregation except that they met defeat at the hands of "Gloomy Gus" Henderson's Trojans last Saturday 15-0, and from the reports "Gloomy Gus" hands out about his athletes, the Wildcats should be easy picking for the Prunepickers, but experience has taught that "Gloomy Gus" takes too pessimistic a view on life, and that the Trojans may have a far beter squad than he would have the general public believe.

UNJUST CRITICISM.

Although experts have been rife in criticizing the Missionites for their showing against Andy Kerr's Cardinals, and many of them are just as bitter in criticising the Cardinals, still the fact remains that the Missionites after the first ten minutes of play held the Stanford line even though the official figures of the game show that Stanford gained more yardage from scrimmage than did the Santa Clara outfit by far, yet three times when Stanford was in striking distance of the Santa Clara goal the Santa Clara line held, and Stanford was forced to try for drop kicks. A perusal of the play by play detail will show that the offensive of the Santa Clara team consisted mostly of aerial attacks, four of which netted the Mission team several yards, only to have the referee set the team back for set-backs which were costly. In this regard, the offensive of the Prunepickers showed more that the yardage gained would indicate

SEASON IS YOUNG.

The season is yet too young to make comparisons between the respective merits of St. Mary's and Santa Clara. Both teams fared about the same against California, although Santa Clara scored even if both scores were the result of block kicks, but two blocked kicks coming in rapid order the way the California scores did can not be classed as flukes. Santa Clara threatened Stanford in the same manner last Saturday but the ball rolled out of bounds before it was recovered, else history might have repeated itself.

The Varsity showed that it has a stronger line now than it had in the California game, with the posible exception of Miller, whose passing showed lack of experience. Miller played in his first big game Saturday, and was evidently under a nervous strain. He has the makings of a center and should do better in the future.

The line, by holding Stanford at critical points, showed that it can be depended on. The Stanford line was about the same, unless as stated before that both teams lack the "offensive punch."

Illinois Team Put Through Stiff Work

By BOB SHAND.

Lee Anderson, the colored heavyweight so completely outclassed Cliff Kramer at the Auditorium last night that it was practically no contest but in the third round Anderson landed three low punches and was disqualified. The first punch was just a trifle low and Kramer went down to take a count of "five." No sooner had he regained his feet than Anderson started after him whaling away with both hands for the stomach. Two fair punches sent Kramer to the ropes and then a left hand landed low. This was followed by a right hand blow in the groin and Kramer went to the floor. The puuch was palpably foul and there was no alternative but to give Cliff the decision. Reeves had the same trouble with Kramer and Jack never lost a fight on a foul in his career. Incidentally this is the first time that Anderson has lost a fight on a foul.

When Anderson came to town he was told by his manager, Sol Levinson, that Kramer had a weak stomach and Lee was advised to aim for the body. He contented himself with playing with his opponent in the first round, throwing overhand swings to the head that were deadly in their accuracy, but lacked steam. In his other contests in this vicinity Anderson's overhand swings were made with open gloves so no suspicion can be attached to the harmless blows he delivered last night. Anderson appeared to be in earnest when the second round opened and he hit his man with four straight lefts in a row. In the third he swung for the body and Kramer caught the full force of the punch an inch or so below the belt. The colored boy was after him like a tiger when he arose and but for the succeeding low punches he would have scored a clean knock-out.

Anderson Appeared Able to Hit Cliff at Will.

Kramer's stock took a sudden fall after the first round when it was evident that the colored boy could hit him at will, but Anderson was razzed for not stepping in and trying for a knockout. Some of the fans thought the foul blows were intentional, but there was nothing for either to gain by having the fight terminate the way it did. Kramer lost prestige by his poor showing and Anderson lost a fight that he had sewed up and ready for delivery.

Eddie Gorman and Pete Francis [illegible] night. It was a duplicate of their performance the previous week and the decision again was a draw. Francis made his best showing in the third round when he rocked his man with solid smashes to the chin but in the other three rounds Gorman was pumping punches to the body and forcing Pete around the ring. The boys provided action galore in every round and received a big hand from the customers.

Uninteresting Contest Is Won By John McManus.

Kewpie Callender (Jimmy Callahan) had an infested ankle and failed to make his fight against Johnny McManus. The latter won but the contest was far from being interesting.

Frankie Denny wildmilled himself into a decision over Steve Dalton in the last round. It was a tough fight between two tough guys.

Eddie Mahoney surprised by holding the highly touted George Lavigne to a draw and incidentally upheld Tommy Simpson's judgment. Lavigne was brought here Barnes for a fight with Duffy but Simpson insisted upon him appearing in a preliminary first. Just what Duffy would have done to George last night would have been nothing short of manslaughter. He's a mark for a straight left. Mahoney fought a much improved fight and made good on the promise of Dave Symon that he would be in shape for this contest.

Jimmy Dundee will box Eddie Shannon at the Vernon arena tomorrow night. The boys are to make 130 pounds at 6 o'clock. Eddie used to be quite a card at the old Wheelmen Club.

Joe Benjamin and Teddy O'Hara will box the main event at Vernon Tuesday.

Harold Algernon Broom is greatly agitated over a yarn that appeared in an eastern boxing weekly to the effect that Pickles Martin, a featherweight, knocked Hymie Gold, a welterweight, down three times.

Harold overlooks the fact that Pickles leaves for New York tomorrow to be handled by Leo P. Flynn and the Flynn press bureau is busy. Pickles is a nice boy and a credit to the game, but if he ever mussed Hymie Gold's hair he would have occasion to swell up. Hymie Gold is also known as Jimmy Duffy.

Standard Oil League to Start Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening, at the Maryland Alleys, the Standard Oil Company will inaugurate its annual winter bowling program with contests between eight evenly matched teams.

Twenty valuable prizes have been hung up for teams and individual bowlers turning in the best records for the season, and the fact that each team is composed of players well known for their bowling capabilities in the Eastbay section insures an interesting battle for first honors.

The teams will line up as follows:

Red Crowns—Shaefer, Spread, Nissen, McGuire.

Zerolenes—Rishell, Driggs, Lawrence, Coppedge.

Micas—Larkin, Marshall, Bishop, Jones.

Oronites — Asbach, Harrison, Dunstan, Baker.

Calols—Gustafson, Priesman, Benedetti, Seagren.

Arctics—Almquist, Parsons, Fenelon, Campbell.

Eocenes—Palmer, Ward, Trevey,

George Hildebrand Will Hibernate Here

George Hildebrand, chicken fancier and umpire de luxe, arrived home from the world series yesterday. George was razzed for calling a game when darkness threatened, but he declares he was perfectly right and his action was endorsed by the presidents of both leagues and Judge Landis.

"Hildy" will spend the winter here raising chickens and duck and things. He copped a lot of prizes at the local poultry show last year.

Santa Clara Player Is Operated Upon

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 19.—Ernest Scettrini, a player on the varsity baseball team of Santa Clara university last year, who suffered a compound fracture of his leg in practice last spring, was operated upon again for his injury at O'Connor Sanitarium yesterday. He had been well on the way to recovery when complications set in which necessitated yesterday's operation.

Amateur Ring Men Becoming Professionals

New York Clubs Take Great Interest in Boxing; New Stars Developed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Amateur boxers are being graduated in ever increasing numbers to the professional ranks.

This is particularly true of the Metropolitan district, which in recent years has contributed several amateur glove knights who immediately established a prominent footing in the ranks of the purse chasers.

With the rapidly increasing popularity of boxing among the leading athletic clubs of this district, it is expected that during the next few seasons there will be further and more impressive additions to the ranks of the professionals.

Indications point to the most active winter in the history of amateur boxing both in this city and throughout the country, and the support the sport receives from the general public is such that more pretentious tournaments are constantly being arranged. Early season contests are being fairly flooded with entrants and there appears to be an unending supply of ring talent, some of which gives excellent promise.

It is from this portion of the amateur contestants that the material for a professional ring career is obtained. The managers of the principal boxing stables are constantly on the alert for men in all weight classes who show promising qualifications and are willing to begin at the bottom of the ladder which leads to the money ring.

Those amateurs who decide to follow the boxing game into its higher flights usually prove able pupils and easy to handle from a business standpoint. No less a promoter than Tex Rickard has stated that he always likes to talk terms with ex-amateur boxers and there is seldom any difficulty in arranging the financial side of the bouts in which they are to engage.

That those who graduate from the amateur to the professional ring have the necessary training, skill and intelligence to succeed is proved by the mention of a few who have made boxing history in recent years. These are: Harry Grab, Joe Lynch, Dave Rosenberg, Angie Ratner, Pete Zivic, Nat Pincus, Sam Neasberg, Willie Minger and other well known boxers who received the groundwork of their ring education in amateur bouts.

BOXER DIES OF BLOW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Knocked to the floor while boxing in the Ninth Regiment armory on Saturday night, Walter Welsh, 23, a machinist, of Boston, Mass., died in Bellevue hospital yesterday from concussion of the brain.

"Dink" Templeton to Start Track Work

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 19.—"Dink" Templeton, Stanford track coach, will put his fall proteges through their first informal meet of the season Friday afternoon. This will be the first of a series of class and inter-group contests which Templeton plans to hold every week during the fall quarter.

Distance events will be omitted from the meets for several weeks, until the men get into cross-country condition. The track and field events scheduled are: 100-yard dash, 120-yard low hurdles, 880-yard run, shotput, broad jump and high jump. Each man in Templeton's fall class will enter one each of the field and track events during the fall tryouts. Practically all members of last year's varsity and a number of first-year men are taking part in the fall training.

'Gloomy Gus' Figures to Score on Bears

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Howard (Hobo) Kincaid, half-back of the University of Southern California football team, will be out of the lineup next Saturday when the Trojans meet the University of Nevada Jackrabbits, here, Coach Elmer C. ("Gloomy Gus") Henderson announced. Kincaid and two members of the Trojan eleven have contracted skin trouble that had defied treatment, Henderson said.

In reply to a question as to what he thought of California's chances to beat the Trojans a week from next Saturday, he said:

"They'll beat us 35 to 7."

TRACK WORK STARTS.

CLAREMONT, Cal., Oct. 19.—Track and field practice has started at Pomona College with forty athletes training.

Berkeley High Eleven to Meet Stanford Babes

Former High School Coach Will Direct Card Yearlings.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 19.—When Husky Hunt's Stanford freshmen bump into the Berkeley High school eleven on Stanford turf next Saturday it will be a sort of a Greek meeting Greek affair. Since over half of the 1921 Berkeley team will be in the line-up against their old coach this week-end, both sides will be wondering what to expect. Hunt has been drilling his men on a few special plays to use against his former proteges, fearing that they would spot his regular attacks on the first shift. And at the same time, Coach Schaeffer's men will be unable to use much of the same system that tied them for the championship last year, for the Card babes know it forward and backward.

This will be the first real test of the season for the '26 team. They have already defeated Long Beach High and Lowell High by large scores, but in Berkeley they will find a team far nearer their match. Hunt said last night that he considered Mike Murphy, fullback, Johnny Climer, quarterback, and Bob Green, center, among the best prep school grid stars in the state.

With the exception of Ernie Nevers, highly touted fullback from Santa Rosa, who was injured a week ago, the strongest possible freshman lineup will start against the high school team. Hunt's backfield is by far his strongest asset. He has six men of practically equal ability back of the line and can put a combination on the field that has speed, weight enough for consistent gains through the line, and deadly accuracy in forward passing. Cook and Clayes are the sprinters and twisters, Buck Faust from Pennsylvania and Mitchell, who played on the Berkeley team under Hunt last year, together with Solly Solomon from Los Angeles, buck the line, while the Solomon-Kirwan combination does most of the aerial work.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 15.—Twenty-five members of the Georgia School of Technology's football eleven, all represented in perfect physical condition were to entrain this afternoon for Annapolis where they will clash with the Navy football eleven Saturday.

NO GENERAL CUT IN AUTO PRICES IS ANTICIPATED

Ford's Decrease Not Signal For Slash, According to Manufacturers.

By Consolidated Press.
Special to The TRIBUNE.
By J. C. ROYLE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Makers of the medium and higher priced automobiles were firm in their protestations today that there would be no general price cut following the reduction of $50 in the price of Ford passenger cars. They said they were going to let Ford fight it out with the Chevrolet, Star, Gray and Overland makes which are his closest competitors.

The Ford announcement has unsettled conditions in the motor manufacturing field, not because a cut was unexpected, for it had been forecast for some time, but because the reduction of $50 was larger than competitors had anticipated.

The official Chevrolet Company view of the situation, telegraphed today from Detroit, is that Ford is further developing the market for automobiles every time he cuts his price. His action, Chevrolet officials declared, would bring into the ranks of auto owners persons who heretofore had never been able to own cars and releases at the other end of the line a lesser number who are tired of driving flivvers and want a more luxurious car.

FORD TABLE TALK.

This view is supported by a number of eastern manufacturers. One of these said today: "There will be thousands of dinner tables tonight where some member of the family will say: 'Well, dad, Ford has cut his prices again. What about getting that car now?'"

It is generally estimated that on present production each Ford car returned the maker $100 profit after taxes at the old rices. The new price seemingly would reduce profits one-half or somewhat in the neighborhood of $65,000,000 a year, but in the past Ford reductions have been absorbed by the increased volume of business produced.

It is the concensus of opinion in the automobile trade that the blow will fall hardest on Durant, who recently came out with prices for his Star car practically identical with Ford's previous prices. The Gray car sponsored by Frank L. Klingensmith, former Ford treasurer, also is expected to be strongly affected. Some makers and dealers argue that with increased Ford production, flivvers will become so common that many present Ford owners will gladly pay the $50 difference to get a more distinctive car.

SOME EXPECT CUTS.

In spite of this argument automobile men in various sections of the country, according to telegraphic reports, predicted that cuts by other manufacturers, especially those coming into closest competition, might be expected at least by the time of the New York automobile show.

The new Ford prices have centered attention on recent changes in the Ford processes. Aside from building its engine—and parts of that were purchased from Dodge brothers—the Ford before the war was almost purely an assembled car. Today it is almost self-contained. The company makes from raw materials nearly all the important units that go into a car's makeup. About 70 per cent of the bodies now are being turned out by Ford plants. The chief exceptions are tires and wheels. Even in the case of the latter, however, the new plant at Hamilton, Ohio, is producing about 20 per cent of the company's annual needs.

Orders for ten thousand more railroad cars are in the market today, according to reports from the middle west and the amount of car repair work being done by equipment companies is growing steadily larger. Western steel mills have booked orders for new rails totaling at least 650,000 tons.

Sugar growers are in a better position than they have hoped for in spite of the short crop of cane. Orders from retailers for refined sugar are pouring in and the technical position of the commodity is strong.

Buying of stocks of toys and gifts for the Christmas trade has at last gotten into full swing in the wholesale centers and retail trade in general throughout the country is brisk.

CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Department store sales here for the last two months have been 6 per cent larger than the average for this district.

MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 19.—For the second consecutive year in the history of Minnesota no direct tax will be levied for the maintenance of the Minnesota state government of 1923. Returns from fees and corporation taxes will be sufficient to take care of the state government budget, officials announced today.

ATLANTA.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—Building operations of large size have dropped off slightly, but residential construction continues active. Permits in Atlanta in the first half of October exceeded $600,000 with not a single large project included.

BUSINESS TOPICS

DRY GOODS.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.—Leading jobbers reported here today that the best class of merchants who have bought fall goods early have not yet sent in any reorders. This is attributed to the fact that the farmers are using the first of their crop proceeds to pay debts rather than buy new goods.

FURNITURE.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—Wholesale furniture dealers declared today that their sales for the first two weeks in October were the best so far this year.

FISH.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—The movement of Alaska Puget Sound canned salmon has taken a decided splurge. Shipment for the first two weeks of October from Puget Sound ports aggregated approximately 250,000 cases. A large part of this went by steamship through the Panama canal to the eastern and gulf ports.

BRICK.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 19.—A falling off in the demand for brick is a sign that the intensive program of 1922 is nearing the seasonal decline, according to representatives of the American Face Brick Association, today. Curtailments in shipments are entirely seasonal.

NUTS.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—Peanuts are bringing $75 a ton and farmers are holding until the formation of a cooperative marketing association. Aaron Shapiro, originator of the California form of marketing, is to undertake the work of organization this week.

GROCERIES.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—Wholesale grocers in this section reported today that business is increasing steadily and retail dealers are gaining a gratifying volume of sales.

SYRUP.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—South Georgia cane growers are in the midst of their busy season today. Good prices for syrup have enabled the association to repay in full the loans of last year, obtained from the war finance corporation.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Farmers of the middle west are complaining bitterly of the prices received for their products and are commencing to flood their congressmen with complaints and demands for some method of relief.

COTTON.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—A statistician of one of the oldest national banks in the cotton states estimated today that the South's main crops for the year will bring one billion more in cash than the crop did in 1921. Cotton will contribute the larger part of this sum.

Many Years' Good Roads Are in Store for America

Fifteen to twenty years of building good roads lie ahead of the United States. Under the program which the country has adopted there will be built, during that time, 180,000 miles of improved highways which will constitute the Federal-aid highway system and an equal or greater mileage of state and local roads. When the great job is done, the transportation facilities of the country will far exceed those of any other nation, past or present, in the world. The highways of the ancient Romans, whose fame has come down through centuries, will pale by comparison.

Details of this vast road-building program are to be placed before the Highway Education Board at its conference in Washington October 26 to 28, inclusive, by state highway engineers and officials of the Bureau of Public Roads United States Department of Agriculture, to whom has been entrusted the work of planning and supervising the construction of Federal-aid highways. The plan will be presented to enable the board to proceed authoritatively with its work of devising aids for schools and colleges to which road-builders of the country are turning for competent highway engineers.

Officials of the bureau place the aggregate cost of the Federal-aid program alone at about $3,000,000,000, spread over the twenty-year period. They base this estimate on an average cost of $17,000 per mile. The average cost, in turn, takes into consideration all classes of improved roadways from the cheapest to the most expensive types. Approximately one-third of the proposed system, or 60,000 miles of improved highways, already are either built or building.

The program is a new one. Up to comparatively recent years, road-building in the United States had been conducted without special regard to a national system. Highways had been constructed where needed without considering whether they would link up in the most effective manner with the whole network of roads to be spread over the nation. Engineers had sought more to meet immediate and local demands than the broader requirements of the states and nation.

The present Federal-aid road-building program, officials of the bureau state, will contemplate the construction of only such roads as fit into the national program and contribute to the national system. At the same time the roads will be so selected as to serve the most important local requirements. With marked modifications, the system adopted in building the railways of the country will be borne in mind in the construction of the country's new highways. There will be main lines of highway communication between centers and thousands of miles of feeder roads, reaching back into the more sparsely settled regions and into the rich agricultural sections, to tap areas whose population and products will flow over the new system.

New roads will be planned and built—thousands of miles of them—where they will fit in most advantageously with the entire program. The bureau is continuing its research work into most efficient methods of road-building, including the character and wearing power of materials, resisting qualities of varying subsoils, etc., and has amassed a considerable store of valuable information, all of which will be available for the highway engineer of tomorrow, whom the board is seeking to have educated in practical and modern methods.

OFFICIAL NAMES FACTORS TENDING TO INJURE TRADE

Donald Conn Cites Four Conditions That Have Affected Business Adversely.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Four factors have been more effective than freight rates in the business of deflation which the farmer has felt so keenly, Donald G. Conn, former chief of the division of transportation of the congregational joint commission of agricultural inquiry, told the Farm Equipment Manufacturers Association her. today.

The four major factors he enumerated were: (1) Lack of a stabilized foreign and domestic market; (2) lack of organized method of marketing and distribution; (3) lack of proper warehousing and storage facilities; (4) a change in method of financing the farmer.

"If the public expects the railroads to participate in periods of depression, certainly it should allow them to share equally with other industries when prosperity returns," Mr. Conn said.

"The relationship of freight costs to farm prices were quite constant from 1910 to 1916, when the great increase in farm prices began, reaching its maxium in June, 1920. There were practically no increases in freight rates in 1916 or 1917 and from 1917 to 1920 they increased far more slowly than did the price of farm products. The railroads did not participate in those years of general prosperity."

CAR OF ARIZONA GRAPEFRUIT IS QUICKLY BOUGHT

Shipment of This Fruit From Most States Barred From California.

A carload of Arizona grapefruit was received in the local produce market and was disposed of early yesterday. It was received by A. Levy and J. Zentner Company. Through error it was announced yesterday that the grapefruit was received from Florida. The shipment was from Arizona instead. Arizona grapefruits are permitted in the local markets while those from Florida and most of the other states are barred by law from the markets of California.

Deciduous fruit sales in New York yesterday included 120 cars of mixed California fruits. It was reported that California pears showed no change in price.

Only fourteen cars of California Valencias were sold there yesterday and the market took a more decided downward trend than in the first sale of the week.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Wheat averaged higher in price today during the early dealings, the chief influence being strength shown by the Liverpool market in the face of declines yesterday on this side of the Atlantic. Reports, however, that traffic congestion at Lake ports was being overcome and that exporters were showing less anxiety about supplies tended to check bullish sentiment. As a result, December delivery here appeared somewhat inclined to drag as compared with May and July. The opening, which ranged from ¼ to ⅝c higher, with December $1.14⅛@1.14¼ and May $1.12⅞@1.13, was followed by a moderate setback and then by new upturns to above initial figures.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to ½c higher, December 67⅞@68⅛c, the corn market fluctuated within a range of about 1c.

SOLON ASKS IF TAX WILL HIT MELON CUTTERS

Wisconsin Congressman Cites Legal Methods of Reaching Holders of Surplus.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Citing reports that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had declared a 400 per cent stock dividend, Representative Frear, Wisconsin, Republican member of the house ways and means committee, asked Secretary Mellon in a letter if the treasury had invoked Section 220 of the 1921 revenue act, "which provides methods for reaching holders of surplus when held for the purpose of escaping taxation."

Frear also wrote the secretary that according to newspaper despatches subsidiary members of the Standard Oil Company were declaring various stock divdends and that the United States Steel Corporation "will take the same course with a surplus estimated at several hundred million dollars."

In making public his letter to the secretary, Frear announced in a statement that in the next congress he would lead a fight to make all income tax reports public records, adding that these were the only important government records now kept secret by law. Some campaigning will be required, Frear said, to change the present law. "It may not get far during the short session," he added, "but it is certain to be a live issue in the sixty-eighth congress."

"It is possible," Frear declared, "that a disclosure of secret tax reports held by the treasury will show that over $200,000,000 and possibly several times $200,000,000 is being lost to the government annually through tax free securities, stock dividends and other escape sluice ways known to large taxpayers that should be collected."

AMENDMENT SOUGHT.

"President Harding," said Frear, "sought to reach tax free securities by a constitutional amendment, but for some reason the proposal was smothered and never passed the house." Congress, he declared, alone was responsible for failure to pass corrective legislation.

"If the income tax is right in principle by taxing incomes, according to ability to pay through graduated sur-taxes," Frear declared, then the law should be enforced equitably. In other words, if the Rockefeller family, for example, with a reputed income of a million dollars a day, places its Standard Oil profits in stock dividends so as to render them nontaxable, it may be assumed that it has equally protected the remaining income by large investments in tax free securities and, instead of paying a hundred million dollars tax annually on this enormous income as was generally supposed, it may have been shaved down to one per cent of that amount. No one can tell, because the returns are held secret under the law. Only the treasury knows.

"The administration of the law lies with Secretary Mellon whose absolute honesty is not questioned in following the strict letter of the law, but Mellon is quoted by Klein to be worth $500,000,000, which if reasonably accurate should yield an annual income of about $15,000,000, or more annually, while his daily income of $50 000 is several times his annual salary as secretary of the treasury. Whether Mellon avails himself of the same avenues of income tax escape as Rockefeller is only known to the secretary of the treasury who has the records and what is true of Rockefeller and Secretary Mellon is equally true of many of the twenty thousand individual income taxpayers whose annual incomes are supposed to run from $50,000 to $250,000 000 each, if correct reports are to be had. These are all kept secret today."

More Apples and Potatoes Shipped

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The car lot movement of 14 leading fruits and vegetables during the week ending October 14, was 26,850 cars, or about the same as for the previous week and about 3000 cars less than the corresponding period last year, according to reports by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Shipments of potatoes and apples alone increased. Markets were nearly steady for potatoes, apples and onions, slightly stronger for cabbage while sweet potatoes were generally firm.

Minnesota and North Dakota led in potato shipments. Shipments from the leading late shipping states are 16,000 cars less than last season to the middle of October, while the movement from New Jersey exceeded last season by about 6600 cars.

The movement of apples from box shipping states to date has been little more than half of last season's shipments while barrel shipping states increased about 40 per cent.

This unit is estimated to cost about three and a half million dollars and will produce 100,000 tons of paper daily.

Tariff Pact's Text Received

The text of the reciprocal tariff agreement between Australia and New Zealand, which went into effect on September 1, has been received by the tariff division of the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner Sanger, at Melbourne.

The rates of the British preferential custom of each country have, in most cases, been granted to the other. New Zealand however, has in general not granted preferential rates to Australia when such duties would be less than the corresponding British preferential duties on the same article. Australia on the other hand has allowed many reductions below its British preferential rates, in order to meet the New Zealand duties on specific articles.

Employment Is Reported to Be Normal on Coast

Work Is Plentiful Outside of Larger Cities, Says Industrial Official.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Outside of the larger cities, employment conditions on the Pacific Coast were generally normal during September, according to the report of J. A. Kelly, San Francisco, district director for the employment service, United States Department of Labor, made public here today. Demand for agricultural workers and skilled building trades artisans in many places exceeded the supply, mining showed slight improvement, but shipbuilding remained at a standstill.

"California. — Unemployment in larger cities confined chiefly to iron and steel, casual and office workers. Lumber operating to capacity and skilled workers in demand. Agricultural and fruit centers report shortage of experienced help. Steady demand for construction laborers on highways and power development. Building continues very active in most sections, and a shortage of finish carpenters and bricklayers generally reported. Southern oil fields operating to capacity, but San Joaquin Valley and Coast fields at only one-third capacity. Mining improved but still below normal. Ship building at a standstill.

"Oregon.—Outside of the large industrial centers employment conditions show improvement, due chiefly to active demand for agricultural and construction workers. This demand is largely responsible for absorption of unemployed from other industries. Building continues active, but there is no apparent shortage of labor. There are no large outside developments or construction work contemplated for immediate future.

"Washington.—Employment conditions generally improved over August. There has been a falling off in the number employed in the lumber industry due to forest fires, but this industry is still operating to capacity. Food products show a decrease on account of temporary seasonal layoff. Large demand for harvest hands, affording considerable employment and absorbing many workers from other industries. Iron and steel shows some activity, but not yet up to capacity. Surplus of railroad repair workers, due to labor controversy. Building active, and there is no unemployment in this industry. Demand for building trades mechanics of all kinds in the large centers. Housing conditions generally improving."

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Strength of oil shares was the feature at the irregular opening of today's New York stock market. Mexican Petroleum climbed 4½ points in the first few minutes and Pan-American B stock which reports in the financial district say it is to be transferred for Mexican Petroleum under a new plan of exchange sold higher than the A stock for the first time.

Corn Products established a new peak price at a gain of more than 2½ points and there was a fairly good demand for Burns Brothers A and B, Consolidated Gas United Fruit, Famous Players and Julius Kayser, all of which advanced 1 to 3 points. The advance in rails was led by Northern Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern, each up a point. Metal and rubber stocks improved fractionally. Some of yesterday's leaders received setbacks today, National Biscuit dropping 5¼ points and Standard Oil of New Jersey 2½. Other weak spots were Davison Chemical, off 2¼ at its low of the year, Pacific Oil and Republic Steel, off 2 each and Bethlehem B, off 1¼. Baldwin and Studebaker also were reactionary.

The abundant offerings which met the initial rise in various shares encouraged active selling by short interests resulting in a large proportion of the list being carried down a point or more below yesterday's final figures. Particular weakness in oils, steels and motors influenced extensive profit taking. Some rather violent breaks occurred in special stocks notably in Liggett and Myers, which dropped 11 points; National Biscuit 5⅛s. American Express and Otis Elevator 5 each and Pacific Oil and Davison Chemical 4 each. A bullish demonstration in Corn Products and a renewal of heavy buying in some of the high priced oils, combined with the marking down of the call money rate from 5 per cent, the initial quotation to 4½, caused most of the list to rally again before noon.

Heavy buying of United States government securities at higher prices featured the early dealings in today's New York bond market. Liberty 3½s advanced 66c to $101 88, a new high record for the year and the new 4¼ bonds sold at $100 12, also a new top price. The gains in the 4¼ series ranged from 20 to 22 cents on $100.

Foreign securities moved with an uncertain trend.

Prices of railroad mortgages generally moved within narrow limits. Chicago & Alton 3½s, Northern Pacific 4s and Baltimore & Ohio 4s improved fractionally, while Frisco adjustment 6s and Canadian Pacific 4s were relatively backward.

The same conflicting movements took place in the industrial list, Marine 6s and U S Rubber 5s advancing ½ of a point each, while U. S. Steel 5s and Montana Power yielded slightly.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN INDUSTRIAL SITUATION.

The industrial situation has improved materially, says a business summary prepared by Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank of San Francisco. After the settlement of the coal and railroad strikes, increased employment has naturally followed the urgent need for labor at the coal mines, on the farms and in transportation. During the war period, when human industry was diverted from its usual constructive pursuits, there was a cumulative demand for housing, for repairs and development of our railroad systems, and for general rehabilitation of public and private enterprises, which had marked time in the national emergency, and since the Armistice there have been important influences to restrain capital from freely supplying these needs—financial stringency, war clouds on the Pacific and in the Near East, burdensome taxes, with the added threat of a soldiers' bonus, and nation-wide strikes. One of these hurdles have been crossed; and, while the high cost of labor will continue to exert a restraining influence on all enterprise, necessity seems now to insure an active building program. Foreign buying is still being restricted to merchandise or supplies which cannot be procured at home and which are imperatively needed abroad. The considerable increase in merchandise imports in August was accounted for largely by the rush to bring in goods before the new tariff regulations became effective, the August total of $271,090,000 comparing with $251,000,000 in July and $194,-700,000 in August, 1921. Merchandise exports in August were valued at $302,000,000 as against $305,000,-000 in July and $371,935,259 in August, 1921. The August excess of exports was $31,000,000, the lowest export margin reported in many months (February, 1922, excepted).

CLOSE STUDY OF RAIL MERGER ISSUE INVITED.

The State Railroad Commission has addressed a letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission urging that body to visit California to obtain first-hand information in connection with the Southern Pacific Company's application to retain the operation and ownership of the Central Pacific. This application has been made following the recent unmerger decision and is based on the provisions of the transportation act of 1920 authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit railroad consolidation where they are found to be in the public interest. The California Commission announces that it offers to the federal body every facility at its disposal in a spirit of helpful co-operation.

BRITAIN'S HOME FINANCES REPORTED BETTER.

On the eve of negotiations for an adjustment of debt repayments to the United States, the British government is probably in the best position with respect to home finances that it has attained since the end of the war, according to the department of foreign information British section Bankers' Trust Company.

In the first six months of the present fiscal year, which began on April 1, 1922, expenditure has been kept £56,000,000 below income and is more than £150,000,000 below the amount spent by the government in the corresponding period of 1921.

British treasury figures received by the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, from its English information service, also show considerable improvement in the status of the Great Britain national debt.

At the close of the war Britain's total debt was £8,079,000,000. The total has since been reduced by approximately £360,000,000, of which about £275,000,000 represents reduction of debt owed by Great Britain to other countries.

Another significant and encouraging feature has been the reduction of the British floating debt. At the end of 1919 the floating debt amounted to £1,349,324,000. Six months later, on June 30, 1920, it was £1,570,387,000. On September 30, 1922, the floating debt had been reduced to £871,924,500.

The dark side of the picture is the position of Britain's foreign loans and the very remote prospect of repayments by Britain's debtors. Latest official figures of the British treasury disclose that the debt owed to Great Britain by her allies increased by more than £50,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

NO MORE ELEVATOR SPACE AVAILABLE.

With enough grain for export on its way to Vancouver, B. C., from the Canadian prairies to fill the elevator space, the Canadian Pacific railway has announced that no more shipments can be accepted for the present. To a committee of business men who called on him concerning the emergency J. A. Robb, minister of trade and commerce, suggested that grain in transit be stored in transit in the elevator at Calgary and that double or triple shifts be put on here loading vessels.

OHIO OIL COMPANY DECLARES BIG DIVIDEND.

A 300 per cent stock dividend was declared by directors of the Ohio Oil Company, another of the Standard Oil group, payable December 30 to stock on record December 1, according to word received from New York.

A stockholder's meeting has been called for November 21 to vote on a proposed increase in the company's stock from $15,000,000 to $60,000,000, and authorizing distribution of the increased $45,000,-000 in a stock dividend.

This will be the company's first distribution since 1915, when 200,-000 share of Illinois Pipe Line Company, formed to take over Ohio Oil's pipe line facilities, were distributed.

PRODUCTION OF CRUDE OIL INCREASES.

The daily average gross crude oil production of the United States increased 11,050 barrel for the week ending October 14, totaling 1,555,050 barrels, as compared with 1,544,000 barrels for the preceding week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute of New York. The daily average production east of the Rocky Mountains was 1,135,-000 barrels, as compared with 1,131,000 barrels, an increase of 4050. California production was 420,000 barrels as compared with 410,000 barrels, an increase of 10,000. No changes were reported in crude oil proces for the major districts—Mid Continent crude is quoted at $1 25 a barrel; Pennsylvania at $3 a barrel and Gulf Coast at $1.25. According to figures collected by the Institute, the imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the week ended October 14 totaled 1,990,814 barrels, compared with 1,785,597 barrels for the week ended October 7.

U. S. YARDS WORK ON STEEL SHIPS

American shipyards are building 131 ships at present, according to announcement of the Department of Commerce. Thirteen new contracts have been let and two large steamers will slide from the ways this month. The figures do not include the ships which are being built for the government itself or those which have been contracted for by the United States Shipping Board.

The tonnage of the 131 ships under construction will amount to 249,394 gross tons. During August there were 121 steel ships on the ways and only 218,999 tons represented. The outlook for an increase in American shipbuilding is very bright, according to the government report.

A ship purchase of considerable interest to the Pacific coast is that of the tankers Hambro and Hamer by the General Petroleum Company. These two steamers were purchased by the United States Shipping Board yesterday.

The Hambro is at present in the Liberty Shipyards in Alameda, and as soon as she can be put into condition will be placed in service. This will be soon. The Hamer has been operating under the direction of Struthers and Barry in the trans-Pacific trade. She is at present in Seattle. The Purchase price has not been made public.

Seafoam, Which Has Capsized

The Dog Watch

Edited by FRANK CLIFF.

A seaman can be depended upon to step forward and breach the gap in every emergency. Developing an educational system is one line which the average sailor can hardly ever be expected to engage in. It sometimes happens though, as is vouched for by Captain E. Naylor of the British freighter Eastern Prince which is taking on barley at the Albers wharf. He met the situation in an original way.

"The Japanese are decidedly anxious to learn to speak English," says Captain Naylor. "When the ship docks immediately there is a crowd of students aboard endeavoring to strike up a conversation with anyone who will talk. They try out all of the stock phrases and endeavor to learn new ones. In some cases, I fear, the phrases they pick up would hardly do in polite society, for the average deck hand is more noted for forcefulness than politeness at times. One day, however, one of the university representatives called upon me and wanted me to lay out for him a course of study in English reading from the books that I had. He promised to return them the next time I called at Yokohama. I hardly wanted to take the chance of losing some of my books so I hit upon the happy thought of giving him magazines. I had a number of popular American publications and soon I had him deeply immersed. He looked like a magazine vendor when he left the ship and I guess that he is still struggling through the lines of popular American reading."

WILHELMINA ARRIVES.

Following an uneventful voyage, the Matson Navigation liner Wilhelmina, Captain Arthur L. Soule, arrived yesterday morning from Honolulu with 53 passengers and a heavy cargo of Hawaiian products. Interesting travelers on the ship included Mr. and Mrs J. F. Jefferson, of Santa Barbara, who are returning from a cruise in the South Seas, having left their yacht at Fiji for the crew to bring home; R. A. McNally, former city editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin; F. W. Law, New York lecturer; T. G. McGrath, superintendent of the Hawaiian Electric Company of Honolulu; H. H. Wishon, manager of the Hotel Whitecotton, Berkeley; Charles Wheeler Jr., San Francisco attorney, returning from a tour of the Orient and the South Seas; J. G. Reynolds, assistant to the general manager of the Bass-Heuter Paint Company; T. J. Edmonds, New Zealand business man, of Auckland and others.

The cargo brought in yesterday by the Matson Navigation liner Wilhelmina from Kahului and Honolulu was heavy, amounting to 6799 tons. It included 70,169 bags of raw sugar; 43,196 cases of canned pines; 4475 bunches of bananas, 568 cases of Hawaiian honey, 413 sacks or Kona coffee, 321 packages of Kona coffee, and 195 bags of main. The ship transferred three stowaways at sea to the Manoa for return to Honolulu.

VIKING AND TOW ARRIVES.

The steam schooner Viking with the dredger San Pedro in tow, arrived from Los Angeles this morning. The dredger will be tied up in the estuary until it is again needed. The Viking will proceed north with cargo. The San Pedro has been engaged in dredging out the San Pedro harbor entrance.

PACKERS BUY HOUSTON.

The old United States Army transport Houston which has been in service of the government since the Spanish-American war days has been sold by Uncle Sam to the Alaska Packers' Association. The company paid $35,200 for the steamer. The Houston is now in the Orient and is due to arrive in San Francisco from Manila on January 11. Shortly thereafter she will be turned over to the Alaska Packers for conversion into a fishing and supply vessel.

THREE WARSHIPS COMING.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Disposition of battleships of the Pacific fleet for observance of "Navy Day," October 27, was announced tonight at fleet headquarters here.

The vessels will leave Los Angeles October 24 and 25 for the following points: Arizona, Mississippi and Pennsylvania to San Francisco.

Texas to Santa Barbara.
New York to Monterey.

The California and New Mexico will remain at Los Angeles. All craft will return here immediately after "Navy Day."

BIGGEST TANKER SAILS.

The tanker William Rockefeller, which came to the Pacific coast on her maiden voyage, sailed from Los Angeles today for New York with a full cargo of oil. She is the largest oil tanker in the world, and is owned by the Standard Oil Company. She has a net tonnage of 8700 tons. The same company is sending the tankers J. D. Archbold and the William G. Warden to this coast to load oil for the Atlantic coast. The Warden is but slightly smaller than the Rockefeller.

GUERRERO IS WRECKED.

The Mexican steamer Guerrero, en route to this port from Mexican and way ports went ashore at Mazatlan on Monday during a heavy gale. She has a large cargo and many passengers on board, but the reports state that she is undamaged and can be floated. Williams Dimond Company of this port are the agents for the Guerrero. Captain Rendon commands the craft.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The steam schooner Saginaw with the barge Charles Nelson in tow, sailed at midnight for Puget Sound with considerable cargo. After unloading she will return with the cargo, carrying lumber to the Sunset Lumber Company.

The East Asiatic Company has chartered a Japanese steamer to take a cargo of lumber from Puget Sound to South Africa at the rate of $19 a thousand feet. This is a high charter, according to what other vessels has received recently.

Another heavy day was reported in shipping at this port yesterday. Over three million feet of lumber arrived, 6000 railroad ties, 3000 tons of copra, 87,106 cases of salmon, 800 tons of print paper and other cargoes. The steamer Wilhelmina from the Hawaiian Islands brought 70,169 bags of raw sugar, 43,196 cases of canned pineapple, 4475 bunches of bananas, besides, coffee, honey and fresh tropical fruits.

Within a few weeks the first of the two new Key Route ferry steamers building at Los Angeles will be launched. The keel was laid on June 28, and the boat is expected to be ready for service before January 1.

STEAMER TURNS OVER, SINKS AT FT. BRAGG DOCK

"Alarm Clock of Waterfront" Has First Serious Accident of Career.

The steam schooned Sea Foam keeled over and filled with water while loading at the Fort Bragg wharf last night, according to word received here this morning. The schooner sank in 20 feet of water. Efforts are to be made to beach and right her at high tide today. No lives were lost, according to the reports received here but several narrow escapes occurred.

The Sea Foam is probably the best known of all the lumber schooners coming into this port. She has the record of having brought in more wrecked crews than any other single vessel on the Pacific Coast. For many years she was nicknamed "The Water Front Alarm Clock," because of the regularity and promptness with which she used to poke her nost through the Golden Gate at 6 o'clock sharp on the mornings of her arrival.

It is not known yet what caused the steamer to trun over but it could have been a combination of low water and unevenly loaded deck, according to local shipping men. The Sea Foam is commanded by Captain Lindberg.

The Sea Foam is owned by Charles H. Higgins and has been engaged in the passenger and freight carrying trade between San Francisco and the north inshore ports since her construction to succeed the wrecked steamer Point Arena, 18 years ago. She is 339 tons register and is 127 feet long with a 10 foot depth of hold. Her lumber capacity totals 2,000,-000 feet. This is her first serious accident.

GREAT FUTURE PREDICTED FOR EAST OAKLAND

Skeleton map showing how industrial locations and lines of traffic combine to establish the basis of another "city within a city" in East Oakland. Business on East Fourteenth street is extending, and another center is developing at Schenectady Park, the big tract of California Subdivision Company which has just placed Hopkinstown quarter acres on sale.

HEART OF EAST OAKLAND GROWS AT RAPID RATE

Natural Business Conditions and Pleasant Climate Are Site Attractions

That "The Heart of East Oakland" contains all the elements that go to make a city and is rapidly developing into another city within the city limits of Oakland, is the opinion of Lawrence Block, manager of sales in Schnectady park and Hopkinstown quarter-acres for the California Subdivision company

Block's opinion on this subject is confirmed by investigations of a number of experts on city growth who are agreed that the way in which East Oakland streets have been laid out, coupled with natural industrial locations, natural tendency of travel east and west, natural business localities and an unexcelled climate, will inevitably result in the section approximately three to five miles east of Broadway becoming an important civic section, second only to the main center of Oakland

FREE FROM FOGS, WINDS.

The "Fruitvale climate" has long been known as comparatively free from fogs and cold winds and at the same time being immune from heat waves. It is claimed by local residents that there is no finer climate in California than this. Fruitvale formerly was known as the entire section surrounding the present business center of Fruitvale and extending from the Estuary to the hills. In this section many people built homes in the early days in order to enjoy pleasant surroundings at home though obliged to work or do business in Oakland or across the bay.

Continued growth of Oakland and San Francisco caused subdivisions, which were given names, and there are many localities within the old Fruitvale limits which are not now known as a part of Fruitvale, but which contribute to Fruitvale's importance as a business center.

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

The comparative rapidity with which new bank locations have been purchased at points along East Fourteenth street beginning at Fruitvale avenue and interspersed at various street corners along East Fourteenth for a mile or more, is taken as indicating that the big men of Oakland, who have the widest opportunities for anticipating business values, have decided that this part of Oakland is to be of vastly greater importance than at present.

The large level areas lying along the Tidal canal and San Leandro bay, all of which are accessible to two transcontinental railways and convenient for manufacturing processes and local transportation, are expected to be the seat of a combined industrial development that will employ many thousands of workmen and may swell the population of East Oakland to figures that would challenge the belief of the average resident.

It is stated by Block that business will continue to extend along East Fourteenth and that another local business center which is now partly established at Schnectady park, east of the new General Electric plant, will be included in the important future business center in East Oakland. The success of the Subdivision company in selling Schnectady park is partly based on its location along and adjacent to East Fourteenth and partly to the low price of the property, which has all improvements in and paid for.

Work Progresses on New Bank Branch

Walls of the new American bank building at Dimond are now up and all masonry completed on the vaults. The burglar alarm system is practically complete Completion of the entire structure now waits on the roofers. As soon as the roof is finished plastering and interior finishing will commence and the completed building will be ready for occupancy in about six weeks, it is thought.

The new Fruitvale branch building of the American bank has not been started, but all preparations are practically complete, the ground surveyed, the plans made and actual construction will commence shortly.

NEW RESIDENCE TRACT OPENED

Hopkinstown Quarter-Acres, a new residence tract to the north of Hopkinstown, has been opened by California Subdivision company The rapid sale of lots in Hopkinstown and Schnectady Park has caused this company to prepare Hopkinstown Quarter-Acres for sale to supply the steady demand for homes in the "Heart of East Oakland."

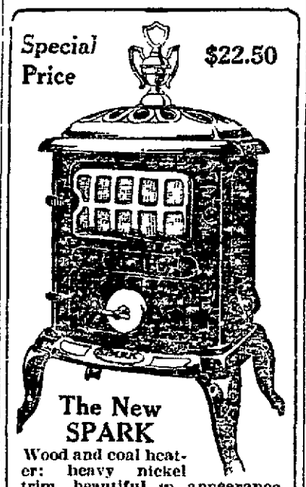

The new tract is practically level, but lies high above the business sections of East Oakland and is very sightly. It has been laid out with a view to satisfying the desire of many home owners for ample ground space around the house for children to play without going into the streets and also for growing flowers, garden truck, etc. Hopkinstown Quarter-Acres is one of the most attractive properties of this character placed on the market by the California Subdivision company and a ready demand for the lots is anticipated.

CHAPTER 578, STATUTES OF 1921.

An act to authorize the creation of a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, through the issuance and sale of state bonds, for the single object of creating a fund to carry on the operations of the veterans' welfare board in accordance with the provisions of the California veterans' welfare act enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, and also in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, or either of them enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said acts, or either of them, to provide ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such interest falls due, and also for the payment and discharge of the principal of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such principal matures; to create a veterans' welfare finance committee the members of which are to serve without compensation; to define the powers and duties of said veterans' welfare finance committee and of other state officers in relation to this act; to appropriate money for the expense of preparing and advertising the sale of the bonds herein authorized to be issued; and to provide for the submission of this act to a vote of the people at the general election to be held in the month of November, 1922.

[Approved May 30, 1921.]

Section 1. For the purpose of creating a fund to carry on the operations of the veterans' welfare board in accordance with the provisions of the California veterans' welfare act enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, and also in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, or either of them enacted at the forty-fourth session of the legislature of the State of California, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said acts, or either of them, the veterans' welfare finance committee created by this act shall be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to create a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State of California, in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided, but not otherwise, nor in excess thereof.

Sec. 2. After the issuance of the proclamation of the governor provided for in section sixteen of this act, and immediately after adoption of any resolution by the veterans' welfare committee hereby created, provided for in section eleven of this act, the state treasurer shall prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds of the denomination of one thousand dollars in accordance with the specifications contained in such resolution. The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of ten million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said veterans' welfare finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

All bonds issued under this act shall bear the signature of the governor and the facsimile countersignature of the controller and shall be endorsed by the state treasurer either by original signature or by signature stamp adopted for each particular bond issue under this act, and the said bonds shall be signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who shall be in office on the date of issuance thereof, and each of said bonds shall bear an impress of the great seal of the State of California. The said bonds so signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the State of California, although the sale thereof be made at a date or dates upon which the officers having signed, countersigned and endorsed said bonds, or any or either of said officers, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of the offices held by them at the time of signing countersigning, or endorsing said bonds. Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof, and referring to this act and to the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

Sec. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

Sec. 4. All bonds issued under this act and sold shall be deemed to have been called in at their respective dates of maturity and the state treasurer shall, on the respective dates of maturity of said bonds, or as soon thereafter as said matured bonds are surrendered to him, pay the same out of the proceeds of the controller's warrants drawn in his favor as provided in section five hereof and perforate the bonds so paid with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such payment and the date thereof. He shall also, on the said respective dates of maturity, cancel all bonds bearing said dates of maturity and remaining unsold, by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof. The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

Sec. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collections of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

On the several dates of maturity of said principal and interest in each fiscal year, there shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury, all of the moneys in the specific fund into which the proceeds from the sale of the said bonds have been covered as herein prescribed, not in excess of the principal of and interest on the said bonds then due and payable and, in the event of such moneys so returned on said dates of maturity being less than the said principal and interest then due and payable, then the balance remaining unpaid shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury out of said specific fund as soon thereafter as it shall become available, together with interest thereon, from such dates of maturity until so returned, at the rate of five per cent per annum, compounded semiannually.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn against said appropriation from the general fund by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer upon or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

Sec. 6. The sum of fifteen thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses that may be incurred by the state treasurer in having said bonds prepared and in advertising their sale. Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund in the state treasury out of the specific funds into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be respectively covered in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

Sec. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the veterans' welfare board and approved by the governor of the state; but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

Sec. 8. Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Sacramento once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the veterans' welfare fund for land settlement, or into the veterans' farm and home building fund, as the case may be, in accordance with the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee, provided for in section eleven of this act, by virtue of which resolution the said bonds shall have been issued, and must be used exclusively to provide useful employment and the opportunity to acquire farm homes with profitable livelihood on the land for veterans and to provide for cooperation of the state with the agencies of the United States engaged in work of similar character, and to furnish to veterans the opportunity to purchase farms, homes and home sites, in accordance with the provisions of the California veterans' welfare act and of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, or either of them, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said acts, or either of them; provided, that the said veterans' welfare board must pay over to the general fund of the state from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds all money which has been heretofore or may be hereafter appropriated and advanced out of the general fund in the state treasury for the use of the said veterans' welfare board on condition that it shall be so paid over; provided, further, that the said veterans' welfare board may, out of the proceeds from the sale of said bonds, pay all or any part of any indebtedness heretofore by it incurred in accordance with law and remaining unpaid, including the interest accrued thereon, unless the rate of interest applying to such indebtedness is less than the rate of interest applying to the said bonds; and provided, further, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

Sec. 9. The veterans' welfare board shall be and hereby is authorized, with the approval of the state board of control, to invest any surplus moneys in any of the funds subject to or appropriated for its use in bonds of the United States, or of the State of California, or of the several counties or municipalities or other political subdivisions of the State of California, and to sell such bonds, or any of them, at the governing market rates, upon approval of the state board of control.

Sec. 10.—There is hereby created a veterans' welfare finance committee composed of the governor, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of control, and chairman of the veterans' welfare board, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said committee. The attorney general of the state shall be the legal advisor of the veterans' welfare finance committee.

Upon request of the veterans' welfare board, supported by a statement of the plans and projects of the veterans' welfare board with respect thereto, which statement shall designate the specific fund to which such plans and projects relate, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall determine whether or not a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution.

Sec. 11. Wherever the said veterans' welfare finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

1. The aggregate number, aggregate par value and the date of issuance of the bonds to be issued.
2. The date or dates of maturity of the bonds to be issued and the number and numerical sequence of the bonds maturing at each date of maturity.
3. The annual rate of interest which the bonds to be issued shall bear.
4. The number, numerical sequence, amount or amounts, and the dates of maturity of the interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds.
5. The specific fund into which the proceeds from the sale of the bonds to be issued shall be placed and from which disbursements thereof shall be made in accordance with this act.
6. The technical form and language of the bonds to be issued and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

In determining the date or dates of maturity of the said bonds and the amount of bonds maturing at each date of maturity, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall be guided by the amounts and dates of maturity of the revenues estimated to accrue to the veterans' welfare board from the project or projects to be financed by each issue, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the said bond issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as practicable, and be commensurate, as nearly as practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated revenues; provided, that the bonds first to mature in each issue, shall mature not later than five years from the date of issuance thereof; provided, further, that specified numbers of bonds of specified numerical sequence shall thereafter mature at annual intervals; and provided, further, that the bonds last to mature in each issue shall mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance thereof.

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the veterans' welfare finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semi-annual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the veterans' welfare finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

Sec. 12. All actual and necessary expenses of the veterans' welfare finance committee and of the members thereof shall be paid out of the fund into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be covered, upon approval of the state board of control and on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose, and shall constitute expenses of the veterans' welfare board.

Sec. 13. The state controller, the state treasurer, and the veterans' welfare finance committee shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act, and they shall transmit to the governor an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder, with an annual report, to be by the governor laid before the legislature biennially; and all books and papers pertaining to the matter provided for in this act shall at all times be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the governor, or the attorney general, or a committee of either branch of the legislature, or a joint committee of both, or any citizen of the state.

Sec. 14. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the fifteenth day of November, 1922, as to all its provisions except those relating to and necessary for its submission to the people, and for returning, canvassing, and proclaiming the votes, and as to said excepted provisions this act shall take effect immediately.

Sec. 15. This act shall be submitted to the people of the State of California for their ratification at the next general election, to be holden in the month of November, 1922, and all ballots at said election shall have printed thereon and in a square thereof, the words: "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921," and in the same square under said words the following in brevier type: "This act provides for a bond issue of ten million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes." In the square immediately below the square containing such words, there shall be printed on said ballot the words: "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921," and in the same square immediately below said words "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921" in brevier type shall be printed "This act provides for a bond issue of ten million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes." Opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921" and "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921," there shall be left spaces in which the voters may place a cross in the manner required by law to indicate whether they vote for or against said act, and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921" and those voting against the said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1921." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people, as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

Sec. 16. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers; and if it appear that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at said election as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest of the liabilities herein created shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof; but if a majority of the votes cast as aforesaid are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

Sec. 17. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state in accordance with law to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be holden in the month of November, 1922; the costs of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for that purpose and shall be refunded to the general fund out of the veterans' welfare fund for land settlement and the veterans' farm and home building fund jointly, each of said funds bearing one-half of said costs. Said refund shall be made upon controller's warrants duly drawn against said funds for said purpose upon demands audited by the state board of control.

Sec. 18. This act may be known and cited as the "veterans' welfare bond act of 1921."

Sec. 19. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. After the issuance of the proclamation of the governor provided for in section sixteen of this act, and immediately after adoption of any resolution by the state land settlement committee hereby created, provided for in section eleven of this act, the state treasurer shall prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds of the denomination of one thousand dollars in accordance with the specifications contained in such resolution. The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of three million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said state land settlement finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

All bonds issued under this act shall bear the signature of the governor and the facsimile countersignature of the controller and shall be endorsed by the state treasurer either by original signature or by signature stamp adopted for each particular bond issue under this act, and the said bonds shall be signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who shall be in office on the date of issuance thereof, and each of said bonds shall bear an impress of the great seal of the State of California. The said bonds so signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the State of California, although the sale thereof be made at a date or dates upon which the officers have signed, countersigned and endorsed said bonds, or any or either of said officers, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of the offices held by them at the time of signing, countersigning, or endorsing said bonds. Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof, and referring to this act and to the resolution of the state land settlement finance board hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

Sec. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons, appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

Sec. 4. All bonds issued under this act and sold shall be deemed to have been called in at their respective dates of maturity and the state treasurer shall, on the respective dates of maturity of said bonds, or as soon thereafter as said matured bonds are surrendered to him, pay the same out of the proceeds of the controller's warrants drawn in his favor as provided in section five hereof and perforate the bonds so paid with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such payment and the date thereof. He shall also, on the said respective dates of maturity, cancel all bonds bearing said dates of maturity and remaining unsold, by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof. The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

Sec. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sums annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collection of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

On the several dates of maturity of said principal and interest in each fiscal year, there shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury, all of the moneys subject to and available for the use of the state land settlement board not in excess of the principal of and interest on the bonds, then due and payable and, in the event of such moneys so returned on said dates of maturity being less than the said principal and interest then due and payable, then the balance remaining unpaid shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury as soon thereafter as it shall become available, together with interest thereon, from such dates of maturity until so returned, at the rate of five per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

Sec. 6. The sum of ten thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses that may be incurred by the state treasurer in having said bonds prepared and advertising their sale. Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund of the state treasury out of the land settlement fund in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

Sec. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the state land settlement board and approved by the governor of the state; but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale, as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

Sec. 8. Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Sacramento once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the land settlement fund in the state treasury and must be used exclusively to provide employment and rural homes for soldiers, sailors, marines and others who have served with the armed forces of the United States in the European war or other wars of the United States, including former American citizens who served in allied armies against the central powers and have been repatriated, and who have been honorably discharged, to promote closer agricultural settlement, to assist deserving and qualified persons to acquire small improved farms, to demonstrate the value of adequate capital and organized direction in subdividing and preparing agricultural land for settlement, and to provide homes for farm laborers, in accordance with the provisions of the land settlement act, approved June 1, 1917, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto; provided, that the said land settlement board must pay over to the general fund of the state from the proceeds of the sale of bonds all money which has been heretofore or may be hereafter appropriated and advanced out of the general fund of the state treasury for the use of the state land settlement board on condition that it shall be so paid over; provided, further, that the said state land settlement board may, out of the proceeds from the sale of said bonds pay all or any part of any indebtedness heretofore by it incurred in accordance with law and remaining unpaid, including the interest accrued thereon, unless the rate of interest applying to such indebtedness is less than the rate of interest applying to the said bonds; and provided, further, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

Sec. 9. The state land settlement board shall be and hereby is authorized, with the approval of the state board of control, to invest any surplus moneys in any of the funds subject to or appropriated for its use in bonds of the United States, or of the State of California, or of the several counties or municipalities or other political subdivisions of the State of California, and to sell such bonds, or any of them, at the governing market rates, upon approval of the state board of control.

Sec. 10. There is hereby created a state land settlement finance committee composed of the governor, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of control, and chairman of the state land settlement board, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said committee. The attorney-general of the state shall be the legal advisor of the state land settlement finance committee.

Upon request of the state land settlement board, supported by a statement of the plans and projects of the state land settlement board with respect thereto, the state land settlement finance committee shall determine whether or not a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution.

Sec. 11. Whenever the said state land settlement finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

1. The aggregate number, aggregate par value, and the date of issuance of the bonds to be issued.
2. The date or dates of maturity of the bonds to be issued and the number and numerical sequence of the bonds maturing at each date of maturity.
3. The annual rate of interest which the bonds to be issued shall bear.
4. The number, numerical sequence, amount or amounts, and the dates of maturity of the interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds.
5. The technical form and language of the bonds to be issued and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

In determining the date or dates of maturity of the said bonds and the amount of bonds maturing at each date of maturity, the state land settlement finance committee shall be guided by the amounts and dates of maturity of the revenues estimated to accrue to the state land settlement board from the project or projects to be financed by each issue, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the said bond issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as practicable, and be commensurate as nearly as practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated revenues; provided, that the bonds first to mature in each issue, shall mature not later than five years from the date of issuance thereof; provided, further, that specified numbers of bonds of specified numerical sequence shall thereafter mature at annual intervals; and provided, further, that the bonds last to mature in each issue shall mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance thereof.

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the state land settlement finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semi-annual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the state land settlement finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

Sec. 12. CURTAIN CALLS

By WOOD SOANES

AND then one day romance and adventure came over the garden wall in the person of a handsome young naval officer, and Marjorlaine, who had been immured from the world by her father because of her dead mother's waywardness, learns the meaning of love—

No, this is not the conclusion of a fairy tale. Far from it. This is a synopsis of the plot of a new play which is now being written by Isabelle Lowe and will be produced at the Fulton theater, where she is now appearing as leading woman, within a few weeks.

Heretofore Miss Lowe has had some little success writing motion picture scenarios, but this is her first attempt at a real-honest-to-goodness play. Thus will she have an opportunity of joining the ranks of such stars and dramatists as Maude Fulton, Howard Hickman, William Cressy, Crane Wilbur, Hale Hamilton and others whose plays were given their premier here.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"Andre Chenier" was scheduled for presentation at the Tivoli theater in San Francisco twenty seasons ago tonight. Agostini was singing the role of the poet-patriot and our own Paul Steindorff was waving the baton. Paul's hair was not so silvery then.

"Marjorlaine" is a romantic comedy and must not be confused with "Marjolaine," a successful musical play which was produced in January of this year on Broadway. The musical play was adapted from the old drama "Pomander Walk."

"When I Was With Old Joe in 'Rip Van Winkle'"

Jack Russell, musical comedian at the Century theater, has the distinction of being one of the members of the original "Rip Van Winkle" company with Joseph Jefferson. Russell was four years old when he was selected to play the part of Heinrich and also to double as the dwarf who struggled up the mountain side with the schnapps.

Together with Russell in Jefferson's company were his mother, Mabel Lamont, who played Gretchen, and his sister, Marie Lamont, who played Meine. Russell was also known as Lamont in those days of 1897-98. When he was five, Russell played Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," produced under the direction of the famous old melodrama combination, Sullivan, Harris and Woods. Russell's father was connected with the P. T. Barnum shows.

Russell has been in the musical comedy field for the past ten years following excursions into vaudeville and melodrama under the direction of Corse Payton. His first visits to the coast were in vaudeville.

Exits and Entrances

Louis F. Werba is arranging to produce a comedy by Philip Bartholomae entitled "Barnum Was Right," in the near future. The first performances will be given in November and the show moved into New York during the winter.

* * *

Harry Cornell, the genial manager of Pantages, last lost his dog again. This happens about once in every three weeks and the future looks pretty dark for the Cornell family until "Brownie" ambles home again.

Walter Spencer, who is playing straights to Jack Russell's comedy at the Century, is frequently mistaken for Jack Mulhall, the picture actor.

Lenore Ulric, who achieved fame first in "The Bird of Paradise," is now being starred by Belasco in "Kiki."

* * *

Ruth St. Denis has returned to the stage, after an absence of two years, with Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers.

* * *

Richard Bennett, back in New York, is gloating over his wisdom in securing the rights to Dan Tothero's "Wild Birds," which he threatens to produce on Broadway. "Wild Birds" is the same that caused such a rumpus in San Francisco recently when the police censor squashed it only to have it run in defiance of his ukase.

* * *

This has some of the earmarks of a Bataille year on Broadway. Henry Miller is offering "La Tendresse" with Ruth Chatterton featured; Marjorie Rambeau is rehearsing "The Wedding March" and "The Love Child" is already on the boards.

Channing Pollock's new play, "The Fool," will be presented in New York next week with James Kirkwood recruited from the movies for the leading role.

* * *

"When Knighthood Was in Flower," the motion picture in which Marion Davies is now being starred, is to be revived in play form at the Fulton theater, according to announcement.

* * *

Other new plays scheduled for Fulton presentation are "Wild Oats Lane," "The Plot Thickens," "The Hero," "Call the Doctor," "The Mirage," "Daddy's Gone a Hunting," "Nice People," "Golden Days," "Tess of the Storm Country," a revival, and of course, Miss Lowe's new piece, "Marjorlaine."

* * *

McIntyre and Heath in "Red Pepper" will soon give way at Teller's Shubert to "The Hurricane" with Charles Richman.

* * *

During his stay in Oakland this week Ivan Bankoff, the Russian dancer, will continue his search for dancing talent for next season's act. Bankoff wants girls from seven to twenty and is conducting try-outs at the theater.

* * *

After-pieces seem to be the new order of the day in vaudeville. York and King and Doc Baker staged a riotous one at the Orpheum last week and word trickles along the line that George McKay and Ottie Ardine, Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield, and Jack Wilson are staging afterpieces with the acts on the respective bills with them.

PROBE FINDS C-2 STRUCTURE WEAK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 19.—A board of officers at Brooks Field completed last night the investigation of the destruction of the army dirigible C-2, which occurred here Tuesday morning, resulting in injuries to seven passengers and members of the crew. That a part of the fabric of the envelope, where a handling guy way fastened, was not strong enough to endure the strain from a stiff gale, was the report of the board. The report bears out the statement of Major H. A. Strauss, commander, soon after the accident.

Air service officials agreed that if the structure of the ship had not been weak the gale would not have caused the damage. Photographs show that a six foot square section of the envelope was torn out with one of the handling guys.

After three guide ropes gave way the ship broke away from the ground and crashed into the hangar door, resting upon the steel frame work, where it was destroyed by fire a few seconds later.

"Giving the Bird" British for "Razz" King's Kin Bares

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Lord Louis Mountbatten, a cousin to the King of England, and his bride, Lady Edwina Mountbatten, said to be the richest woman in that kingdom, arrived here yesterday on their honeymoon tour of the United States.

His lordship gave to newspaper interviewers an illustratiton of his phrase "giving the bird," which sprang into instant popularity after he himself first voiced it in speaking to Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, in a world series contest at New York.

"You ask for a definition of 'the bird,'" he said. "That's rather hard. Tersely, I should say the one receiving 'the bird' has met with somewhat of a rebuke. It's something like 'giving him the raspberry,' you know. I'm wild over your American slang.

"Here's the best illustration that comes to me now. I read all your wonderful newspapers. Must keep up with affairs. Today I read of that jail break Mr. Wilson and some other fellows staged in your county jail here. Well, when Mr. Wilson and the other boys sent back the jail keys with their compliments to your sheriff, well, they were 'giving him the bird,' yes, nothing but 'the bird.'

"Then I read that your sheriff captured them and brought them back to his jail house. And there he was 'giving them the bird' right back. Righto."

Lord and Lady Mountbatten, whose principal object in coming here was to see how motion pictures are made in the Hollywood district, are occupying the Beverly Hills residence of Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford. They will visit no other Pacific Coast points.

With Charlie Chaplin the titled visitors saw Hollywood, and his lordship introduced a new game which he called "decameron." It is played this way, he said: Pick out a woman with a mole on her face and shout, "Yoohoo! Decameron!" That counts 15 points. The first to make 60 points wins. Any number may play.

Lord Mountbatten says he likes all Americans except the New York and Chicago reporters, who quoted him as saying, "My word!" "'Pon my soul" and "Wot! Wot! Wot!" He told Los Angeles reporters: "Quote me as saying anything at all, but don't make me talk like a London dude."

When asked what he thought about the "movies," after he had been shown about by Chaplin, his fellow countryman, his lordship did not say "toppin'," "jolly well," "clevah," "ripping," "bah jove," or anything like that. He said:

"They quite surpassed my expectations."

MIDDLE CLASS BUY GEMS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Austrian and Russian jewels worth 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 francs have been purchased during the past year by middle class men and women in America and Europe without influencing the price tendencies of the gem markets, Pierre Cartier, head of the Cartier jewel firm, declared today, following his return from a trip abroad.

LUTHERANS OUT OF COUNCIL

BUFFALO, N. Y. Oct. 19.—The United Lutheran Church in America, in annual session here, decided yesterday upon recommendation of the executive committee, not to join the Federal Council of Churches in America. It will, however, establish consulting relations with the council.

All roads lead to Idora Park today.

This is TRIBUNE DAY at the big Eastbay Manufacturers' Exposition now under way at the popular amusement park.

The big attendance, however, started at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the hour set for the opening of the exposition tent.

Not only are THE TRIBUNE guests given free admission to the park and exposition, but also free concessions—various Idora funmakers, both afternoon and evening.

SEE MOVIE MADE.

They are also admitted free to view the actual making of a moving picture drama, as "shot" by the Ivor McFadden independent producing company of Hollywood, featuring Jack Connolly, assisted by Betty Marvyn, Harry A. Smith, Ray Bassett, Dot Dyer and others.

Then there is THE TRIBUNE's free dance in the picturesque and charming dancing pavilion with a jazz orchestra furnishing the syncopated music.

Tonight the principal gift will be a Westgate Electric Cooker in addition to a Morpheus Crib Mattress, gift of the Star Mattress Company; Cardinet Candy Company "Nob Hill Chocolates," Miller's ice cream, Ma Belle chocolates and various aluminum utensils.

Altogether TRIBUNE DAY and TRIBUNE NIGHT at the exposition will go down in the hearts of Eastbay folks, as a glorious remembrance.

Join the crowds at Idora tonight.

Record-breaking crowds are attending the Exposition.

Keen interest has been aroused in the "shooting" done by the Ivor McFadden producing company, direct from Hollywood, which came to the exposition to finish a number of scenes in the silent drama, "The Lone Coast Guardsman," a California story.

ACTRESS VISITS "FLASH."

Betty Marvyn, "the girl with the wonderful eyes," who plays opposite Jack Connolly in the silver screen play, took a few minutes off duty yesterday and strolled about the exhibition booths in her Wild West outfit. She nearly caused a riot. The cameraman found her in Morton & Taylor's Hoover automatic typewriter booth, where the exposition's daily paper, "The Exposition Flash," is printed. Eyrle Marvin, pressman, printer and make-up editor, made 14 typographical errors, when Miss Marvyn turned her orbs on him.

Tomorrow will be observed as "Labor and Industrial Day" at the big show. Edgar S. Hurley is scheduled for a brief address at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Hurley is a well-known labor leader. Organized labor is taking particular pride in the exposition by reason of the fact that its members, skilled men, are largely responsible for the splendid output of the manufacturing plants.

Saturday is Baby Show Day with more than 200 entries in the event. A silver loving cup will be presented the most perfect bady and blue ribbons given those judged 100 per cent babies.

And on Sunday comes the event supreme—the giving away of a 4-speed Ford touring car. The gift will be made at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night.

Mrs. W. R. Warren of 797 36th street, Oakland, will be riding about in a new Durant car soon. She was given a $500 order on the new car Tuesday which was celebrated as "Durant Day" at the exposition.

BABY AWARDS SATURDAY.

More than 200 babies will face the judgment seat when Dr. May Walker, Dr. H. E. Stafford, and Dr. Alvera Reische of the Baby Hospital, assisted by Miss Bertha Wright head of the baby clinic, will select the perfect baby at the Baby Show held at the East Bay Manufacturers' Exposition at Idora Park.

Babies have been registered from every corner of the East Bay and tomorrow they will be brought from Richmond, Hayward, Alameda, Berkeley and Oakland for the show. Numbers of little folks who have received blue ribbons and prizes at other baby shows have been entered and are out to add the big silver trophy from the exposition to their laurels. Enthusiasm is running high among mothers and fathers who have entered their youngsters.

Infants and children from six months to three years are qualified to enter the competition.

Judging will be based on these qualifications: General appearances, nutrition, development, skin, glands, eyes, hair, throat, condition of mouth.

All of the babies who are found by the doctors to make a one hundred per cent score for health will receive blue ribbons and it is from these blue ribbon youngsters that the perfect baby will be selected.

Entries for the show are being made every afternoon and evening at the Baby Show booth in the Exposition tent and additional registrations are made by telephone. Upon registering, each mother receives a card that she will present tomorrow afternoon when she brings her baby to be examined. The doctors will conduct the examination from 2 until 5 o'clock. The perfect baby, to whom the cup will be awarded, will be announced shortly after 5 o'clock.

Among the little tots who are entered for the show are: Harold James White, Wallace E. White, Josephine Estela Barker, Lucile Van Theerden, Eleanore June Brayshaw, Johnny Van Theerden, Marian Ellen Wylie, June Anna Smith, Howard Wilbur Carmack, Katherine M. SCOUTS ON JOB.

They act as messengers for the exhibitors and guides for the visitors. They find lost children and run errands for anyone who requests the service.

And they refuse to accept pay for their services.

"The Scouts have turned down $18 in tips offered by appreciative men and women whom they have helped," said Withington in telling of the Scouts. "But the boys ask no pay for their service. To them it is a Scout's duty to be courteous and obliging."

The boys have a fine exhibit of their own work on display and demonstrate first-aid, signalling and other features of Scout work.

Another distinctive hit of the show in an entertainment line is the Hawaiian Quartet, which sings the songs popular in the paradise isles. The feminine member of the quartet is Miss Lucy Paka, a charming little maid. Others are Prof. Joe Lopa, in charge; Henri Ahiena and Alexander Alcka.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I take this method of expressing my sentiments of appreciation to Dr. Wong Him for the wonderful cures he has effected in cases where several members of my family, including myself, were afflicted with serious maladys.

I also desire to be the means of guiding any one who is in need of medical advice, as he will find Dr. Wong Him to be a thoroughly reliable herb specialist and absolutely conscientious. Through an occurance experienced by a member of my family, I can, with the greatest regard for sincerity, state that after a consultation unless Dr. Wong Him is convinced that his herbs will effect a complete cure he will under no circumstances accept the case.

Very truly yours,

DON WOO HERB CO.

139 12th St. near Madison; Oak. 4224. Expert herbalist, forty years' successful experience in bay cities. Chosen Herbs relieve diseases without the knife; quick and permanent relief guaranteed in many cases. Consultation free of charge.

To Be a SUCCESSFUL Herbalist one must be able to convince the public of his ability by what he has done.

The reading public is certainly tired of quacks. The reason why so many herbalists, both old and young, are continually migrating from one city to another without succeeding in any, is that they believe they can make themselves great by putting a few ancient testimonials in the dailies and by claiming for themselves long experience, great ability, etc, without being able to substantiate their claims. Sick people want facts, not fiction; deeds, not words.

15 — AGENTS, SALESMEN WNTD.

ARE YOU A SUCCESS?
Though the knowledge of the law of success, we are taking men and women who are failures and half successes, making them over and putting them in positions in our organization where they can earn from $50 to $200 per week. Come up and shake hands with some people in your town who are doing it. Our simple method of success will be explained, and you are cordially invited to attend our free class of instruction at 1412 Park st., Alameda, Room 2, beginning tonight at 7:30 p. m.

A SELF-RESPECTING salesman, whose ambition is beyond his present place, might find more congenial employment with us and at the same time double his income; we require a man of character and determination who would appreciate a life's position with a national concern where industry would be rewarded with far above average earnings. Call bet. 2 and 4.

The only overcoat in the world

We invite the public to compare Foreman & Clark clothes with garments on display in any window in the city, regardless of place, price, or brand of manufacture!

The public is always welcome at Foreman & Clark. Come and see the largest stock of Autumn styles in the city. An education in clothing design and construction!

America's greatest suit of clothes

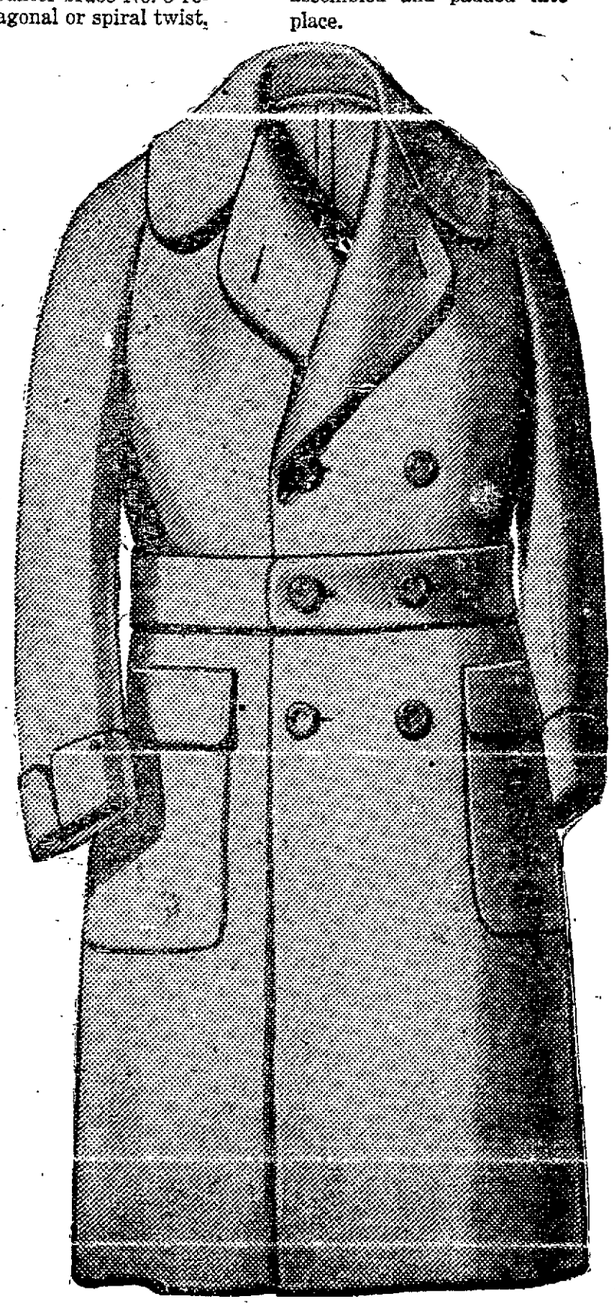

First in F. & C. Suits, Now in F. & C. Overcoats

1. Exclusive, tri-pivot Foreman & Clark sleeve, set and hung by hand, giving full freedom of arm motion.
2. Hand-shaped, hand-felled one-piece collar.
3. Pliable Belgian canvas coat body, instead of stiff cotton canvas,
4. 1/8-inch lock-stitched lapel; three fine rows of parallel threads instead of one or two.
5. Genuine silver Hymo instead of loosely woven haircloth.
6. Duo-stitched, triple-braced pocket-flap, double strength against sagging and tearing.

First in F. & C. Suits, Now in F. & C. Overcoats

7. Inverted V-curve coat skeleton supporting lower area of skirt as human muscles support the body.
8. Counter brace No. 1 resists up and down strain. Counter-brace No. 2 resists right to left pull. Counter-brace No. 3 resists diagonal or spiral twist,
9. Combination edge and skirt stay—starts where the average stay stops.
10. Entire front separately pieced, shaped and built into each garment; not preassembled and padded into place.

The greatest success of the clothing world is now being doubled! The famous "human-muscle" construction introduced from coast to coast last spring in Foreman & Clark suits has been transplanted into Foreman & Clark overcoats! Here are overcoats that will keep their shape, hold their style, stand abuse and stay good looking in the same famous way as Foreman & Clark suits.

This is a revolution in overcoat construction! It is a sensation this fall above all times. Other makers have done just the opposite—dropped out even ordinary inner tailoring to meet low prices. Yokes, trimmings, even sleeve linings, have been cut out. Nothing inside to anchor style, nothing to retain shape, nothing to prolong wear. No wonder Foreman & Clark are doing the overcoat business of the city! No wonder men are coming up these stairs pell mell. We said 200,000 new customers in 1922! Looks like 300,000 now! Watch our total list of 500,000 yearly buyers grow. Watch our $10,000,000 mark go past! This is our season! We earned it. We're getting it. We've put out a product that is honest and wonderful. The public knows it. The public built us. It gave us success. We're paying it back now—and we say this honestly and conscientiously—with the greatest suit and overcoat that any American clothing producer ever offered to the American public within $10 to $30 of these prices!

You do not have to WAIT for rock-bottom prices at Foreman & Clark. We give every man the same value whether he buys at the beginning of the season or the end. That's our idea of fair play.
